Brownell Seeks Cleanup At Wollaston Beach

An immediate clean-up of Wollaston Beach by the MDC has been requested by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) who said he has received complaints of the unsightly and deplorable condition of the beach.

In a letter to MDC Commr. John F. Snedeker, the legislator said he has been informed that "bottles, beer cans, trash, and other litter are all over the beach, especially in the area between River Rd. and the Wollaston Yacht Club."

He said the conditions had been brought to his attention by residents of the area and asked that prompt steps be taken to correct the situation.

"These deplorable conditions should not be allowed to continue especially when you consider that the beaches at Nantasket and Revere Beach are well kept all year round," Brownell said in his letter.

Court Reform

The Mass House is currently discussing the long awaited Court Reform Package. Court Reform is both a legislative and gubernatorial priority. The House leadership has promised to put a reform bill on the governor's desk this year.

The Senate recently approved a version of the Cox Commission Report and the House began debate on Monday. The House has over 50 amendments to consider. Debate will focus on the appointment or election of a chief administrator, the combining of the courts, transfers for judges to ease workloads, and judicial pay raises. I will have more on this in my next article. I hold office hours at my district office, 69 Billings Rd., on MWF 8:30 - 10 a.m. and W 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or 727-7035.

Sheets Pushes For Air Noise Monitoring At N.Q.-Squantum

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has reiterated a request that the Mass Port Authority's Noise Abatement Office install equipment in the North Quincy-Squantum area to monitor noise from Logan Airport.

Sheets' request came as a result of a meeting held last week with the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and officials from Massport.

Local residents brought to the attention of Massport the many problems caused by aircraft flight patterns over the north end of the city.

Some of the problems are unavoidable, Sheets said, adding he hopes that through monitoring and working with the Federal Aeronautics Administration residents will get some relief from those that are.

Sheets said Massport told him it is currently planning to increase the number of noise monitoring stations and he feels it is only fair that the North Quincy-Squantum area get one of them.

Ward 5 Councillor-elect Stephen McGrath Sees

ENC's Future, Downtown Development Major Issues

[This is the second in a series of in-depth interviews with those elected to new offices in Quincy city government in November and will assume their new posts Jan. 3]

By TOM HENSHAW

Stephen J. McGrath, a 24-year-old Wollaston law student, astonished observers of the Quincy political scene last month when he upset two-term Councillor Warren A. Powers to win the Ward 5 seat.

Who is Stephen J. McGrath? What are his views on the issues that face the city of Quincy? What kind of a city councillor is he going to be? What are his political ambitions?

In a recent interview with The Quincy Sun, McGrath made these points:

● The big issue in Ward 5 is the future of Eastern Nazarene College.

"I hope to God it stays. They're nice people down there. They're good neighbors. But we have to get more neighborhood involvement in their future plans."

● He hesitates to criticize Warren Powers, but....

"I think any person who runs against an incumbent has to criticize his performance. I'm not blasting him out of the water. In many ways he was a busy guy and he lost touch with the people around here."

● Downtown development is the important citywide issue.

"If you continue to ignore the downtown area for the next couple of years, then forget it. It's going to be absolutely a lost cause. Unless we turn that around, Quincy's in a lot of trouble."

● Two years of turmoil followed by an era of good feeling could be equally dangerous.

"I'm interested in a Council president who will have things running smoothly but not rubber stamping everything. The last two years were turmoil. The danger this time might be in having things slide by without questioning."

SUN: You're new to politics. Tell us something about your background.

McGRATH: I was born in Dorchester. We moved to Quincy when I was a year old. I went to St. Ann's School, Archbishop Williams and Boston College and now I'm in my third year at Suffolk Law School. This past summer I clerked in Robert Smith's law office in Boston. I left in September, figuring I'd gamble and spend all my time campaigning and going to law school. It paid off.

SUN: What are you doing now?

McGRATH: I'm unemployed. Just trying to put together my third year in law school is taking up most of my time. And you'd be amazed at how busy I've been with different obligations, dinners, functions and things like that. It's enjoyable, though. I love it.

SUN: How about your family?

McGRATH: My sister, Pat, is a graduate student at the University of Pittsburgh, getting a degree in speech therapy. My brother, David, is a freshman at Stonehill. Pat's two years younger than me. I'm the oldest in the family.

SUN: What does your father do?

McGRATH: My father's dead. He died in 1975. He was an engineer, heating, piping and air conditioning.

SUN: Any of your family ever in politics?

McGRATH: No, not really. My mother and father were never like that.

SUN: Did you work for any candidates before?

McGRATH: Yeah. In the second or third grade, I was very friendly with George Smith's son, Kevin. Mr. Smith was running for school committee and we passed out cards at the Wollaston School. I worked in Bob Quinn's campaign when he ran for governor in 1974. I was an advance man for him. And I worked for Joe Brett when he ran for mayor in 1971. I passed out flyers and held signs. At that age you don't really do anything.

SUN: A great deal was made during the campaign that you worked at Brigham's in Wollaston. Is that where you made your name?

McGRATH: Gee, I hope not. I worked there for six years, through my last year in high school and through college. I can't belittle the fact that it was good facial recognition. Many times during the campaign I'd go to a door and they'd say, "Gee, I've seen you some place before." I'd say, "Yeah, at Brigham's." They'd say, "Yeah. Yeah." We had many discussions about whether we wanted to put that on the pass out cards or not. I didn't want it there. Then I went out knocking on doors one night and so many people said, "Gee, I've seen you someplace before," that I came back and had it put on the card.

SUN: Why did you decide to run?

McGRATH: I think any politician has two basic reasons for running. One of them is his own reason and shouldn't be of too much interest to the public. That's his own sense of ambition. I hate to use the word but that's what it is. You want to make your mark in a way. I've always gotten a great deal of satisfaction out of politics. The second reason is more important to the public. It's just the fact that you see some good to be done, some problem that hasn't been addressed or something that isn't being done the right way.

SUN: What were some of them?

McGRATH: The downtown Wollaston area; a lot of empty stores and stuff. I think it's symptomatic in a way. The downtown Quincy development, you see a lot of that going down. Something's got to be done about it. Another problem was Eastern Nazarene College's future. I think over the next couple of months that's something you're going to see quite a bit of. I think ENC has tended to lose touch with a lot of its area residents. In past plans for expansion it was almost as if the residents were presented with the plan like a fait accompli, they had to go along with it because it was the only plan they had. I'd like to see an attitude of, "Well, let's sit down and see what you like and what you don't like." It was something I didn't think was as aggressively handled as it could have been.

SUN: Are you being critical of the previous councillor?

McGRATH: Indirectly, I am. I don't know Warren terribly well. He and I were very cordial throughout the campaign. I think the two mayoral candidates could take a leaf from our book. At least we were speaking to each other. But, to answer your question, yeah, I think any person who runs against an incumbent has to criticize his performance. But I'm not blasting him out of the water. I think in many ways, well, he was a busy guy and he had lost touch with the people around here.

SUN: Why do you feel you won?

McGRATH: A number of reasons. The cliché is "Well, I worked hard." I did work hard and that was a factor. But there's more than that. No. 1, I think there was a feeling of "Let's get some new blood in there." I think there was that feeling of general disgust, in a way, with the way things were being run. I don't mean that as critical of Warren because a councillor doesn't have a heck of a lot to do with the way things in general have been running. Another thing, we had a good organization. We had a lot of hard-working people who went out and did the job for us.

SUN: Who were some of them?

McGRATH: John Flynn across the street was real helpful from the primary on. A good friend of mine, Leonard Sullivan, who doesn't live in this ward, was my right arm. It was a weird campaign in a way because we didn't have a primary to gauge our strength.

SUN: It must have made it difficult.

McGRATH: It was and it wasn't. At primary time we had a relaxing atmosphere. But we had workers out at the polls. It was a good way to get my name out to new people. Anybody who voted that day you could be sure would vote in the election.

SUN: I would imagine the

STEPHEN J. McGRATH - "If you ignore downtown for the next couple of years, forget it. It's just going to be an absolute lost cause."

lack of a primary would have been a help to you in that it didn't permit Warren to gauge your strength.

McGRATH: Absolutely. If there were three candidates and we had a primary and I came in first or a close second he would have been in there saying "Gee, he did well" and he'd have seven weeks to make it up. As it was, Nov. 8 came up and there was no way to gauge it. Also we saved a lot of money by not having a primary. We saved it for a push in November. Let's see, what else helped us win? I guess you'd have to say the political unrest in the city.

SUN: You mean what's been going on between Tobin and LaRaia?

McGRATH: Definitely. People want to see a stop to that. I didn't know either mayoral candidate terribly well. Both Joe and Arthur were very good to me during the campaign. By that I mean they said, "If you need any help" I tried never to comment on the mayor's race during the campaign. But it was obvious there was a big fight going on.

SUN: And that helped you?

McGRATH: I think so.

SUN: Even though Warren didn't take any role in it?

McGRATH: Yes. Warren was never identified as a Tobin man, or a LaRaia man and yet, in a way, he suffered from the unrest that was out there.

SUN: How much money did you spend?

McGRATH: We raised close to $4,000. I think it was $3,800 the last time I added it up. We spent about that. We've got about $16 left.

SUN: Is that what you planned to spend?

McGRATH: No. Two years ago when I was first toying with the idea of running, I said, "Well, $1,000 ought to do it." I didn't expect to spend this much. Postage kills you. The newspaper ads kill you. Yours aren't bad but the Ledger's are murder. Those are the two things that really kill you.

SUN: Where did the money come from?

McGRATH: We had two fund-raisers, $5 dances. And we had some donations from friends.

SUN: Did you have any problems because of your youth?

McGRATH: No, none at all. I used to hear it all the time in the campaign: "We need young people." Which is funny because it wasn't as if Warren was Methuselah. He's only 36. I'm only 24. Two years from now I'll probably have a 17-year-old kid run against me and beat me.

SUN: You mentioned you started two years ago. What specifically started you?

McGRATH: Two years ago, Eastern Nazarene College wanted to build a married students dorm on Speakman St. and they had a hearing up at City Hall. I wasn't at the hearing but two good friends of mine were very upset about the attitude the college had about expanding. They seemed to say, "We have a plan here and here's the plan. We'll tell you about it. But we will not have any input from you on it." They were real upset about that. They expressed that to me and they said, "You know you ought to run for ward councillor." This was in June of '75. We looked at it. I was 22 then. We had no time for preparation. We decided to wait for two years. Last winter, after the presidential election, I started speaking to a few people and putting some kind of an organization together.

SUN: How did people receive you?

McGRATH: It was funny. Some of my people used to come back and say, "I think you ought to hang it up. No one knows who you are." Of course, they didn't. I had never run before. When I went out it was different. People always treat the candidate differently. They're always more polite. They said to me, "Oh, sure, I'll sign your papers." The vast majority of people were very responsive, door-to-door.

SUN: What kind of a councillor will you be - quiet,

Wollaston Realtors Attend 'Refresher' Course

Three members of the Jack Conway Real Estate Co., Wollaston office were among 50 sales associates of the company to participate in a week-long real estate education program at the Lantana in Randolph.

Grace Watson, Maureen McCaffrey and Jane Eastman took part in the course sponsored by the Realtors Institute of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors.

The three-part course is designed to increase the individual's knowledge of real estate, enhance their professionalism and keep them up to date on the changes and innovations in the real estate field. It is mandatory to obtain the designation GRI, Graduate Realtors Institute.

Taxi Owner Wins 500 Gallons Of Gasoline

Money is always acceptable, but Al Bradish, 131 Clay St., Wollaston, has received an equally acceptable prize - 500 gallons of gasoline.

Bradish operates Al's Cab and is a familiar figure at Foster and Chestnut Streets, near Quincy district court, where he has his cab stand.

He was top winner in the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association's "Your Choice" promotion. The choice being the gasoline or 500 gallons of fuel oil.

Almost 50,000 coupons were distributed through 41 Quincy Center merchants during the promotion.

So - if you take Al's Cab you won't have to worry about running out of gas.

Trophies Awarded At Babe Ruth Banquet

The Quincy Babe Ruth League teams held their annual banquet recently at Morrisette Legion Post with trophies being presented to the players, coaches and sponsors of the four teams tied for first place in the National League.

The four teams are Police Boys Club, Granite City Electric, Local 1139 and Morrisette Post.

Also receiving trophies were the players, coaches and sponsors of Elks and the city champion Firemen Local 792, which tied for first in the American League.

Head table guests included League President Hugh Salvatore, Commissioner George Derrane, Junior League President Peter Cappola and sponsors representing the 12

League teams.

The Kenneth Battista Memorial Award for the National League's Most Valuable Player was presented by the Police Boys Club to Bob Biagini of Hancock Bank.

The Paul Grasso Memorial Award for the American League's MVP was presented by Houghs Neck Legion to Bill Deitsch of Barry's Deli.

North 9th Grade Girls Finish With 9-4 Record

The North Quincy ninth grade girls' basketball team this year enjoyed its best season with a 9-4 record and finished second in the city league.

"We had a great turnout of 18 girls," said Coach Paul Bregoli. "This was terrific for us, considering the inconvenience of double sessions. Fifteen of the girls stayed with it through the season and they were fantastic. They worked very hard, practicing every night from 5:15 to 7:15.

"Most of the girls had played little, if any, basketball so we were starting from scratch. But their attitude and hard work certainly paid off. An example of this is the fact they lost one game to Broad Meadows last year by 40 points. Although we lost all three games to Meadows this year, none was by more than seven points. In fact, we lost our last game to them by two points on a basket with one second left."

Center Faith Lindberg was the young Raiderettes' leading scorer, followed by guards Jackie Thayer and Kim Alberti, a transfer from Dennis-Yarmouth High.

Theresa Palma, Lauren Apollo and Gail Stack were all outstanding forwards. Denise Woodman was the number one substitute at guard.

Others on the squad were Karen Sorenson, Robin Lindberg, Laurie DiCroce, Cindy Coutts, Barbara Johnson, Maureen McCarthy, Janet Hanrahan and Karen Sullivan.

"The season was very rewarding for me," Bregoli said. "These girls were 0-12 a year ago. We had only four days of practice before our first game and we lost to Sterling by 20 points. We beat them the next time and their improvement in such a short time was remarkable, especially under such adverse conditions.

"They worked hard, listened well and, I feel, learned a lot. I hope they all play next year because they all would be a great asset to Brian Tilley's program at North."

Church League Opens 68th Season Saturday

The South Shore YMCA Church School Basketball League will open its 68th consecutive season Saturday with a full slate of games scheduled.

Seeing action at Central Junior High in Braintree will be the Midget Girls Division, also the Braintree Samson and Daniel Divisions.

At Broadmeadow Junior High School, the Quincy Samsons and Daniels, - also the Goliath Division, will hold forth. The Junior Girls and Intermediate Girls Divisions will be at Atlantic Junior High School, while the Jonathans and Davids will use the facilities of Quincy High School.

The season for the Senior Girls Division will open Saturday, Jan. 7. Entry blanks for participation in this division will be accepted at the YMCA, but no later than Saturday, Dec. 17. Late entries cannot be accepted.

League schedules for the various divisions are available at the main desk at the YMCA.

Mancusos, Father And Son, Pace Koch Men

The Mancuso father and son team have taken over the top two positions in the average department of the Koch Club Men's Bowling League.

Al Mancuso leads the loop with 104.1 and his son Steve is in second spot with 103.6. Other bowlers in the top 10 include:

Jim Moody, 103.0; Jim Cocce, 102.5; Paul Koch Jr., 100.6; Walter Zukauskas, 100.4; Tony Monti, 100.3; Jack Callahan, 100.0; Steve O'Brien, 99.5 and John O'Malley, 99.2.

In the remaining individual scoring honors, Paul Koch Jr. holds high three string total of 368 and high single string of 142.

Sharing the team honors in the league is Jim Moody's team No. 6 showing the way with a 32-8 record while Al Mancuso's team No. 1 has the high three string total of 1487 and Jim Cocce's high team single of 532.

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League, one of the oldest activities in the organization, was formed in September of 1950, 28 years ago, with 30 bowlers participating at the Norfolk Downs Alleys. The league at present bowls every Tuesday evening at 7 at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome on Quincy Shore Drive.

A few openings are available and men interested in joining can contact Don Thomas, president; Art Thomas, secretary; or Jim Cocce, treasurer, at the alleys on any Tuesday evening.

Burke: 'I'm Happy For Hank'

Conroy's Finale A Day To Long Remember

By TOM SULLIVAN

Hank Conroy won a lot of games in 14 years as Quincy's football coach, but the greatest win of all came this past Thanksgiving Day.

The soft-spoken coach, who had been an all-scholastic back at Quincy and led the Presidents to wins over North Quincy in 1941 and 1942 (he was captain in his senior year), went into last week's game with mixed emotions.

It was to be Conroy's final game as Quincy coach. He needed a win to even his coaching record against North at 7-7. His team went into the game with four successive shutout wins.

He admitted it will be tough leaving coaching after 25 years as a head coach, assistant and junior high coach, and that he will miss the players. Through the years many of his players have gone on to college and are now family men with good jobs.

Hank's players saw to it his finale would be one to remember, as they took advantage of North Quincy's mistakes, played a brilliant two-way game and came away with a surprisingly easy 34-8 win before nearly 15,000 fans, the biggest crowd in years.

The win was Quincy's 23rd in the 45-game series. North has won 19 and there have been three scoreless ties.

Following the game, which gave Quincy a 7-3 mark and dropped North to 5-4, Conroy had a hard time holding back the tears as he praised his entire team.

"I think we played it perfectly," he said in his usual quiet, calm voice. "Every player outdid himself and our coaches did a fine job preparing for this game. The offensive line was just unbelievable as they got away fast and opened gaping holes for our running backs.

"The running backs were outstanding and the defense was just as tremendous. When they began to stop our outside game, we moved inside. We have the ball carriers to do this and the way the offensive line was working, they did their job well."

quarterback who was a questionable starter, was especially outstanding. He had injured his shoulder in the previous game and the doctor had said it would be two to three weeks before it would be all right.

However, Mark, who had suffered an early kidney injury and missed the last seven games a year ago, was determined not to miss this North Quincy game. The doctor gave him permission to play but advised him not to play defense, where he is as outstanding as he is on offense.

All Giordani did was gain 96 yards in nine carries and score three touchdowns on runs of 15, 40 and one yard.

But Mark wasn't the only offensive star by any means. Len Picot gained 64 yards on 11 carries and scored a touchdown and Ralph Pickering, a junior, had 60 yards and a touchdown on

THE QUEENS - The Quincy and North Quincy football queens received bouquets prior to the Thanksgiving game. six carries.

The offensive line was just about perfect and asst. coach John Bogan singled out Vin Harte, Pete Cassidy, Kevin Zambruno, Kevin Boudreau, Tod Caflich, Mike Duggan and Ron Dovovan.

The defense also made few mistakes and the halftime figures pretty well tell the story. While the Presidents were gaining 235 yards, they held North to just 20 yards as they took a 27-0 lead off the field at the intermission.

Asst coach Bill Maver lauded Donovan, Jim Maze, Paul DeGrassie, Mark Assad, Cassidy, Rich Burnes, Rich Coose, Dave Eastwick, Rich Gilbody, Don Heath, Pickering and Picot.

North Coach Dave Burke, who was assistant to Conroy at Quincy for many years, said, "They could have beaten just about anyone out there today. They did a fantastic job. We made too many mistakes and they took advantage of every one.

"I'm happy for Hank, it was a fine way for him to go out. We are good friends and I wish him the best. As for our boys, they didn't quit and kept battling and played a pretty good second half."

Despite Rain, Stadium In Good Shape

The field was in perfect condition for the Quincy-North game last week, thanks to a plastic tarpaulin placed over the field during the week and removed just before game time by the Park Department.

Despite rain, drizzle and fog prior to the game, there were no complaints about the playing conditions.

Donahue, Wilson See 45th Game

Jack, who says, "I had to be at the first 28 because I was the coach," hasn't missed one since.

Another who has seen all 45 games is former Quincy principal George Wilson.

Highlights Of THE GAME In Photos

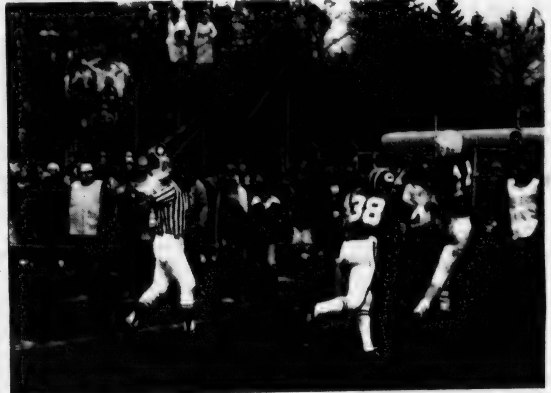

PLENTY OF NOISE - Quincy's fans had their day on Thanksgiving and had plenty to cheer about as their team finished with a big win over rival North.

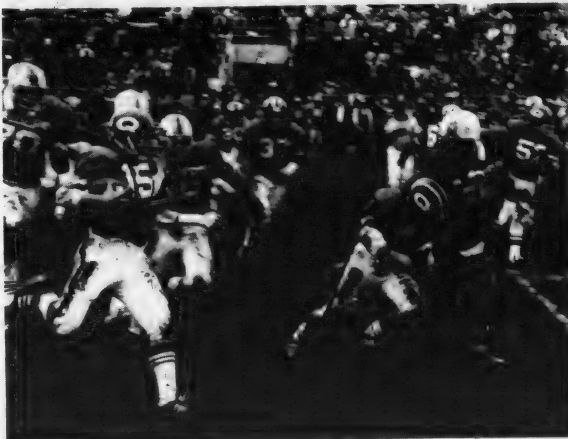

QUIET CROWD - North Quincy's fans had little to cheer about in the holiday game as their team was walloped by Quincy.

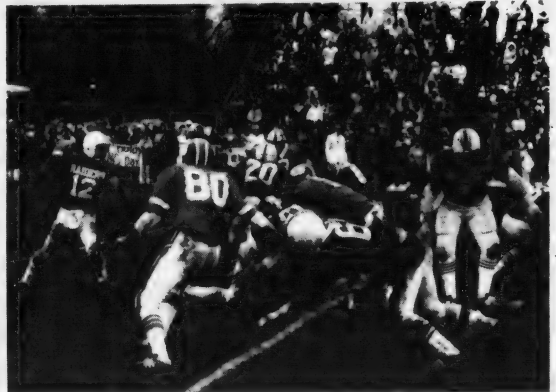

ONE OF THREE - Mark Giordani of Quincy goes around the right side for one of his three touchdowns in the big win over North Quincy.

NORTH'S SCORE - Kurt O'Sullivan takes Kevin Cobban's pass for North Quincy's only touchdown against Quincy in the final 14 seconds of the game.

ALMOST, NOT QUITE - Quincy quarterback John Houten races around right end and just missed scoring as he was tackled on North's two-yard line.

CRANKING UP - North Quincy's Kevin Cobban cranks up for a pass against Quincy. His pass to Kurt O'Sullivan accounted for the Raiders' only touchdown.

putting the first defense back to preserve the unscored-upon streak. "That's not what it's all about. Dave and I are too good friends. I told the boys not to worry, they weren't giving up the touchdown." North's deepest penetration in the first half was Quincy's 47.

Quincy finished with a net of 266 yards on the ground to just 46 for North. North picked up 80 yards passing on six of 15, all against Quincy's reserves in the second half, while Quincy had 43 yards on three for six. Each team benefited by a pass interference call. Quincy had 13 first downs and North nine.

North's defense twice held Quincy early in the game, forcing punts, but the Raiders' troubles began midway in the first period when Burnes recovered a fumble on North's 45.

Five plays later Giordani pitched out to Picot, who went 19 yards for the touchdown. Maze kicked the point.

A few plays later the Presidents made it 13-0, when they went 56 yards in five plays following a Kurt O'Sullivan punt. This time it was Pickering who went 17 yards.

A pass interference call against North gave Quincy a first down on North's 25, and two plays later Giordani went through the left side for 15 yards and Maze kicked the 20 point.

The Presidents marched 72 yards in six plays as the offensive line was absolutely brilliant and Giordani, on a beautiful fake handoff, raced unmolested around right end for 40 yards to make it 27-0. Everyone went to the left as Giordani fooled everyone. Maze kicked the point.

Early in the third period Coose intercepted a Cobban pass and returned it to North's 20 and five plays later Giordani scored from the one and Maze kicked his fourth point.

Conroy used his subs the rest of the way and North, clicking off four first downs, drove to Quincy's 21 but was stopped.

Late in the game the Raiders' drove from their 47 as Cobban hit Mike Gallagher for 22 yards, found O'Sullivan for 12 and with just 14 seconds remaining, found O'Sullivan all alone in the end zone and hit him for the touchdown. Cobban passed to Gallagher for the points.

Eastwick provided a thrill as he returned the kickoff all the way from his 20 to North's 35.

Quincy, North Wrestlers In Sit-a-thon

The Quincy and North Quincy High wrestling teams will sponsor a sit-a-thon Saturday from 8 to 5 in Quincy Vo-Tech gym (upper level).

The members of both teams will be doing situps in an attempt to raise funds for their respective clubs. Each boy has obtained a number of sponsors who will be paying him a sum of money per 100 situps.

Each wrestler (there will be about 50) will be trying to do 1,000 situps without stopping.

Refreshments will be served throughout the day and the public is invited to offer the boys some morale or financial support.

Exercise regularly.

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow... either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls. Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

Call us today for more information on our homeowner's warranty and a free estimate. You need to insulate your home only once. Do it right. Call us today!

McGrath Sees ENC's Future, Downtown Development Major Issues

controversial, what?

McGRATH: I think I'll be hard-working and by that I mean helping people in my ward. These are the people who elected you. These are the ones you have to be careful of. You have to do the job for them. I guess you'd call it constituent service. If you flub up on that, you're dead.

SUN: What do you see as the most important issues, in the ward and in the city?

McGRATH: As a ward councillor, I think the most important issue is Eastern Nazarene College and its future. It's something I think affects the whole ward, even the whole city. I hope to God it stays. They're nice people down there. They're good neighbors. A college, you have to remember, is completely different from any other kind of neighbor. If you have any other kind of college, a commuter college, for example, parking would be worse, a hundred times worse. The Eastern Nazarene police themselves and for that reason I think they're assets to the community. What I object to is the fact that we have to get more neighborhood involvement in their future plans.

SUN: Do you have any ideas for them?

McGRATH: They have to expand. We're kidding ourselves if we don't think that. All I ask is that they be frank. How much do they want to expand? If they say 400 students, okay, then let's look at what you need for 400 students. How big a dorm do you need? Where can you put it? As far as concrete proposals, no, I don't have any. I'm supposed to meet with them and see what kind of plans they have. Remember that the college, as far as they're concerned, is moving. They've given until the end of the school year, June, 1978, to explore all possibilities of staying in Wollaston.

SUN: Any other issues?

McGRATH: We've mentioned development already. That's a citywide issue. I think if you continue to ignore the downtown area for the next couple of years, then forget it. It's going to be absolutely a lost cause. Unless we actively turn that around, then Quincy's in a lot of trouble.

SUN: How do you feel about the LaRaia downtown development plan?

McGRATH: It might be a little grandiose. My biggest concern is let's see who the developer is. Make sure it's a responsible developer, not someone who's going to walk in and make his buck and then leave. Let's see what we're going to put in there before we start tearing down.

SUN: What's your ambition in politics?

McGRATH: The most important thing right now is to do a good job in this job I've been elected to. You can't plan the future, not in this business. Bill Delahunt was elected in '71 and four years later he was appointed D.A. There was a question of being in the right place at the right time. If you start saying to yourself, "This is my next goal," you're going to have that next goal in mind and it will affect your current job. It's a bad attitude to have.

SUN: Would you like to be mayor in, say, 10 years?

McGRATH: Oh, no, I don't think I'd want to be mayor. Mayor's a funny job. The attrition rate is high; a couple of terms and everyone hates you. It's not on my list of goals right now.

SUN: Who are you going to vote for Council president?

McGRATH: I can't give you a name. I haven't made up my mind. I was a little surprised how quickly after election people were asking me about it, lobbying me. I told all three candidates: "I'll sit down with you. I want to ask you different questions about issues that I'm interested in in my ward."

SUN: It sounds like you're going to bargain with them.

McGRATH: You could look at it that way. You could also say I'm interested in what their views are.

SUN: What kind of views are you looking for?

McGRATH: I want to see

IN COUNCIL

ORDERED:

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows: "Chapter 22 of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy is hereby amended by adding the following new Section 5A:

Sec. 52. Safety of persons, etc.

Any person receiving a permit to open, occupy, obstruct, use, dig into or break up any public street or of private way in the City of Quincy, or portion thereof, in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section, shall maintain at his or its expense such patrolmen of the City of Quincy, but in no event less than one [1] patrolman at each street location designated in each permit required to be issued, as the Chief of Police may deem necessary, to avoid, so far as reasonably possible, danger to the safety of persons and interference with the free circulation of vehicular traffic. For the purposes of this section, no emergency or like permits shall be issued granting blanket or similar permission to open, occupy, obstruct, use, dig into or break up more than one [1] particular or separate street location per permit.

Any person receiving a permit to open or opening a manhole in any public street or of private way in the City of Quincy shall maintain at his or its expense such patrolmen of the City of Quincy as the Chief of Police may deem necessary, to avoid, so far as reasonably possible, danger to the safety of persons and interference with vehicular traffic.

Failure on the part of any such person to maintain such detail shall be cause for revocation of such permit, or the closing down of the opening, obstructing, using, digging into or breaking up of any public street or of private way in the City of Quincy by police officers of the City of Quincy until such detail is maintained.

In the event of an emergency which requires the opening, obstructing, using, digging into, or breaking up of any public street or of private way in the City of Quincy by a person not able to obtain a permit because of the hour, such person shall immediately notify the officer in charge of Quincy Police Headquarters in order that the necessary patrolmen, but in no event less than one [1] patrolman as designated by said officer at each separate street location or place of such opening, obstructing, using, digging into, or breaking up of such street shall be assigned at the expense of such person."

Six Licensed Operators

Amateur Radio Club 'Sparks' New Interests At Central Junior

By PETER BARNICLE

Reading and writing are still of prime concern, but some students at Central Junior High School, 1012 Hancock St., Quincy, have added a new interest - ham radio.

The students admit they never heard of Jack Phillips, the radio operator on the Titanic when it went down in April, 1912, but they aspire to being as adept at the key.

The Amateur Radio Club at the school received its license from the Federal Communications Commission last June and already has seven licensed operators.

James Havens, a mathematics teacher at the school, is trustee of the club. Havens said that should he be transferred from the school, another teacher might be named advisor to the group. However, since the FCC sanction was granted on the basis of his license he would remain as trustee so the club might continue to be officially recognized.

Havens said the club is presently seeking affiliation with the National Relay League, an organization of amateur radio operators.

"Affiliation with the League would bring us a number of benefits," Havens said. "They would provide certain curriculum materials without charge. In addition we would get help in setting up courses in electronics theory and also in Morse code. One of the reasons this is important, is that all amateurs are required to take an examination to prove they have a working knowledge of the code to get a license."

Once an amateur has his first license he can advance to a general license. With this he can advance to voice broadcasting, television, facsimile and other phases of electronics.

Members of the club are instructed in the fundamentals of radio before applying for their licenses.

"We provide a mini course which allows them to get involved and learn what radio is all about without any commitment of time or money," Havens said.

He also pointed out that membership in the club is not restricted to students at Central Junior High School, but is open to all junior high school students in the city.

Charles Federica, 464 Quincy St., South Quincy, is in the mini course and hopes to go into the service and make a career out of radio work. He has been a member of the club since it was established a year ago and has been interested in radio for at least three years.

"I have an uncle in Brookton who is a ham operator and he got me interested," Federica said.

Other members of the mini course include: Suzi Finnegan, 49 Whitney Rd., Glynis Beardsley, 44 Russell Pk., both Quincy Center; Lisa Tenaglia, 24 Standish Ave., and Debbie Buckley, 58 Summit Ave., both of Wollaston.

"I'm interested in being a 'DJ' and the club gives me a chance to find out about how radio works," Debbie Buckley said.

He's Cautious But--

Quinn Appears To Have City Council Presidency

By TOM HENSHAW

With four weeks remaining before the formal vote, John J. Quinn appears to have a lock on the presidency of the 1978-79 City Council.

"We're still discussing matters with various people," Quinn told The Quincy Sun cautiously. "But I think it looks very promising."

"I think Quinn's got the votes now," said Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., who acknowledges that he is committed to vote for the dean of the City Council.

"It's boiled down to a matter of jockeying among those with political careers on their minds whether they cast the fifth or sixth vote."

It will take five of the nine Council votes to be elected Council president and the fifth vote will be in the spotlight as the one that puts Quinn over the top. Voting alphabetically, the fifth vote will be cast by Francis X. McCauley, who says he will not vote for Quinn. The sixth vote will be that of Stephen J. McGrath, who says he is still uncommitted.

Harrington Torpedoes Special School Committee Election

There will be no special election to fill the vacancy on the School Committee created by the coming resignation of City Councillor-elect Francis X. McCauley.

And McCauley is not going to resign until "a couple of minutes before 10 a.m. on Jan. 3" when he is sworn in as a member of the City Council.

At that time, or shortly thereafter, the City Council and the School Committee will meet in joint convention to cast ballots for his successor.

The City Council Monday night turned down a proposal by Councillors James A. Sheets and John J. Lydon that the McCauley vacancy be filled by way of a special election.

Actually, the Council didn't have a chance to vote on it since Councillor Dennis E. Harrington objected to the resolution, which effectively killed it for the time being.

Councillor-Elect McCauley:

'I'm Going To Be In There With An Open Mind'

Relax, hopefuls.

Frank McCauley, the old-new face on the City Council, doesn't plan to run for Mayor until at least 1985.

"A run for Mayor for me is a minimum of eight years away," he told The Quincy Sun in an interview. "I think it would be a disservice if anybody decides to use the Council as a forum to run for Mayor in two years."

McCauley, a former Councillor who is president of the Presidential Cooperative

Bank, also made these points in the in-depth interview:

- Councillors Paul D. Harold and James A. Sheets both are acceptable to him as president of the City Council. But not Councillor John J. Quinn. His dislike of Quinn dates back to the 1967 campaign.

- He is uncommitted on the selection of his successor on the School Committee, mentioning such names as Frank Anselmo, Charles Sweeney, Pat Conroy, Dean Nicastro and a Boston police officer named Conway.

- He would not have run for councillor at-large if he wasn't leaving the School Committee in good shape or if Arthur H. Tobin wasn't leaving a vacancy on the Council. It's hard to beat three incumbents.

- He feels that the function of a city councilor is to provide a check on the Mayor as long as it doesn't go to the extremes of the past two years when "no matter what Joe LaRaia brought

$10,000 Grant For City Ambulance

Quincy's application for a $10,000 grant for purchase of a Class A ambulance has been approved by the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau, according to Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy).

Under provisions of the state collective ambulance purchase program, Quincy will be reimbursed up to $10,000 on the purchase of an ambulance on or before Dec. 10.

"I urge the Mayor's office to move promptly to take advantage of this reimbursement funding assistance so we can help guarantee our citizens the best ambulance service in the state," Brownell said.

Screening Committee Begins Reviewing Tobin Appointee Nominees

Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin's Screening Committee was scheduled to meet last night [Wednesday] at 7:30 p.m. in Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy, to begin reviewing resumes for high city job appointments.

Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, chairman, said the 10-member group will interview one person who is being considered for either executive secretary, city solicitor, treasurer or purchasing agent.

The interview will take place about 8:30 p.m., after which the committee will submit its recommendation to Tobin, who has reserved the right to accept or reject the recommendation.

The committee held its first meeting a week ago Wednesday, at which time Tobin reiterated a campaign pledge to give the group wide latitude in its search for people to fill posts in his coming administration.

The committee also established the following operating procedures:

- Information relative to candidates under consideration for any and all positions will be considered confidential.

- Candidates for the various positions will be encouraged to submit resumes to the Committee, which will review them and determine those candidates to be interviewed. Candidates may be requested to provide three references and other supporting material as appropriate.

- A list of positions under consideration will be publicized through The Quincy Sun, the Patriot Ledger and radio station WJDA.

- The Mayor will provide the Committee with a list of positions to be considered and the date by which he would like the Committee's recommendation.

- Once the screening process has been completed, the Committee will select the top candidate or candidates and forward its recommendation to the Mayor.

- The Committee had the power of recommendation only. Should the Mayor choose not to accept the candidate recommended, he may ask the Committee for reconsideration.

In addition to Dr. Griffin, members of the Committee are: Dr. Luleen S. Anderson, Robert B. Foley, Mrs. Norma Gacica, Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, Mrs. Ruth Paven, Dr. Gerald Rosenblatt, A. Mario Salvatore, Joseph A. Sullivan, and Andrew To. Walsh.

QCAO Receives $94,000 Grant

The Quincy Community Action Organization, has been awarded an administrative and community planning grant totalling $94,000 by the Community Services Administration, Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton) announces.

The grant will provide legal assistance to low-income people with housing problems in both public and private housing, as well as administrative assistance to service programs, including food and nutrition, energy and summer youth recreation programs.

The Community Services Administration is a federal agency which assists low-income families and individuals by providing economic and educational opportunities and financial support.

Family Problems Topic For Sterling Parents

The Sterling Junior High School Parents' Home and School Association, Group II, will meet today [Thursday] at 9:30 a.m. in the media center.

Members and guests will view a film "The Summer We Moved to Elm Street" dealing with the problems of understanding and working with youngsters from alcoholic families.

Albert Savitsky, from the Headquarters Guidance Staff, will moderate a panel discussion on the ideas depicted in the film. The panel of professionals will also answer questions from the audience.

Americo Volpe Pension

An application for a retirement pension by Americo [Trigger] Volpe, 59, of the Quincy Highway Department has been approved by the City Council.

The Council Monday night okayed a $186 weekly pension for Volpe, 72 per cent of his highest annual wage as a foreman. He served the Highway Department for more than 30 years.

'Know What The Records Show'

Council Approves Tobin Request For Audit Of City Books

The City Council has approved a request by Council President and Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin to have the State Bureau of Accounts make an audit of the books of the city of Quincy.

And, if the Bureau of Accounts can't do it then he'd like to see it done by City Auditor Charles L. Shea.

"I would think it would behoove every newly elected official to know what the records show," said Tobin, who succeeds Mayor Joseph J. LaRain as the city's chief executive on Jan. 3.

"This request ought to have the support of every elected official so that they would know that everything is running right in the departments. I know I would like to have this information."

Tobin said the Bureau of Accounts might not want to do the audit right away because the federal government is establishing new rules and regulations for revenue sharing.

"They don't want to expedite something at the present time and have to come back and do it all over again under the rules and regulations of revenue sharing," he said.

"Auditor Shea and I explained our position in the city of Quincy and they said we ought to get the request in and the bureau will take it under consideration."

"If they can't do it because of the rules and regulations of revenue sharing then we ought to perform our own. The city auditor then has the authority to do what he has to do as auditor."

The Council unanimously approved the request.

21 Residents Selected For County Jury Duty

The City Council Monday night chose two persons to serve on the grand jury and 19 persons to sit on criminal and civil juries in Norfolk Superior Court in January.

Drawn to serve on the grand jury were Edward R. George, 553 Washington St.; Ugo J. Pucciarelli, 44 Jackson St.

Chosen for civil and criminal jury duty were Aaron L. Sheffer, 35 Burns Ave.; Leo Dupe, 43 Rodman St.; Irene L. Antonelli, 122 Intervale St.; Gino J. Stracco, 82 Phipps St.; Joseph P. Rohan, 500 Hancock St.

Timothy J. Leahy, 30 Stedman St.; Olive E. Blaisdell, 21 Watson Rd.; James P. Grant, 27 Walker St.; Joseph Pascarella, 83 Vassall St.; Thomas J. Spring, 29 Pratt Rd.; Winifred Available, 429 Willard St.; Dorothy P. Hungerford, 22 Martell Rd.

Karen A. O'Connell, 6 Federal Ave.; Frederick W. Marland, 21 Hilma St.; Edwin Rogers, 3 Whiton Ave.; Florence V. Saliba, 36 Andrews Rd.; Eleanor M. Nason, 114 Arnold St.; James J. Clark, 14 Mayflower Rd.; Susan M. Riggins, 100 Old Colony Ave.

City Reports Coming--At Last!

The Quincy City Reports for 1975-76 and 1976-77 may soon be on the way after a delay of up to two years.

The City Council Monday night appropriated $7,000 from the revenue sharing fund in order to have 1,000 copies of each report prepared and printed.

The 1974-75 annual report came out last spring, some three years late.

Common St. Stop Sign

'Hello, I'm A Hippopotamus From The Thomas Crane Library'

By ROBIN LORD

Pick up the phone and dial 471-2405 and you will hear, "Hello, I am a hippopotamus from the Thomas Crane Library".

Has the library become a wild animal reserve? No, it's the Dial-A-Story line Quincy's Right To Read Council [director, Mary Lou Fishman] has set up in cooperation with the Quincy Public School Department [Janet DiTullio, coordinator of Language Arts] and the Thomas Crane Library [Jane Granstrom, supervisor of Children's Services].

By dialing the number, a child or adult is connected to a telephone answering machine that plays a three minute tape of a folk or fairy tale. The service, used by more than 4,000 persons since it began in October, has extended its hours to 24 hours, seven days a week. A new tape is played beginning each Monday.

"Our purpose is to explore ways of encouraging children to read more," says Miss Jane Granstrom. "Our intent is to entertain as well as to interest children in reading."

Who is calling the line? "Informal inquiry has revealed that there is almost no age limit," says Miss Granstrom. "Although early exposure of children to books is what we are looking for, many adults have reported calling the line."

The first tape was made by Jay O'Callahan, a professional story teller. Other tapes have been made by school and library staff members, drama class students and community members. Some tapes use more than one voice for different characters in the stories. Anyone interested in taping a story should contact Miss Granstrom at 471-2400.

Funding for the program was donated largely by the state headquarters of the Right to Read Council with additional funds donated by both the public school and the library.

Quincy was selected a few years ago by the state headquarters as one of several specially chosen cities to participate in the Right To Read program.

Sons Of Italy Donate $10,000 To City Fund

'Where Do I Turn?'

Women's Commission Seeking Info For Services Directory

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women is seeking information from organizations and agencies which want to be included in the update of "Where Do I Turn?", a directory of services available to women in Quincy and the surrounding areas.

According to Rhonda Merrill who is coordinating the update, the commission wants to include additional or new information about agencies already listed in the booklet as well as expand the booklet to include other services available to women.

The booklet which was compiled in the spring of 1976 provides addresses, telephone numbers and brief descriptions of organizations and agencies dealing in over 35 different areas. A wide variety of subjects are covered, including housing, health care, legal aid, alcoholism, mental health, drug abuse, sex education, tenants' rights, family services, and senior citizens programs. Health Centers and clinics, neighborhood centers are listed and their services explained.

Miss Merrill noted that over 1,500 copies of the booklet had already been distributed through public agencies and local centers.

"The booklet has not only proven to be an invaluable resource for women, but also is used frequently by social service agencies for referrals," she said. "Because of this demand, we intend to keep the information as current as possible and are now preparing the update." Assisting Miss Merrill with the update is commission member Diane Mackie.

The deadline date for submitting new or updated material to the commission is Dec. 20. All interested agencies are urged to contact Mrs. Christina Morrison, 18 Perkins St., Quincy [773-0818] with their information.

Kathleen Grant Selected Student Government Day Delegate

Kathleen Grant, 38 Cherry St., Quincy Point, a senior at Quincy High School, has been selected as the school's delegate to the 31st annual Student Government Day Program.

Miss Grant, president of the Quincy High and Vocational Technical High School Student council, will join with other secondary school students from throughout the state in a six-month program which explores all aspects of state government and includes a one day "take over" of the state administration by students.

Three series of workshops will be held for the purpose of educating and informing teachers and student delegates about the legislative process and state government. The first series will be held in each of the six regional education centers. The second and third workshop series will be held at the State House. The governor will participate in these workshops along with the constitutional officials, legislators, judicial officials, members of interest and lobbying groups. The workshops will also provide an opportunity for students to observe the legislature in session.

Student Government Day occurs on the first Friday in April. On this day, students will participate in all aspects of the administration of state government in the place where it happens; the State House. This allows students who have been educated in state government, the opportunity to exercise their newly-obtained abilities in the atmosphere that actual governmental officials perform in.

Joanne Govoni Returns From England Teaching Assignment

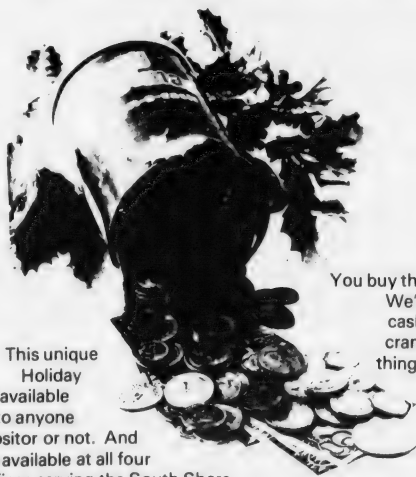

Joanne Govoni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Govoni of 140 Willow St., Wollaston, and a Boston College senior, recently returned from a student teaching assignment in England.

This past September and October, Miss Govoni taught in the English Elementary School System in Lancashire County. She also traveled throughout Great Britain.

She is finishing her student teaching requirement at the Kennedy Memorial Hospital for Children in Brighton, and will resume her course of study at Boston College in January. Miss Govoni, a special education major, is a part time employee at the Amego School for Autistic adolescents in Quincy.

ALCOHOL MENACE

Next time you feel like a drink, remember — alcohol is a drug. Alcoholism is America's No. 1 drug problem, and as a national health problem, ranks right behind heart disease and cancer. A Quick Picture: There are 10 million alcoholics in the United States. 95% of them are average citizens — friends, neighbors, and colleagues. 80% hold regular jobs.

The Physical Effects
● Malnutrition. The nutritional value of alcohol is zero. When a major part of your diet is alcohol, your bodily defenses begin to break down. Resistance to pneumonia and other infectious diseases is greatly lowered.
● Cirrhosis of the liver is extremely high in alcoholics.
● Heart damage is greatly higher in alcoholics.

Excessive drinking is self pollution. Regular excessive drinking only leads to trouble. Why not catch it before it becomes a problem?

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

Some experts say to give houseplants a rest each year and barely water them for a period of a month. But which month? If watering is a mystery, and you aren't confused by how much or how little, try a schedule of once a week or ten days in winter, twice a week in summer. Soak plants well each time and buy a small, spray bottle for the leaves. Plants need to absorb water through the leaves as well as through their roots. Spray as often as you like if the air in your home is dry - your plants will drink up the mist and look alive. To keep them nourished, get in the habit of replenishing the soil in your pots. Scoop out a layer an inch deep and replace with fresh earth.

As members of FTD and Teleflora NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 can arrange to deliver your gift of flowers or a plant almost anywhere in the world. Of course, as real professionals we have to meet the highest standards set by both organizations. Keep in mind that a plant or flowers make the "Perfect gift for those who have everything and for those who have nothing...for the young and the old". Master Charge and BankAmericard honored. DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARDS were presented two Quincy residents by the Quincy Rotary Club at a luncheon meeting at the Neighborhood Club. The awards for "service above self" were presented to Helen Duffy, assistant public works commissioner, and Patrolman William Draicchio of the Quincy Police traffic division. From left are Kenneth P. Fallon Jr., Rotary president, Miss Duffy, Draicchio, and Francis J. Mitchell, program chairman.

Rotary Club Honors Helen Duffy, Patrolman Draicchio For "Service Above Self"

Helen Duffy, assistant to the public works commissioner of Quincy, and Patrolman William Draicchio of the Quincy Police traffic department, have received awards from the Rotary Club for exemplifying the club's ideal of "service above self."

The awards were presented at a Neighborhood Club luncheon.

Frank Mitchell, chairman of the vocational service committee, who made the presentations said that while there is some question about moral values "you will be encouraged after today's program to know there are still people around trying to preserve our heritage."

Charles R. Herbert, former commissioner of public works, said Miss Duffy shook up the department "because she was willing to work in all areas" of the department.

He noted that she moved from clerk to assistant head clerk and then to assistant to the commissioner. "She's really a love," he told the audience.

Patrolman William Draicchio was cited for his traffic directions at Southern Artery and Washington St., where he is more familiar to school children than their homeroom teacher.

Detective Guido Pettinelli, former safety officer in the Quincy Police Department, introduced Draicchio by saying "he has more contortions than you would believe."

Draicchio has been with the department since 1951. About 24 years ago, Pettinelli related, "he was in an accident while on duty and his hand was severely injured."

He was assigned to "light-duty" and that turned out to be the intersection of 3-A and Southern Artery. He's known to every school child in the area and most of the commuters from Hingham, Hull, Cohasset and Scituate who pay more attention to his signals than they do to the lights.

Codman Handbell Ringers At Quincy Catholic Club Party

The Quincy Catholic Club annual Christmas party will be held Dec. 14 at 8 p.m. at the Viking Club in Braintree.

Santa will receive gifts from members as they arrive. The gifts will be distributed to patients at Medfield State Hospital.

The Codman English Handbell Ringers will present a special Christmas program and music for all seasons of the year. They ring a set of 38 White Chapel Handbells ranging from low Bass C to High C.

Rev. Edward Milley Inducted Minister Of Quincy Centre United Methodist

Rev. Edward Milley was inducted as minister of the Quincy Centre United Methodist Church at a ceremony held at the church Sunday.

Michael Jerome, chairman of the pastor-parish relations committee, led the service and Rev. Osgood Bennett officiated. Also participating were: Margaret Minyard, lay leader; Richard Peterson, chairman of the administrative board; Dr. Sam Hedrick, Rev. William Keefe, and Rev. Simon Peter Montgomery, district superintendent. Richard Paterson was soloist.

Rev. Mr. Milley is a native of St. John's, Newfoundland and a graduate of the Methodist College in Nova Scotia.

As a minister in the United Church of Canada he served churches in Saskatchewan. Prince Edward Island, and St. John, New Brunswick, before coming to Massachusetts for graduate work.

In 1950, the now retired Bishop John Wesley Lord invited him to serve in the New England area and he did ministerial work in Concord, Claremont and Nashua, New Hampshire, prior to accepting a special assignment with the Methodist Church of Australasia.

He served in Melbourne, Australia for three years and in 1972 accepted an invitation from Bishop Edward J. Carroll to join the Southern New England Conference. For the past five years he has been with the Mt. Bellingham United Methodist Church in Chelsea.

Mrs. Margaret Milley, recently certified as a Lay Speaker, studied at the Hartford Conservatory of Music prior to her marriage in 1935.

Always active in women's organizations, she has served as United Methodist woman officer at conference and jurisdictional levels. She has also held state executive offices in the Church Women United and The Women's Club.

The Milleys have always been interested in world missions and besides serving the conference in this capacity, they have traveled extensively observing the church at work.

Their tours have taken them to 26 countries around the world. Last year they took a course in Utrecht, The Netherlands, on the Movement of the Holy Spirit in Churches Today. Later they attended the Thirteenth World Mission Council in Dublin.

Rev. Milley is a 32nd degree Mason, a Rotarian and a member of Kiwanis.

Following the ceremonies attended by area clergy and friends, refreshments were served by the Women's Society in the church social hall.

Quincy, North Choirs In Christmas Concert At Bethany

The choirs of North Quincy and Quincy High Schools will present a Christmas Concert Sunday, Dec. 18, in the Bethany Congregational Church, at the corner of Coddington and Spear Streets, Quincy.

The students will perform Ron Nelson's musical interpretation of the Nativity.

"The Christmas Story" beginning at 4 p.m. Maurice Carboneau, NQHS choral director, will conduct the choirs accompanied by QHS choral director Gale Harrison on organ.

Concluding the concert, the choirs will sing traditional carols along with the audience. All are invited to attend.

St. John's Choir To Entertain Marianns

The St. Ann's Marianns of Wollaston will meet Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the school hall, 1 St. Ann's Rd, with entertainment furnished by the St. John's Boys Choir. Refreshments will be served.

Hot Lunch Program To Start Oct. 14 At North Quincy Church

A five day a week hot lunch program will begin at Atlantic United Methodist Church, 50 East Squantum St., North Quincy, Wednesday, Dec. 14, from 11 - 2 p.m. sponsored by the North Quincy South Shore Home Care Services, Inc.

Any person aged 60 years or more is eligible to participate in the program, but South Shore

Home Care will make special efforts to reach those who are not eating well because of finances, lack of nutritional skills or transportation.

In addition to meals, the nutrition project will provide transportation and personal escort services, information and referral, health and welfare counselling, nutrition education, shopping assistance and recreational activities.

Persons wishing to participate should make reservations by calling 749-6832. A small donation will be asked for each meal, but no one will be turned away because of inability to pay.

Volunteers, persons 60 years or more, are needed to assist in taking reservations, setting tables or serving as host or hostess through the South Shore Retired Senior Volunteer program. Reimbursement for transportation, meals, etc., are offered to volunteers once enrolled.

Volunteers should contact the RSVP office at 471-3600 or 471-3601 before Dec. 12.

Bishop Hart To Read Nativity Story Ecumenical Christmas Program At Church Of The Presidents Sunday

Most Rev. Daniel A. Hart, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Boston, will read the Nativity story at an ecumenical Christmas program to be held at the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq., Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Churches throughout the city have been invited to participate in the service which will include carol singing. The adult choir of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church, folk singers from St.

John the Baptist Church, and a group of first and second graders of Sacred Heart parish, will join in the musical part of the program.

Rev. Thomas C. Garrett of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, will deliver the welcome and Rev. William Underhill, pastor of St. Chrysostom's will give the Christmas reading.

Following the ceremonies in the church those attending will cross Hancock St., for additional Christmas carols and the placing of the Infant in the manger.

At the conclusion of the program all are invited to return to the church for a collation of hot chocolate and donuts.

The program was arranged by the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee and arrangements were coordinated by Fr. Garrett and Rev. Keith Munson, pastor of the Church of the Presidents. Richard Koch was coordinator for the committee.

Koch Club Christmas Basket Drive Underway

The Koch Club 22nd annual Basket Drive is now underway and members of friends of the Koch Club wishing to donate canned goods or non-perishable foods are requested to leave them with the officers in their respective leagues or districts.

Thomas F. Nestor is treasurer of the Christmas Charitable projects and those interested in donating funds toward the purchase of turkeys for the food baskets which include fresh fruits and vegetables and canned goods may contact Nestor at 69 Wendell Rd., Weymouth, or Richard J. Koch, executive director, at 241 Newbury Ave.

The food baskets are distributed through local charitable organizations and the Koch Club district directors. The food items are in sufficient amount and quality to extend through the holiday week for those families in need.

Deadline for donations for the Christmas basket projects is Monday, Dec. 19.

Students at Broad Meadows Junior High School have donated 1,200 canned goods toward the Christmas projects while students at the Francis W. Parker School are again participating in conjunction with the parent teachers organization. Participants of the Koch Club winter recreational and athletic programs are also involved in the project.

GUESTS OF HONOR at the 30th reunion of the Amputee Veterans Association of America, held at the Bryan VFW Post, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Levine of Brighton, were presented a plaque in recognition of their many years of service to the organization. Shown with the Levine's is Paul Short, commander of the association. The occasion also marked the Levine's 60th wedding anniversary.

Candlestick styles changed over the centuries along with art and architectural design. In 1700, the most common silver candlestick was 6" to 7" tall. It had a polygonal or a square base which rose to a flat disc, the main stem, and the nozzle. A removable grease pan fit into the nozzle. These candlesticks were built from flat sheet silver which was soldered together; eventually candlesticks were produced from castings. After 1740 the rococo style came into vogue. "Rococo" derives from the French word for "shell". The base of candlesticks became curved and ornate, and the stem had leaves and shells on its design.

Jewelry styles are always changing too. If you would like to re-style some of your pieces or wish to buy or trade towards new ones, see us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. 'Not A Nice Christmas Present'

Hearing Dec. 20 On Barilaro

'Conflict' Suit Against Sheets

"It's not a nice Christmas present for my family," said City Councillor James A. Sheets. "There's a possibility of a loss of income that we depend on for day-to-day living."

Sheets was referring to a petition filed in Norfolk Superior Court by Albert R. Barilaro seeking to bar Sheets from receiving a salary as a teacher at Quincy Junior College while he is being paid as a councillor.

Hearing has been set for 10 a.m., Tuesday, Dec. 20. Barilaro, who was defeated by Sheets by a 4-1 margin in November, also filed notice with City Clerk John M. Gillis that he claims the Council seat from Ward 4 under Massachusetts law.

He contends that Sheets is in conflict of interest by taking salaries as a city councillor and as a part-time instructor in history and government at Quincy Junior College.

Gillis said he plans to meet with Barilaro and his attorney, John M. Collins of Shrewsbury, to discuss Barilaro's claim as soon as he can get the Board of Registrars of Voters together.

Sheets receives $6,500 as a teacher at the Junior College, $2,800 as a city councillor, and $12,600 as a member of the State Legislature.

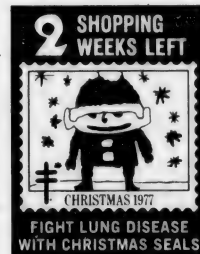

The same charges were levelled at Sheets in 1973 when he ousted Barilaro as councillor from Ward 4 but Suffolk Superior Court Judge Harry Kalus ruled that Sheets was not in conflict.

Three years later, however, the State Supreme Court handed down a decision that Edward Osetek of Chicheope could not receive two salaries as a public school teacher and a city alderman.

Sheets maintains that the two cases are unrelated.

Quincy City Club Holiday Breakfast Sunday

The Quincy City Club will hold its third annual holiday breakfast for members Sunday, Dec. 11, at 9:30 a.m. in the Quincy Room of Walsh's Restaurant, 9 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

Richard J. Koch, president said the Christmas charitable projects of the organization would be conducted again this year.

The Club, for the past three years, has concentrated its emphasis in providing gifts to the patients in hospitals, for the elderly and mentally ill.

Last year, the City Club provided three color TVs to Long Island Hospital for the patients.

The Club will donate another 21 inch color TV set this season to a ward of bedridden patients at the hospital and the gift will be delivered following the meeting in order to have the set in time for the patients to enjoy the Christmas programs.

Other gifts to Long Island Hospital this year will include color window drapes to brighten up one of the wards and provide a more enjoyable atmosphere for those confined to the area.

Co-chairmen Donald E. Conboy and Paul Lee will announce the total amount received from the membership toward the City Club's charitable endeavors. Dr. Allan Yacubian will detail the projects planned for Christmas 1977.

During the morning program, ten new members will be formally received into the organization bringing the total membership to 95. The maximum membership is 100.

The Quincy City Club is a community service oriented organization chartered on Sept. 12, 1974, and has expended funds totaling $3,053.39 on charitable and civic endeavors.

Harold Seeks Tax Incentive Law Change To Aid Downtown Areas

City Councillor Paul D. Harold has urged a special state commission on growth policy to recommend a change in the tax incentive law so it could be used to revitalize downtown areas such as Quincy.

Speaking before the Commission on the Effects of Growth Patterns on the Quality of Life hearing in Plymouth, Harold noted that the present statute which allows cities and towns to give tax incentives to attract new developments is too restrictive.

"The present law applies only to blighted areas," he said. "What many older cities in the commonwealth need is help before not after they become blighted, because then it's too late."

"Downtown areas such as Quincy need a boost if they are to remain viable, yet local government is restricted in its ability to attract new development."

"In Quincy, as in other cities in our state, the future of our neighborhoods is dependent on the future of downtown."

Harold urged the commission to recommend to the legislature that the law be made more flexible so it could serve as a tool for local governments to revitalize their downtowns. He noted that such projects would be reviewed by the state since approval of the Department of Community Affairs is required.

McIntyre Eyeing Bid For Congress

If James Sheets decides to run for Congress he may bump into a big obstacle right here in Quincy: James McIntyre.

The former mayor-senator reportedly is getting restless and yearning for a return to the political arena as a candidate.

McIntyre, according to sources close to him, is giving "serious consideration" to making a run for the 11th Congressional seat occupied these past 19 years by James Burke of Milton.

It is doubtful, however, that McIntyre would run against Burke if the latter is a candidate for re-election. He and Burke have been long-time good friends and each thinks highly of the other.

The big question, of course, is whether Burke who a few months ago had a foot amputated, will seek re-election or decide to call it a career. Those close to him say they believe he will go for another term.

Sheets, a city councillor and state representative, is "feeling out" his Ward 4 constituents for their reaction to a bid by him.

Fliers seeking that reaction were distributed over the weekend in Ward 4 announcing the fact Sheets is interested in running for Congress and would like to hear the opinions of residents of the area where he got his political start.

There is no public indication from the Sheets camp whether he would run against Burke if the latter decides to seek re-election next year. But close sources report Sheets has already started a fund-raising campaign.

And if Burke decides to run again, is there anyone around who really could beat him? Incumbents, like boxing champs, sometimes stay too long and are suddenly kayoed by a young challenger. But Burke would be a tough man to put on the political canvas.

It would appear that Sheets would have one of two problems standing in his way: Burke or McIntyre.

McIntyre who has been the Massachusetts state senate counsel since 1971, has long dreamed of going to Washington. And, for a long-time was considered her apparent to the 11th Congressional seat.

An ardent student of government, his main interest has been in the legislative branch rather than in the executive although he served as Quincy mayor from 1966 to 1972.

Even as far back as 1958 when he was elected a state representative and Burke was elected Congressman succeeding Richard Wigglesworth, McIntyre was looking toward Washington.

Close friends and others still very loyal McIntyre supporters, think he would make a strong candidate despite an absence of six years from the political ring. Just let him out on the campaign trail and he will still have the old vote-pulling magic, they feel.

They think he has good credentials for the job: state representative six years, state senator seven years, six years writing legislation as Massachusetts Senate counsel. As mayor he was involved in getting a big share of federal funds for Quincy and as mayor got to know his way around Washington.

There is no doubt he would be a strong contender. The man running out of Quincy would have a big advantage in the district.

If McIntyre and Sheets clash head on, though, they could hurt one another enough to let someone from some other community walk off with the Democratic nomination prize.

For example, Patrick McCarthy of Randolph, who opposed Burke for the Democratic nomination is already off and running for another shot at the seat next year.

And, there is a possibility that Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall, a former city councillor, may get into it. And, no doubt there will be others.

But a McIntyre-Sheets head-on collision would be interesting to watch. It may come.

IS MAYOR LaRAIA going to turn author after he leaves office? According to reports circulating around City Hall, the Mayor held a meeting the other day with some of his top aides. During which he reportedly disclosed plans to go down to the Cape and write a book. General theme: how everyone ganged up on him.

TWO NEW NAMES have surfaced as interested in filling Councillor-elect Frank McCauley's seat on the School Committee.

Ronald Conway of Milton Rd. has reportedly mailed his resume and is trying to line up support. A former Boston police officer, he is a doctoral candidate in education at BU. Also interested is George Smith, planning board member and a candidate for school committee several years ago.

OUR GOOD FRIEND Tom Currier of Hum 'n Strum fame is sidelined at his Reston, Va. home. Tom, who bounced back from open heart surgery a few months ago, recently fractured his hip in a fall. For friends who might like to drop him a card, his address is: 11450 North Shore Drive, Apt. 510, Reston, Va. 22090.

INCIDENTALLY, Tom who is now 70, made a recent TV appearance in that area singing and playing the ukulele, bringing back many fond memories to the Geritol set.

Tom and his late partner Max [Hum] Zides were big hits in vaudeville, radio and television. In fact, in 1929, they were the third most popular entertainers in the country, ranking just behind Amos 'n Andy and Rudy Valle. And, above Will Rogers and Guy Lombardo.

on the councillor-at-large thing until the first part of July. One of the reasons I ran was because the dissension in the city was such that I thought maybe my talents could be used over there at City Hall. I was a city councillor before. I was involved in the Finance Committee. I have a background in finance. We had a situation in the city this year where it took a couple of months to figure out a pay raise. Watching that situation started my interest. The fact that Arthur Tobin was leaving the Council after 10 years left a big vacancy up there. There was an open seat. Sometimes it's important that the opportunity be there, I weighed the thing through the month of July. I talked to a lot of friends and supporters and they were all enthusiastic about it. Of course, I had to give some consideration to the fact that I was leaving in the middle of a term on the School Committee. I didn't like the idea of doing it but I felt it might be the proper time to leave because we had just finished all our contractual negotiations. These contracts are good for two years so we had some period of labor stability over at the School Department. No. 2, many of the big items we had worked on were underway. We were completing the Merrymount School that we had worked on for two years. We were well on our way to the North Quincy addition which had occupied most of my first term. That was the final consideration. The School Department, the School Committee was in good shape. This was the final item that swayed my decision.

SUN: If there were not going to be a vacancy, would you have run just the same?

McCAULEY: No. If Arthur Tobin had stayed on the Council and Paul Harold and John Quinn were running, I don't think I would have done it. It's very difficult to get elected councillor-at-large in this city when there are three incumbents running. As it turned out, I ran against three incumbents anyway. Dennis Harrington went into court and got the designation. He appeared on the ballot as an incumbent. But the problems in the city, the fact that the School Committee was in good shape, and the vacancy, they were the three things.

SUN: Harrington and Joe Brett furnished some pretty strong opposition. Why do you feel you won?

McCAULEY: Yes, there was a strong field of candidates. In the primary, a lot of people felt I was going to run one-two. I never saw myself that strong. After looking at the primary figures, I knew I had a tough fight on my hands. My strength has always been in the south end of the city, Ward 1 especially. This year I had Paul Harold to contend with in my own ward. So I think we put together a pretty good campaign. We had a little fund-raiser, the first time in 18 years that I've ever had a formal fund-raiser. I got out and we worked hard. I rang between 6,000 and 7,000 doorbells. Every night for five or six weeks I spent a couple of hours after work ringing doorbells, Sunday afternoon, all day Saturday. At the latter part of the campaign, I was getting good recognition on the doorbells. People were opening the door and calling me by name because they saw my picture in the paper the night before. I think in the final analysis I probably just worked a little harder than Councillor Harrington and former Councillor Brett. I also got some favorable comments from people who were appreciative of my work on the School Committee since I am a conservative fellow and there is a lot of dissatisfaction in the city about school costs. I was perceived to be a person on the School Committee who worked to try to keep the costs down on occasion. I think this stayed me in good stead.

FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY - 'The most important thing is a good independent City Council that offers criticism and suggestions when the Mayor needs them.'

SUN: You were almost in the same position back in 1967 when you were Ward 1 councillor and you ran for councillor at-large and you lost. What was different this time?

McCAULEY: Yes, this election was almost a replay of the 1967 race. There was a good field of candidates that year, too. George McDonald was running. There was Arthur Tobin, who had just been elected rep the year before. John Quinn was in there and School Committeeman Anselmo and former Councillor Anderson. I finished third in the primary. I don't think I worked as hard 10 years ago. And the last weekend of the election a flyer was distributed on behalf of Councillor Quinn and McDonald and Arthur Tobin using the revaluation issue. It was a distortion because it merely stated that I voted in favor of revaluation. It did not tell the full story that there was a court order back in '65 that forced us into revaluation. If we didn't do it, the city couldn't send out tax bills. We would have had to borrow money. They did not give the complete story. This flyer, I think, had a lot of effect. Maybe that might have been the difference between winning and losing. I lost by a relatively narrow margin. John Quinn used the same thing this time but I don't think the issue was as potent.

SUN: Are you going to be what may be called the loyal opposition on the Council?

McCAULEY: I don't think I'd want to be termed the loyal opposition. I'm going in there with an open mind. First and foremost, I'm hopeful that Arthur Tobin is going to do a good job. There have been some names mentioned of potential appointments that are excellent. If these names come through they're going to get Arthur Tobin off to a good start. Of course, I'm a great believer that one of the important functions of a city councillor is to check on the Mayor. We don't have to go to the extremes that you've seen in the past two years where it gets into a personality situation and no matter what Joe LaRaia brought in it wasn't any good. I don't intend to play that role in the City Council. I intend to examine the issues carefully and offer constructive criticism where necessary and give full support to the Mayor on those projects I feel are in the

No 'Apple' For The Teacher

The Quincy School Committee ruled out the traditional apple for the teacher.

"To avoid possible embarrassment to pupils and possible criticism of the schools," said the new rule, "no teacher shall accept gifts from individual pupils or groups."

"A kind word or a note is always good," said School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard.

"But it is not right that children who cannot give should be embarrassed."

"Also it is not right to run a sort of popularity contest for teachers where one teacher would get a lot of gifts and the teacher in the room next door would get nothing."

REZONING OPPOSED

City Councillor Edna B. Austin voted in opposition to rezoning 50 acres in lower Germantown from business to residence, tantamount to a veto since it required a unanimous vote of the Council.

"Are we going to throw all that property away?" asked Mrs. Austin. "That's what we would be doing. Some nice industry would be a God send for some women there."

Dorothy Osborne, a Quincy real estate broker, said at least three industrial firms, one of them an electronics company from Connecticut, were considering the site for relocation.

NORTH BOWS IN DEBUT

Eddie Dunham scored 25 points to lead the Quincy High School basketball team to a 68-41 victory over North Quincy, spoiling the Raiders' Greater Boston League debut.

The lineup for Quincy included: Tom Connors, Elliot Richards, Alan Rapp, Guy DeAngelo, Harvey Edwards, Bill Denison, Ralph Larson, Johnny Osborne, Eddie Dunham, Ned Berman, John Rodophele.

Playing for North were: Russ Landberg, Jim Baldwin, Gerry Thornell, Jim Green, Paul La Breque, Pete Frederickson, Fran Scanlan.

LEWIS HONORED

Some 600 persons turned out for a testimonial dinner to City Manager Edward T. Lewis in what toastmaster John P. Flavin called "the greatest spontaneous tribute that I have ever seen."

Lewis was presented with a check for $1,000 by Kenneth G. Gardner, the city's administrative assistant, in honor of his more than 30 years of service.

He became city manager on April 9, 1956, and planned to retire in January when the Plan E form of government with a city manager would come to an end in Quincy.

School Committee Election Shelved

The Sheets-Lydon resolution would have petitioned the Legislature for permission to hold the special election despite the fact that the city charter specifies vote by Council and School Committee.

Lydon said the resolution grew out of a meeting he had with some of his constituents at the Cranch School at which they expressed "strong feeling that there should be a special election."

"The city has held special elections in the past," said Lydon, "and it is the costlier route."

He suggested that the Council meet with the School Committee to ascertain its reactions to holding a special election.

Councillor Leo J. Kelly asked City Clerk John M. Gillis how much a special election would cost and when Gillis told him it would be about $30,000 it was apparent the resolve was on its way out.

Sheets, however, made one more effort to save it. He suggested a joint committee hearing that would "expose the pros and cons and provide an appropriate forum for making a decision."

"A number of people feel that they should have a vote in determining the sixth member of the School Committee," he said. "I don't think it is wrong to find an expression of what people think."

Council President Arthur Tobin thought it was all academic at that time since McCauley had not yet resigned.

"Mr. McCauley says he has no intention of resigning right now," said Tobin. "Mr. McCauley says he will resign a couple of minutes before 10 a.m. on Jan. 3."

Councillor Daniel G. Raymond was thumbing through Section 33 of the City Charter for more ammunition when Harrington's objection put an end to the matter.

Sheets then asked for a poll of the Council to see if it would support a resolution to study the feasibility of holding a special election.

It didn't, by a vote of 6-3, with Sheets, Lydon and Councillor John J. Quinn voicing approval.

The idea of a special election drew almost unanimous disapproval from members and members-elect of the School Committee who were contacted by The Quincy Sun.

"I would not be in favor of it," said John J. Sullivan, current vice chairman of the Committee. "I see no need for the expense. It just cost the taxpayers $7,000 for a recount."

"I'm getting a lot of flack about who to choose and a special election would get all of us off the hook but I'm not in favor of it when we already have a formula."

Christopher F. Kennedy said he isn't too keen on either of the two ways to select a successor to McCauley but he pointed to the expense of a special election.

"There would have to be two elections, a primary and a runoff," he said. "You'd probably get 16 people running and you couldn't handle that without a preliminary election."

"I can see no fairer way of doing it than to take them in the order of their finish on the ballot in the last election. It was only a month ago."

"But we should stick with the charter this time and perhaps change it later on."

Committeewoman-elect Joan Picard favored the special election at first and then changed her mind.

"Choosing a successor to Mr. McCauley happens to be one of our duties, whether we like it or not," she said. "It's our responsibility to do it."

Mary P. Collins, another newcomer to the School Committee in January, also said she did not favor the special election route.

"I don't feel it's necessary," she said. "We should abide by the charter now and change it later if we want to. We just had an election. I can't see another one a month later."

Patricia Toland also exercised the privilege of changing her mind. She favored the special election at first, then turned against it.

"I don't think it's fair to change the rules of the game in a time of crisis," she said. "If we don't think it's a good way then let's change the charter when calm prevails."

Mrs. Toland said she feels that McCauley's successor should be chosen from among those who lost out in the November voting — Frank Anselmo, Charles T. Sweeney or J. Thomas Mullaney.

"It should be someone who has faced the electorate," she said, "someone who has shown an interest in the job, someone the electorate knows something about."

"It burns me up that people who were not willing to take out papers last August should come around now looking for a political plum."

Anselmo, Sweeney and Mullaney didn't exactly lose the election you know. They got thousands of votes more than anyone else."

Quinn Appears To Have Presidency

"I haven't made up my mind yet," said McGrath. "I'll probably decide in the next couple of weeks."

"Of course, there could be some surprises when we take the first vote but I feel some consensus will be reached before then."

McGrath said he regards Councillors James A. Sheets and Paul D. Harold as still in the race against Quinn.

But Sheets said: "I feel the only way I can accept the Council presidency is if none of the others can put the votes together. If that occurs, I feel I should accept."

Sheets is also on the verge of announcing his candidacy for the U.S. Congress which might make the Council presidency an added burden too great to bear.

Quinn, who is starting an historic 11th two-year term on the Council, said he would not issue a statement claiming victory until he had talked to all the councillors "one-on-one."

"I've talked to seven of them and I hope to see the eighth shortly," he said. He declined to identify the eighth councillor.

Santa's Mailboxes Set Up For Youngsters

Youngsters who want to send letters to Santa Claus will find special Santa Clause Mailboxes at four locations in Quincy Center.

The mailboxes were placed on McIntyre Mall, adjacent to the Quincy Cooperative Bank; rear of the Hancock Bank in the Ross Parking Way, and in front of Sears Roebuck and Child World on Hancock St.

The project is sponsored by the Christmas Festival

Morrissey Commends MDC For N. Quincy, Wollaston Projects

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] has praised the efforts of the MDC for its quick action in undertaking three needed projects in the North Quincy and Wollaston Beach area.

They are two right turn signs on Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum St., a snow fence at North St. and Bay State Rd., and six ramps for the handicapped along Wollaston Beach.

"Many constituents have called me to comment on the quick action of the MDC and I feel they deserve this public recognition," said Morrissey in a letter to MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker.

"A snow fence has been needed at North St. and Bay State Rd. due to drifting snow and the six ramps along Wollaston Beach will benefit everyone who uses the beach."

Morrissey said he also was pleased to see the two right turn only signs placed on Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum St. since both roads have a heavy traffic flow.

"The MDC was prompt with their action on these projects and I'm pleased to see this immediate response," said the representative.

Sheets Asks MBTA To Restore N.Q. Bus Route

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] has asked the MBTA to restore the North Quincy Station to bus route 215 which goes from Quincy Square to Ashmont by way of Southwest Quincy, Lincoln Square and East Milton.

The route 215 bus used to stop at the North Quincy Station but the stop was eliminated in the fall of 1976. The elimination, said Sheets, has caused a hardship for many Quincy bus commuters.

Sheets said the MBTA promised to study the situation at a meeting last summer.

Quincy Citizens Association Annual Meeting Dec. 7

The Quincy Citizens Association will hold its annual meeting and Christmas party at the Montclair Men's Club, 93 Holbrook Rd., North Quincy, Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m. The nominating will submit its recommendation that present officers of the association be re-elected for 1978. Arthur M. Chandler is president. Other officers include: Joseph N.

Gildea, Sr., vice president; Saul Lipsitz, treasurer; and Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary. Nominations may be made from the floor.

Following a brief business meeting a Christmas buffet will be served. Dancing and a sing-along for members and their guests will follow.

Those attending are requested to bring a $2 gift for the Christmas grab.

Donald Jeffrey In NATO Exercise

Navy Storekeeper Seaman Apprentice Donald K. Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jeffrey, 75 Walnut St., North Quincy, recently participated in the major allied Exercise "Ocean safari '77" in the Eastern Atlantic Ocean.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Richard E. Byrd, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

A 1976 graduate of North Quincy High School, Jeffrey joined the Navy in June, 1976.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m., with dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The evening will conclude with a Chinese buffet. Mercier and Stan Kovalski Jr. are co-chairmen.

The regular business meeting of the club recently approved the reinstatement of John J. Quinn and accepted Paul D. Connor as a new member.

Plans for the annual awards dinner and sports night will be announced by Chairman Joseph N. Gildea Sr. at the next regular meeting, Jan. 5.

Weekly bingo parties are held in the clubhouse every Friday at 8 p.m.

Lt. Peter Delaney Completes Navy Course

Navy Lt. Peter J. Delaney, whose wife Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Barbadoro of 170 Harvard St., North Quincy, has completed the non-lawyer course at the Naval Justice School, Newport, R.I.

Completion of this course enables graduates to provide para-legal advice and basic legal assistance services, plus perform the administrative duties of a unit legal officer.

During the five-week course, students received instruction on the principles of military and civil law, court-martial procedures and the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

A 1973 graduate of Holy Cross College, with a bachelor of arts degree, Lt. Delaney joined the Navy in June, 1973.

Joseph Vieira Completes Training

Constructionman recruit Joseph M. Vieira, son of Jose G. Vieira of 92 Sachem St., Wollaston, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

He joined the Navy in February, 1977.

QHS Band Prefers Orange Bowl

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy High School Band, selected at the Christmas Festival Parade to represent New England at the 1979 Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, Tex., has declined the invitation and will seek a bid from the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

The decision, according to Band Director Michael Cahill, was based on the fact that the Marching Presidents appeared at the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day, 1973, and is now looking for "new worlds to conquer."

Cahill said that any contact with the Orange Bowl officials will have to wait until after the first of the year.

"However, we intend to pursue an invitation to the Miami parade as soon as the selection of bands for the New Year's Day, 1979, starts," he said.

Quincy won the New England open competition among high school bands from throughout New England at the Christmas Parade. The Quincy unit also walked off, for the second year, with the Massachusetts High School Marching Band Championship.

The Marching Pirates of Hull

High School took second place in the New England competition and Gloucester High School was third.

Hull "is appearing at the Cotton Bowl the upcoming New Year's Day and is thus ineligible to apply for participation in the 1979 parade.

"We have been in touch with Gloucester and they are greatly interested in the possibility of going to Dallas," Cahill said.

He said further that any definite plans for the Quincy band will have to await a decision from the Orange Bowl committee.

Police Expand Crime Prevention Programs

The Quincy Police Department has added new programs to their list of crime prevention programs. They are the Helping Hand Program, Safety for Seniors Program and a Marine Security Program.

The Helping Hand Program is a mutual effort of the Quincy Police and Quincy School Department. It is designed to provide a safe place for children to get help or comfort if they run into trouble on the way to or from school.

The Marine Security Program is designed to assist boat owners in preventing theft and vandalism to boats. Seminars were presented in the summer at the local boat yards and yacht clubs for interested citizens. This program will start again in the spring, 1978.

For more information on any crime prevention program, call 479-1212.

McCauley Meets With Officials For Orientation

City Councillor-elect Francis X. McCauley met Monday with City Treasurer Robert Foy and Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone to be updated on the intricacies of city operations.

During the week, he said, he plans to meet with the Board of Assessors, City Auditor Charles L. Shea and Planning Director Norman Lundin to be filled in on their departments.

McCauley served two terms on the City Council, ending in 1967. Since then he has been on the School Committee for a term and a half.

At Sterling Junior Auditorium

Lincoln-Hancock Theatre To Present

'Images And Memories'

Lincoln Hancock Community Theatre will present "Images and Memories" - a musical revue. Thursday, Friday and Saturday Dec. 8-9-10, at 7:30 p.m. at Sterling Junior High School.

The show is divided into two main sections, each developing a separate storyline.

The first act has people rehearsing for a show whose theme deals with a journey through musical theatre with theatre as an illusion of reality. Production numbers include: "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Life Is A Cabaret," "Camelot," and "Impossible Dream."

The second act has a totally different theme. A man tells the story of his life from birth to death through musical selections. People he meets, places he goes and things he discovers are all part of the message. Numbers include: "Time In A Bottle," "Amsterdam," "Sunrise, Sunset," "My Favorite Things," and "If We Only Have Love."

Frank Moffett, director of the show held auditions early in October and cast the following:

Cheryl Baldwin, Mary Barr, Leo Bottary, Caryn Collings, Theresa Collings, Janet Dewsnap, Tom Dunn, Chris Francis, Kelly Hooper, Linda Kelleher, Maureen Kelly, Caroline Krantz, Christine Krantz, Kathy Mann, Sean O'Sullivan, Sarah Poole, Tony Poole, Tina Stearns, Jeannine Williams, Julie Williams, Paula

Williams, Tricia Gibson, Susan Buttimer, Maureen Comaletti, Jennifer McCauley, David Carboneau, Laurie Valante, Melissa McCauley, Betsy Howe, Linda Coulter, Lorraine Coulter, Cheryl Bina, Tricia Mullen, Paul Valante.

Robert Burrelli, Katie Carlisle, Maura McCormick, Debbie Pasquale, Joyce Siukola, Geoff Chamberlain, Scott Steen, Laurie Putnam, Matthew Warner, Mark Matthews, Alyce Feathers and Jim Hayden. Musical director is Karen Bishop and choreographer is Kathy Bertrand.

The curtain opens at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Sterling Junior High School, 444 Granite St. Donation is $1, and tickets may be purchased in advance at the following schools:

Adams - Abigail Ave., Willard - Copeland St., Gridley Bryant - Willard St., Cranch - Whitwell St., Sterling Junior High School - Granite St., and Lincoln Hancock Community School - 300 Granite St.

Tickets will also be available at the door on nights of performances.

This is the first in a series of planned productions. Those interested in auditioning or helping with the next production may contact Mary Jo Riley at Lincoln Hancock Community School.

ENTERTAINMENT

LINCOLN HANCOCK thespians in rehearsal for the musical revue "Images and Memories" to be presented by the school's Community Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Sterling Junior High School. Kneeling are Tony and Sarah Poole. Community Theatre To Audition For New Play

The board of directors of the Quincy Recreational Community Theatre announce auditions for their upcoming production, Gingerbread Lady by Neil Simon.

Auditions will be from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 13, and Thursday, Dec. 15 at Broad Meadows Junior High School auditorium, 50 Calvin Road, Merrymount. Residents from Quincy and surrounding communities are welcome.

Rehearsals will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and will begin on Jan. 5. Performance dates are scheduled as March 3, 4, 10, and 11. The production will be directed by Frank Moffett.

The Quincy Recreational Community Theatre has just completed a successful, two week-end performance of Middle Of The Night by Paddy Chayefsky.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq., is offering an exhibit of photography by William Berchen in the Main Hall Gallery for the month of December.

Berchen, a native of Germany, has had many one-man shows in New York and Boston. He has also taught photography courses in the Boston area.

In addition to travel and architectural and illustrative work, he had done covers for Boston Magazine and the Boston Globe. His movie Spring has often been shown on public television.

Berchen has published several books that include the text by his wife, Ursula. She is a librarian at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Burgin Parkway Re-Zoning Sought By Kelly

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly wants non-residential property along the proposed Thomas S. Burgin Parkway (formerly Upland Rd.) Extension to be rezoned to Planned Unit Development.

He told the City Council Monday night that he was afraid the area might be developed in a "honky tonk way."

"The extension will probably be the most used street in Quincy since it will be a highway right through the heart of the city," Kelly said. "It is germane to make sure it is developed properly."

The Council voted to have the Planning Board study the feasibility of rezoning to PUD, which means that the City Council will have control over the type of development that goes in there.

Koch Club Collecting

Toys For Needy Children

The Koch Club of Quincy for the seventh consecutive year is conducting its annual drive to collect toys for needy children at Christmas time.

The items will be distributed to the South Shore, Quincy and the Greater Boston area within the next two weeks.

Approximately 1,500 new and used toys have been collected to date for distribution to boys and girls during the Christmas season. The Koch Club has been acting as a coordinating agency with the assistance of many.

Organizations participating in the program for the past seven years include the Parent Teachers Organization and students of the Massachusetts Fields School, Parent Teachers Association and students of the Parker School, students of the Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, members of the South Shore Junior Ten Pin Bowling League, Quincy Junior Wonders Candlepin Bowling League, members of the Koch Club Women's Bowling League and the boys and girls bowling leagues of the Koch Club along with the Koch Club basketball participants.

The program was established in 1971 when the Koch Club provided 300 gifts to as many children dislodged by a pre-Christmas fire in the Uphams Corner section of Dorchester.

Each year, the interest has increased to include people from not only Quincy but the neighboring communities donating new and used toys to the annual project.

Visiting Nurses Association Joins Local 880 AFL-CIO

The 15 professional staff members of the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc., have voted 13-2 in favor of being represented by the Massachusetts Hospital Workers, Local 880, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO.

The election, sanctioned by the National Labor Relations Board, opens the way for the staff to begin negotiations with the Visiting Nurse Association, a private non-profit agency. The union will represent the registered nurses, physical therapists and dietician on the staff.

Nancy Mills, organizer for Local 880, a statewide union of hospital and health service employees, said wages and working conditions are the major issues. She contends that the agency nurses receive, on the average, 20 percent less than the going salary for registered nurses in the Greater Boston area.

The nurses also want some control over patient case loads and a standard maternity leave program.

Clement O'Brien, chairman of the board of directors of the association, said the agency will wait until it is notified by the NLRB that Local 880 has been certified to represent the employees.

"At that time negotiating teams will be appointed and we will sit down and talk over the problems," he said. "It will all be done in a friendly atmosphere."

Sheets Weighing Congressional Bid

City Councillor and Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] says he is getting an "excellent response" from a weekend sampling of Ward 4 on whether or not he should run for Congress from the 11th District.

"Just about everyone we talked to indicated that they would be happy if we ran for Congress," said Sheets. "Quite a few of them indicated they would work for me in some capacity."

Sheets said he was in touch with about 400 people.

If the response continues favorable, said Sheets, he will announce sometime after the first of the year for the seat that has been held since 1959 by Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton].

Burke recently underwent amputation of a foot, the result of a diabetic condition, and there has been speculation that he will retire after this term.

However, he says he plans to run again.

Two candidates to succeed him are already in the race in spite of the fact that the election is still 11 months away.

They are Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph, who lost to Burke in the 1975 Democratic primary, and Rep. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Dorchester]. The district includes four Boston wards in Dorchester, Hyde Park and Mattapan.

Audubon Society Executive To Address U.N. Council

Allen H. Morgan, Executive Vice President of the Massachusetts Audubon Society will speak on "The Alaska Pipeline and the Energy Crisis" at the Dec. 8 meeting of the United Nations Council of the South Shore.

It will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq. The talk will be followed by a question period; admission is free.

Morgan's interest in the environment dates from childhood natural history hobbies. At age 14 he was assistant to the Curator of Birds at the Boston Museum of Natural History. After graduating from Bowdoin College with a biology major he entered the life insurance business, but maintained his avocation. Since 1957 Morgan has guided the Massachusetts Audubon Society's growth from a modest natural history education group to a 25,000 member conservation organization dealing effectively and responsibly with the complex environmental challenges of post-World War II technology and social change. Fortune magazine has described Massachusetts Audubon as "...the most competent and one of the largest conservation organizations in the country." Allen Morgan has served over the years on many committees, boards, and governmental commissions.

Before the meeting there will be a catered dinner at 6:30 in the Parish Hall. For information about the charge and for reservations call either Miss Eleanor Brown, 773-1817 or Mrs. Viola Ellis before December 5.

At Chamber Sessions Industry, Transportation Needs Cited By Business

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has discovered that local businessmen are most concerned with attracting more industry to the area and streamlining its transportation system.

The information was elicited during the Chamber's recent program of work development sessions, a series of 13 meetings which gave the area's 17 communities an opportunity to voice their needs.

The suggestions received will be incorporated into the Chamber's 1978 Program of Work.

Quincy participants in the sessions said they felt that they "should be involved" in the redevelopment of downtown Quincy. They emphasized the teamwork approach to city problems.

Those who attended the sessions indicated that the only route to relief from oppressive property taxes is to increase the tax base in the community by attracting new industry.

"We should investigate ways to make business more welcome here, even if it means going outside the state or region to get that business," one of the reports conclude.

The Chamber said it detected a "can do" attitude on the part of businessmen around the South Shore and a desire for the kind of unity which almost assures positive results.

Nearly every one of the representatives from the South Shore communities spoke of the need to expand and improve the area's transportation system "to keep South Shore residents working on the South Shore."

The business leaders also expressed concern with career education, noting that high school education or even a college degree doesn't always prepare young people for the working world.

The Quincy Savings Bank was one of the organizations that provided facilities, equipment and hospitality for the sessions, which involved some 350 persons and more than 300 retail and industrial concerns.

Charles A. Pearce, president of the Chamber and the Quincy Savings Bank, was one of the local hosts who assisted in introducing the Chamber's plans to the community.

Public Hearing Planned On Central Mail Facility

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] announces the U.S. Postal Service has agreed to his request to hold a meeting in the South Shore area on the proposed Braintree Incoming Mail Center and postal consolidation plans.

Burke said that in response to a recent letter sent by him to Postmaster General Bailar criticizing the "total lack" of U.S. P. S. community consultation on the IMC, the Postal Service will hold a meeting with local elected officials to discuss the relative merits of building a central facility. The meeting will be open to the public.

Burke reaffirmed his strong objection to consolidation of local post office branches in Quincy, Milton and Braintree. "The local post office is a central and important feature of community life in the South Shore. Closing postal branches will prove detrimental to residential and business patrons alike."

The Postal Service has indicated that the date, time and place of the IMC meeting will be determined within the next two weeks and will be widely publicized throughout the affected areas, Burke said.

Both the Massachusetts Senate and the Quincy City Council are on record opposing the proposed mail center.

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow... either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls. Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

Call us today for more information on our homeowner's warranty and a free estimate. You need to insulate your home only once. Do it right. Call us today!

Edge St. Francis

Crusaders Host Western N.E.

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, which posted a 20-6 record a year ago and has lost only one player, is 1-1 after its first two games and tonight (Thursday) it is host to Western New England College.

The Crusaders will finish their pre-holiday schedule Saturday at Barrington, R.I., then will be off until Jan. 10, when they play at Roger Williams.

ENC lost a hotly-disputed 81-77 decision to UMass-Boston at the UMass gym in its opener with some very questionable officiating. The Crusaders had an 18-point lead but in the second half the officials called 10 fouls and violations against ENC and just one against UMass.

"The officiating was just unbelievable," was all Coach Ron Bradley would say after the heart-breaking loss, but it was obvious how he and the ENC fans felt about the officials.

The Crusaders bounced back Saturday to edge St. Francis, 73-70.

With so many veterans and some promising newcomers,

Bradley is hopeful for another successful campaign.

The returnees include Mike Barefoot, leading scorer and All-Nazarene, All-Seaboard and All-Naismith Conference selection; All-Seaboard and All-Naismith selections Peter Ribeiro and Jerry Perera and playmaker Rick Ward.

Junior Barry Jones [6-5] and sophomores Jim Bryan [6-5] and Richard Scarce [6-7] have the ability and experience to take over the rebounding duties vacated by Wetmore, now coach at Gordon College.

Together with Bryan's brother, Glenn [6-6] and Darryl Edmonds [6-5], they comprise the tallest ENC team in recent years. However, a pre-season hip injury places Jones as a question mark early in the season.

Offensively Barefoot [6-3], Perera [6-3], Ribeiro [6-0] from New Bedford, and Ward [5-9] give the Crusaders four players capable of scoring in double figures.

Barefoot averaged 19 points a game last year and reached the 1000 point career mark as he led the squad in scoring for the second year in a row.

Sophomore Bob Dacey [6-3] from Quincy and Junior Steve Ames [6-1] from Auburn, Me., have been impressive during the pre-season and are making strong bids for starting roles. Dacey is an aggressive, smart player who contributes both offensively and on defense.

Other members of the squad are Walter Melton [6-0] from Quincy, who is making the tough transition from soccer to basketball and who offers depth at the point guard position, and Steve Sanders [5-2], a freshman walk-on who must learn the Crusader system and who fits into the Crusaders' future plans.

"This is one of the deepest teams in school history," said Bradley, former Little All-American while at ENC and starting his second year as coach. "We have flexibility at every position, we are young with Barefoot the only senior, but experienced, with five players who have played for two years."

Q-N Wrestlers Sit-a-thon Raises $2,300

The Quincy-North Quincy High wrestling sit-a-thon Saturday was a decided success as more than $2,300 was earned by 32 wrestlers from Quincy and 12 from North.

Quincy's group earned $1,800 and North's boys added more than $500. Proceeds will be used to help the wrestling programs of the two schools.

The first boy began doing situps at the Vo-Tech gym at 7:15 a.m. and the last one finished at 3:20. Quincy's 32 boys totaled more than 37,000 situps.

The team's three captains, Dan Madden, Lou Venturelli and Lenny Picot, had 2,000 situps each to lead the way. Last year's captain, Joe Moran, came back and helped out tremendously with 2,222 situps.

Picot ($243) and Stephen Notarangelo ($200) earned the most money.

The members of both teams thank all the people who helped to make the day such a success.

Ice Skating Instruction Registration Dec. 13

The Quincy Recreation Department announces that registration for the instructional ice skating program will be Tuesday, Dec. 13, at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The instructional program features the basic level of ice skating instruction, from beginner to advanced, in accordance with the U.S. Figure Skating Association Teaching Profession. The program is co-recreational and open to Quincy residents age six and over. For the fifth year, the program is under the direction of Mrs. Anne Eagles, a professional member of the U.S.F.S.A.

Registration is for 10 weeks of lessons, which are held at the Quincy Youth Hockey Association Rink, Murphy Memorial Drive, Merrymount. Four separate times are offered each week: Mondays and Wednesdays from 3 to 4 and 4 to 5 p.m. A fee for the program is payable at the time of registration. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department.

Al Scibetta of Quincy, coach of the Randolph Oilers, was named Coach of the Year in the Eastern Football League.

Scibetta led the Oilers into the league playoffs for the fourth year in a row after finishing in a five-way tie for first place with a 10-4 record. The Oilers were defeated by Marlboro in the opening round of the playoffs.

Junior High Football Season Highlights

IN THE AIR -- Central's Kenny Mann takes to the air against Sterling as Sterling's Sean Burke is blocked out. Central lost the game, 8-0.

Sterling 9th Grade Football Champs

The Sterling Junior High ninth grade football team won the city championship with a 6-1 record. All of the wins were shutouts.

Sterling defeated North, 14-0; Central, 30-0; Point, 20-0; North, 8-0; Central, 8-0, and Broadmeadows, 20-0. The only loss was to Broadmeadows, 20-8.

Halfback Steve Remillard was high scorer with 42 points [six touchdowns and three two-point conversions]. Wingback Ed Iodice scored 36 points [five touchdowns and three two-point conversions]. Fullback Greg Oriola had 20 points, Fullback Dave Picot six points and Halfback Sean Sweeney four points.

Coach John Gostanian cited Remillard, Iodice and Oriola as the top offensive players and singled out middle guard Fran Duggan, tackle Chris Chevalier, defensive end Dave Spargo and safety Michael Coska as defensive standouts.

TAKEN DOWN -- Sterling, on its way to the city junior high crown, defeated Point, 20-0, but here Sterling's Steve Remillard is brought down after a short gain by Point's John Burns, as Dean Sullivan and Richard Isaac close in.

POINT CARRIER -- Point Junior High's Ronald Pettinelli carries for a short gain against city champion Sterling. He is brought down by Sterling's Greg Oriola. Also in picture are Point's Dave Dwyer [19], and Sterling's Fran Duggan [73] and Sean Burke [80].

CENTRAL CARRIER -- Central's John Herald carries for again against Sterling as Sterling's Dan Harding [85] moves in for the tackle. Sterling, which won the city junior high title, won, 8-0.

● Executive League

Washington, Spotlight, Darcy's, Al's In Ties

Two ties highlighted Monday night's Executive Hockey League action at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Washington Tap and Spotlight Tavern played to a 4-4 tie. Marty Tolson scored for Washington with Ed Grogan and John Emmott assisting, but Bob Kallstrom scored for Spotlight with an assist for John McNeil to make it 1-1 after a period. Spotlight went ahead in the second period on goals by Bob Sweeney, Kallstrom and Bill Sweeney. Ralph Freeman had two assists and Charlie Chambers, McNeil and Bob Sweeney one each. John Emmott scored both goals for Washington in the second with two assists for Tom Malchow and one for Tolson as Spotlight took a 4-3 lead into the final period. Here Bernie Toland tied it up with Rich Cimo assisting.

Darcy's Pub and Al's Cafe tied, 6-6, as E. J. Breen had the hat trick for Al's and assisted on two other goals. Ralph Gibbs had two goals and Dick McCabe one. McCabe and Gibbs had two assists apiece and Larry O'Connor, Mike Haynes and Frank Kelly one each. Bob O'Connell and Jack Hurley had two goals apiece for Darcy's with Bill York and Kevin Glynn having one each. Glynn had three assists, Dennis O'Connell and Al Gullikson two apiece and York and Joe Golden one each.

Girls C Team Defeats Whitman-Hanson, 6-3

Quincy's Bob Charles Transportation Girls team defeated Whitman-Hanson C team, 6-3, Sunday at the Tabor Rink in Needham.

Sheila Connolly and Kim Alberti had two goals each and Debbie Mosher and Karen Cullen one apiece. Cullen had three assists. Bonnie MacMurdo two and Connolly, Patty Crossen and Kristin O'Gara one each.

Misses Connolly and Mosher were among girls from suburban communities who participated in a between-periods exhibition game against the Needham Dragons Girls B team during a benefit game featuring the National Hockey League oldtimers.

After the game, won by the Dragons, 1-0, the girls were invited in to meet with former Bruins Milt Schmidt, Johnny Peirson, Don McKenney and Doug Mohs.

4 Selected Babe Ruth 'Athletes Of Year'

Michael Abboud, Billy Deitsch, Dick Ryan and Kevin McKinnon of the Quincy Babe Ruth League

have been selected to Babe Ruth Baseball's 'Athletes of the Year' program for 1977.

Abboud, Deitsch and Ryan played for Barry's Deli and McKinnon for the Quincy Police Club.

Nominations for 'Athlete of the Year' were made during the summer by Babe Ruth League managers and presidents from across the nation. They were invited to nominate candidates with the best records of local achievement on their teams or in their leagues.

Criteria by which they were nominated include the boy's athletic ability, including statistics and overall performance, sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the season.

The athletic achievements of each honoree will be presented in the 1977 edition of Babe Ruth Baseball 'Athletes of the Year' Annual to be published this month.

Sheets Seeks Lights At Shea Rink Tennis Courts

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has asked the MDC to install lights in the tennis courts next to the Shea Rink in West Quincy so that residents of the area can get additional playing time.

He pointed out that the two courts off Willard St. are the only ones in that part of the city.

Sheets added he is hopeful that the additional lighting will also help curtail some of the problems the neighborhood has experienced with groups of people congregating in the area.

Downtown Redevelopment A Big Issue Says McCauley

in it wasn't any good."

Here is the text of The Sun's interview with McCauley:

SUN: You were a member of the School Committee yet you chose to run for City Council. Why?

McCAULEY: Right. I have been on the School Committee for six years. When I was re-elected two years ago I planned to serve out a complete term. I didn't really get started

$1,666 To Hospital Nursing School

The Quincy City Hospital Nursing School will receive in the 1977-78 academic year, $1,666 in federal aid to assist students with their school costs, announces Congressman James A. Burke [D-Mass.].

These funds reflect initial nursing loan and scholarship allotments made in August 1977 and a second loan allotment representing the allocation authorized under Further Continuing Appropriations for 1978.

best interests of the city. I hope the Council doesn't line up in two factions. But I think the best thing for Arthur Tobin would be a good independent City Council that does its job and offers criticism and suggestions when he needs them and gives him full support on those projects that we all agree on.

SUN: What do you feel are the big issues facing Quincy?

McCAULEY: One of the big issues will be the downtown redevelopment which was started by Joe LaRaia. Quincy has been studied to death. I think now maybe is the time for action. It's important to keep downtown healthy. If you can get new business to come in and keep the business that is healthy, it's going to provide jobs, property values are going to stay up and, of course, that's going to mean that the homeowners are going to pay less of the taxes. I think that's one of the major issues and I know Mayor Tobin will continue on the start made by Mayor LaRaia. Arthur has already made mention of some store that they're talking to now. The next big thing is that people are getting more and more concerned about real estate taxes. We've got a $200 tax rate and we've got to keep the city running as efficiently as possible. We've got to give strong stress to the basic services that people are entitled to, fire and police protection, rubbish and garbage pickups. We've got to be careful about new programs. That's one of the areas I watched very closely as a member of the School Committee. These programs are modest to start and they rise and rise and they expand and they become quite costly. There are many groups that are well intentioned and have many ideas that they want government to get into. We have got to be able to look at those ideas and reject those that aren't absolutely essential.

SUN: How do you feel about the LaRaia downtown development plan?

McCAULEY: It's a long range proposal. The first to it, of course, is the first phase, getting somebody downtown. We can tear down buildings and we can build roads. But unless we're going to get somebody in here to provide the employment that in the long run is going to pay the taxes that will pay for this, it isn't going to get off the ground. The key to the whole program is the private sector. Get the businesses to locate here. Then it's going to be a success.

SUN: It sounds as though your main concern on the Council is going to be finances. Is that correct?

McCAULEY: I've always been interested in finance, probably because of my background in accounting and my 20 years here in the bank. I think I know the workings of it pretty well. We simply have to be careful about expenditure of the taxpayers' dollars. Unfortunately, when it isn't our own money politicians sometimes get carried away. Yes, I think one of my major interests will continue - and I use the word continue - to be in the area of finance.

SUN: How do you look back on all the turmoil of the past two years, the cause and the effect?

McCAULEY: Very definitely LaRaia's election was a surprise. There were elements in the city that didn't want him in there. It would have taken a tremendous effort for him to govern. I think, quite honestly, that the City Council was prone in the last two years to be more critical of a LaRaia than they would be of a McIntyre or a Hannon. On the other side of the coin, Joe LaRaia, because of a series of unfortunate appointments, certainly gave them enough ammunition to work with. It got to the point where there was no communication at all. I would like to avoid that at all costs. As Carl Anderson [Former councillor] said, "You can disagree without being disagreeable." That's what you have to do if you're going to be a good councillor. You have to be able to walk into a council meeting and oppose people but not be disagreeable about it. As far as the School Committee is concerned, relations with the Mayor were pretty good in the past two years. The only problem we had with Mayor LaRaia was his refusal to sign the bond issue for North Quincy High. Some of the members of the Committee were critical of the Mayor but it never disintegrated to the level that happened on the City Council. I think there was a certain amount of respect for the Mayor's position on the school issue. He was under a lot of pressure from a lot of people to do nothing. The Committee's disagreement was based on the issue. It was not a personality thing. I think that was the difference.

[This is the third in a series of in-depth interviews with those elected to new offices in Quincy city government in November and who will assume their new posts Jan. 3]

SUN: Would you like to be Mayor someday?

McCAULEY: I knew you were going to ask that. I think everyone who gets into government, especially at the City Council level, thinks of himself as sitting in the corner office someday. I would rule out a race for Mayor in the near future. A run for Mayor for me is a minimum of eight years away. No, I think it would do a disservice to the citizens of this city if anybody on this particular Council decides to use the Council as a forum to run for Mayor in two years. Arthur Tobin is the third Mayor in two years. Up until Walter Hannon was defeated, it was 45 years since an incumbent Mayor was defeated for re-election. I think we need a certain amount of stability. So I'm certainly not going to use the City Council as a launching pad for Mayor. Another thing, I just couldn't afford to take the job right now. I have kids in college and the financial demands on me for the next few years are going to be great. In eight years or so my kids will be grown up and if I'm still in government and my health is good, I would consider a run for Mayor.

SUN: The first important decision you're going to have to make is on Council president. Who do you have in mind?

McCAULEY: At the present time, there appears to be three candidates. Councillor Quinn announced right after his election. Councillor Harold is interested in it. And Councillor Sheets is interested in it. I've talked to Councillor Harold and, frankly, he would be acceptable to me as president of the Council. I plan to talk to Councillor Sheets in the near future. I have observed him on the Council for the past four years. He has been a moderate. I think he has been a restraining influence at times on the Council. He certainly would be one who would be acceptable to me.

SUN: Quinn?

McCAULEY: No. Quinn is not acceptable to me.

SUN: Why not?

McCAULEY: Well, I suppose it goes back to the '67 election when that flyer was put out on me at the last minute. It happened again here and it was Councillor Quinn again. I don't mind having people challenge me on my record in public office but I don't particularly care to have people shaking my hand at meetings and then distributing flyers distorting my position in the midnight hours, the waning hours of an election campaign. It's happened twice and both times Councillor Quinn was behind it. He's just not my cup of tea for the presidency of the City Council. I'd like somebody I can kind of look up to, somebody I can kind of respect. I think Councillor Harold and Councillor Sheets fill that bill.

SUN: You're also in the unusual position of helping to choose your successor on the School Committee. Do you have any person in mind?

McCAULEY: I've made no commitment. Committeemen Anselmo and Sweeney have both contacted me and asked me for my vote and I've taken their requests under consideration. Young Pat Conroy from Ward 6, who ran in the Council race, is interested. He's spoken to me. There's another fellow by the name of Conway. He's a sergeant in the police of Boston. He's also got a background in education. He sent a complete resume out and I plan to interview him if he wants me to. There are two schools of thought. Some people feel that since Mr. Anselmo was the runnerup, he should get prime consideration. There are many others who have contacted me who feel that neither Mr. Anselmo or Mr. Sweeney should go back because they were defeated. These people have been dissatisfied with the school system and their dissatisfaction carried into the election and they feel we should have a fresh face in there. There's another young fellow who has been mentioned, Dean Nicastro, who ran once before. He's a young attorney with an excellent academic background, just starting his law practice in Quincy. If he becomes a candidate he certainly would get prime consideration. But at the present moment I have not made any commitment or any decision on who to vote for.

Claire Cooledge Opens 'Doorway To Fashions'

Claire Cooledge's "Doorway to Fashions" has opened at 28 Greenwood Ave., Wollaston, with the slogan "the feminine woman returns."

The shop will feature women's dresses and accessories and will offer personalized service. Mrs.

Cooledge said the shop will emphasize dresses for day, afternoon and evening wear on the theory "girls who wear dresses get love and caresses."

Located opposite the Wollaston MBTA Station, "Doorway to Fashions" has ample parking facilities.

Mrs. Cooledge owned and operated the Elmwood Nursing Home in Wollaston for 19 years. She is a past president of the South Shore Activity Directors and a member of the Mass. Recreation and Park Society and the Emblem Club.

Chamber Tax Seminar At South Shore Bank

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce Small Business Information Center (B.I.C.) will sponsor a seminar Dec. 12, on the 1977 Tax Reduction and Simplification Act.

The seminar, to be held from 8 to 11:30 a.m. at the South Shore Bank in Quincy, will cover changes affecting individual and business returns as well as other new tax developments in Massachusetts.

A topic of prime importance to the small businessperson is the creation this year of a tax credit which provides employers with tax incentives for creating new jobs. This will be covered in detail at the Dec. 12 clinic.

The seminar will be presented by William and Nina Gallagher, of the Gallagher and Gallagher CPA firm, and by Edward Gurry, PhD, a management consultant.

For reservations and further information, call Donald Rielly at the Chamber's Small Business Center, 479-1111.

Mass. Electric Offering Free Solar Water Heating Guide

Massachusetts Electric Company announces it is offering a free guide to solar water heating to any consumer who requests one.

Mass. Electric President William J. Cadigan said the guide is based on the experience gained over the past two years from an ongoing solar water heating experiment being conducted by Mass. Electric and its affiliates.

"The guide," Cadigan said, "is a direct result of our research and development efforts in the area of solar energy. It was developed over the past several months by a task force of consumer experts along with representatives of Mass. Electric and other solar energy specialists under the direction of the Brookhaven National Laboratory."

"The guide presents the pros and cons of solar equipment in general," Cadigan said, "and, for those consumers who decide to install a solar unit, it offers guidelines for choosing a contractor and selecting a solar water heating system."

The free "Solar Water Heating Consumer Guide" may be obtained by writing to the Solar Energy Office, P. O. Box 540, Westborough, MA 01581.

"Section 3" Opportunity Procedure

Invitation to Register as "Section 3" Business

In conformity with Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, 12 U.S.C. 1701u, and pursuant regulations, the City of Quincy herewith gives notice to businesses qualifying under Section 3, that contracts will be awarded for provision of services relative to the implementation of the City's Community Development Program under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Section 3 requires that to the greatest extent feasible contracts for work to be performed relative to the above program including but not limited to individuals or firms doing business in the field of building, construction, rehabilitation and general contracting, should be awarded to business concerns which are located in or owned in substantial part by persons residing in the City of Quincy.

Section 3 Criteria:

1. Business concerns located within the Section 3 covered area means those individuals or firms located within the City of Quincy and which qualify as small under the small business size standards of the Small Business Administration.
2. Business concerns owned in substantial part by persons residing in the City of Quincy means those business concerns located outside the City of Quincy which are 51% or more owned by persons residing in the City.
3. Business concerns which qualify for a Section 3 designation must be prepared, upon the submission of any bid proposal, to include appropriate plans for the utilization; to the maximum extent feasible, of low income and minority individuals in the proposed projects employment requirements. In addition, an affirmative action plan shall be required in order to implement the proposed worker utilization goals.

Businesses wishing to receive requests for proposals relative to the above referenced activities are invited to place their names on the City of Quincy Register of Section 3 business and submit such documentation as needed to certify compliance with the above mentioned criteria to the Department of Planning and Community Development, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Mass. 02169.

Nestor Replaces Solimini In No. 2 Police Post

Capt. Paul Nestor, whose ouster two years ago touched off a bitter court fight between Mayor LaRaia and Police Chief Francis X. Finn, has been returned to the post of Inspector of Divisions, which is, in effect, second in command in the Police Department.

Finn disclosed this week that Nestor assumed his duties Dec. 1, succeeding Lt. Corady Solimini, the man who replaced him in January, 1976, on the order of Mayor LaRaia and over the objections of Chief Finn.

Solimini has been assigned to the Division of Statistical Services, under Nestor, but the assignment was postponed until Jan. 4, to permit Solimini to assist

Barry Calls Fire Dept. Contract Amendment 'Utterly Ridiculous'

Mayor LaRaia and the Quincy Firefighters Union have negotiated a contract amendment which apparently gives the firefighters themselves control over most transfers within the Fire Department.

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry called it "a condition that is utterly ridiculous."

"I intend to seek legal advice," said Barry, "in order to prevent the weakening of the Chief's office and the operational and organizational efficiency of the Quincy Fire Department."

"I have as my responsibility the life safety of the people of the city of Quincy ... and I do not intend to surrender this responsibility or have it impaired by Mayor LaRaia's recent decision."

The contract amendment, which is based on the general ruling of an arbitration panel, was signed Dec. 5 by Mayor LaRaia and George L. Lamb, Peter Quinn, Matthew Mullen and William Center for Firefighters Local 792.

Its key provisions are:

- "There shall be no group or company transfers without the consent of the affected

LaRaia, Shea Clash Head-On Over Audit Of City's Books

Renewed feuding flared between Mayor LaRaia and City Auditor Charles L. Shea this week as the Mayor endorsed a City Council request for an audit of the city's books by the State Bureau of Accounts.

If there's anything wrong with the books it's the auditor's fault, charged Mayor LaRaia, listing a number of what he termed illegalities or errors on the part of the auditor.

"The hell it is," snapped Shea, replying in detail to each of the Mayor's allegations.

The request for an audit was filed by City Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, who takes over the Mayor's office from LaRaia on Jan. 3. The Council passed the request Dec. 5.

"I feel very strongly that there should be an audit," said LaRaia in signing the Council resolution.

"I have requested the Bureau of Accounts on three occasions to perform an audit since I have been in office but the Bureau has been unable to comply due to inadequate staffing."

The Mayor noted that "all financial transactions that occur in the city are approved by the city auditor."

"Therefore, any audit done

Warns 'Without Discussion' Days Over

A Startler: Joan Picard Doesn't Believe In School Autonomy

By TOM HENSHAW

There are stirring days ahead for the Quincy School Committee—and for School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

The day when the School Committee could pass one of Dr. Creedon's recommendations "without discussion" is over with newly elected School Committeewoman Joan Picard sitting on the board.

Mrs. Picard, proprietor of a Quincy nursery school, gathered 14,617 votes in her first run for public office to finish second behind Mary Collins, another newcomer, in the School Committee race.

In an in-depth interview with The Quincy Sun, the outspoken Mrs. Picard made these points on what she feels is best for Quincy schools and what she plans to do after Jan. 3, when she takes her seat on the committee:

• She feels Dr. Creedon is making "far too much money" ($50,000) as superintendent of the school system and she found that voters "weren't particularly pleased with the products that were coming out" of that system.

• She believes in old-fashioned basic education "when you went to school and came out at 2:30 and you had a day's education behind you. There is too much time wasted."

• She does not believe in fiscal autonomy for the schools because she "doesn't know any city or town where it works. The School Committee is supposed to check spending. They're not doing their job."

• She hasn't decided who to vote for to replace Frank McCauley on the School Committee but it probably will be someone who ran before. "I worked hard to get elected. Why should someone walk in the back door?"

The text of Mrs. Picard's interview with The Sun follows: SUN: You're new to public life in Quincy. Tell us something about your background.

PICARD: I went to St. Mary's school, Grades 1 through 8. Then I went on to public

Sharpshooter Team Wins Recognition

Quincy Police Marksmen On Target In Competition

By ROBIN LORD

From Houlton, Me., to Jackson, Miss., Quincy Police Sharpshooters, Peter Kendall, Lou McDonald and Aubert Smith, have brought recognition to Quincy and pride to their profession.

With completion of their third season in competition, the men practice marksmanship, not as a hobby, but as an awareness program for their lives as policemen.

Their competitions and winnings have taken them all over the East, with their most distinguished win in New Haven, Conn. There the team of Kendall and McDonald ran away with first place in competition with 200 others for the Connecticut State Championship. Also in

QUINCY SHARPSHOOTERS - Quincy Police Master sharpshooters team, Peter Kendall, Lou McDonald and Aubert Smith present second place award they recently won in competition at Agawam, for the Massachusetts Police Combat Championship to Dave Dougherty, president of the Quincy Police Betterment Association. Connecticut, they took seven awards at the New England

Regionals at Simsbury. Notable awards were also received in Maine, Rhode Island and North Attleboro.

At the state championship held in Agawam, Kendall and McDonald, as a Masters team, took second place. During this competition, McDonald's rating was raised to Master Expert, the highest rating any marksman can receive.

"We may have a young start, but we are facing guys with 10 to 15 years experience and matching them," says McDonald. "We are reaching a goal earlier than they ever did, probably due to new technology in equipment."

McDonald recently took his family to Jackson, Miss., where he entered national competition. Forty states and four Canadian provinces were represented by 1,000 competitors. He placed 26th in his class and hopes to return next year.

But the glory of winning wasn't the only honor these men received for their efforts.

"Most of all, we enjoy representing Quincy," says McDonald. "We meet officers from all over the world, as far as Egypt and Brazil. Each one of them shows the professionalism needed for their jobs as well as the matches."

The men in the competition swap experiences and information on police procedure in their area of the country. McDonald feels because of this sharing of knowledge, he and others have become more aware of the job.

Although McDonald has never had to pull his gun, he believes through his practice for competitions, he will be more prepared if the situation should ever arise.

The sharpshooters are sponsored by the Quincy Police Betterment Association and owe much of their success to the association for taking care of their financial problems. It costs an individual over $1,000 to enter a full season's competitions.

The Sharpshooters have also received a citation from the Quincy City Council and have the backing of Police Chief Francis Finn.

New FR Bridge Up To State

Kennedy Sees Revival In Shipbuilding For Navy

By TOM HENSHAW

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy [D-Mass] says he sees a coming revival in the building of ships for the U.S. Navy.

"I think there will be an important restoration in terms of conventional shipbuilding for the armed services," he said during a visit last week to The Quincy Sun.

"There has been a serious reduction in the number of naval ships recently. I think that will be reversed.

"I strongly support strategic arms limitation but I think restoration of conventional forces in the Navy has an important role."

He said he felt the federal government has gone about as far as it can toward helping to build a new and wider Fore River Bridge and now it is up to state and local authorities.

"Basically," he said, "there are funds available under the Highway Trust Fund that gives discretion to the states as to how they will be spent.

"There are federal funds available. They need matching state and local resources. But the state has to establish it as a priority and the state says basically that it has other priorities."

There are also federal resources available for community development, he said, but so many communities are after them that it is up to local authorities to fight for their share.

TED KENNEDY: "There will be an important restoration in terms of conventional shipbuilding for the armed services."

"There is not all the money available to do all the communities but I think we have made some progress in recent years in the number of communities in which we have brought together federal resources with state, local and private resources.

"Revenue sharing, community development, economic development and job programs have worked quite successfully and I think we can count on continuation of them.

"I don't think there will be a dramatic expansion but there will be continuity. I am hopeful that revenue sharing will be targeted for areas of high unemployment."

The employment picture in Quincy, he said, is better than it has been in quite a while with unemployment dropping from 7.9 percent to 5.4 percent between October 1976 and October 1977.

"Overall you're going in the right direction," he said, "but those figures do not deal with people who have not found jobs and have gotten tired of looking for them."

Other points made by Sen. Kennedy in the wide-ranging interview included:

• His nephew, Joseph Kennedy, the son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy [D-NY], will not be a candidate for the 11th District Congressional seat and, despite all the rumors, he never has been.

"He is working now for the Community Services Agency in Washington," said his uncle. "He is challenged by it. I think he's doing a good job.

"I expect that some time or other he'll probably think about some other form of public service but I'm unclear as to what form that will be right now.

"He was urged last year to give some consideration to getting involved for some elective office. He talked to different people and that set in motion a lot of stories, most of them made of whole cloth."

The rumor that young Joe would run for the seat held now by Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton] was one of them, he said.

• The 67-year-old Burke is recovering nicely from the recent amputation of his foot, Kennedy said.

"I saw him about three weeks ago and he seems to have that fire in his eye and his heart," he said.

"I think he made the strongest case of anyone in both delegations [Mass and Delaware] when we met to discuss the Readville Amtrak repair station with the secretary of transportation.

"He tore the roof off in a very eloquent way with great affectiveness and delight as well as accuracy. So he was getting the job done."

• Kennedy doesn't feel that the recently released "raw files" of the FBI on the assassination of his brother, President John F. Kennedy, will add anything new.

"Our family is satisfied with the conclusions of the Warren Commission," he said. "We don't believe there'll be anything there that will alter that conclusion."

• And, in answer to the question most often asked, his eye is not on the presidency in 1980.

$83,895 In New Wiring

A total of 106 permits for $83,895 in new wiring were issued during November by the Department of Wire Inspection, according to Thomas E. Purpura, provisional inspector of wires.

Two Quincy Women Cited By Homemaker Services

Two Quincy women were recognized for their efforts as Home Health Aides at the Annual Christmas Dinner of the Homemaker Services for the South Shore held recently in South Weymouth.

Mrs. Muriel I. Oakman of Braintree, executive director, announced Mrs. Anna Banks of Houghs Neck, has been recently awarded by the Massachusetts Council for Homemaker Services the Effie C. Waddell Award for her outstanding dedication in ten years of service. Mrs. Banks also holds the title in Massachusetts as "Homemaker of the Year".

Mrs. Gertrude Schenberger of Adams Shore, was recognized for her work as a Home Health Aide, caring for the ill, handicapped and elderly in many South Shore communities. She has served with the Homemaker Agency for over seven years.

Brenda Johnston Intern At Quincy Co-op

Brenda Johnston, 10 Newton St., Houghs Neck, a senior at the Woodward School for Girls, has been accepted as an intern at the Quincy Cooperative Bank where she will work on a volunteer basis, one day a week, during the remainder of the academic year.

Miss Johnston, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Johnston, plans to major in business administration in college. She is a member of the Class of 1978 and the Woodward School Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Arrangements for the internship were made by Mrs. Margaret Buck, school coordinator for the program, and Francis J. Mitchell, administrative vice president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

CHRISTMAS SEAL artist-designer Tracy Daly of West Quincy, 10-year-old pupil at the Willard School, shows her prize winning drawing to Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall, honorary chairman of the 1977 Christmas Seal campaign for the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association. Tracy will be featured on the Willard School float in the Christmas Festival Parade Sunday, Nov. 27.

Tracy's Snowman Christmas Seal Winner

Tracy Daly, 10-year-old West Quincy girl, has returned from Washington where she attended the opening of a display of art work which included her own entry in the Christmas Seal competition.

The special project co-sponsored by the American Lung Association and the National Art Education Association brought thousands of ideas from youngsters throughout the country.

Tracy, a pupil at the Willard School, had her entry selected as one to represent this part of the nation. It is part of the more than 60 million Christmas Seals now being distributed.

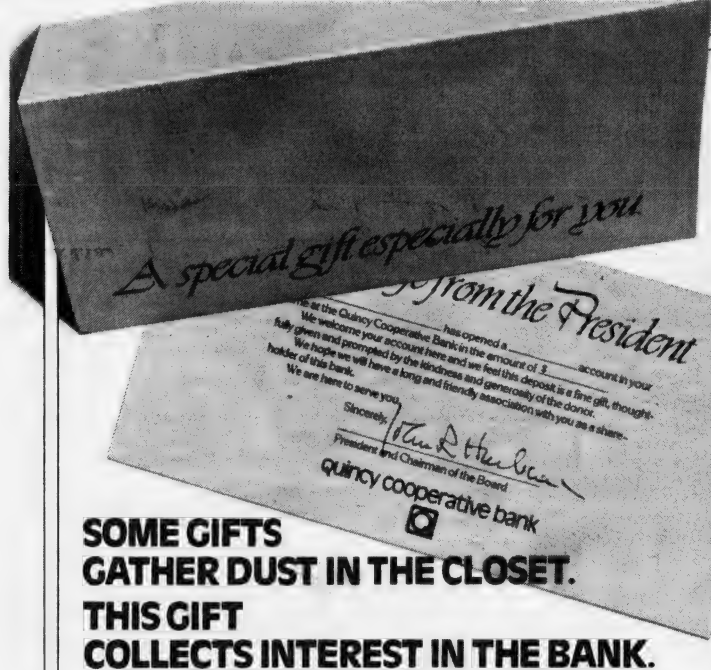

The youngsters were asked to express their ideas about Christmas on paper. The results were bursting with life and color. Some children saw Christmas as a silver horse and sleigh racing through snowy fields. Others saw Santa Claus riding a whale, and one youngster drew a giant poinsettia as representing the Feast Day.

Tracy's drawing shows a colorful Snowman standing beside a snow-laden tree in a New England winter setting.

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association has honored Tracy for her imaginative entry. She has also been cited by the City of Quincy and the Quincy School Committee.

An account, any account, at Quincy Cooperative Bank, is the perfect way to say "Congratulations" or "Happy Birthday." Because people of all ages, lifestyles, and differences of taste can watch it grow with interest. Or redeem it for cash at sometime, if needed, in the future.

And if recipients regularly add to their new Quincy Cooperative Account, they'll remember the gift from you for the rest of their lives.

Open, for example, a Regular Savings Account in any amount in the name of your favorite nephew or niece. It could be the ideal way to cap off his or her graduation.

And a Paid Up Share will receive a great reception as a wedding gift.

Other gift ideas are Quincy Cooperative Term Certificates, NOW Accounts, Paid Up Shares and U.S. Savings Bonds. All especially fine gifts for special occasions like anniversaries, birthdays, christenings, confirmations, bar mitzvahs and more.

So whatever the occasion, next time give someone special a special gift that will appreciate as well as be appreciated.

Quincy Cooperative will provide a handsome greeting card describing your gift—you can give it with your gift or we will mail it for you.

Silversmiths of centuries past lavished much of their artistic skill on containers for salt. An upright holder was called the standing salt. Originally, the standing salt separated the host from his guests seated at a long table. Social status was indicated by one's proximity to the salt. By the late seventeenth century, however, small individual salt cellars were in use. Known as "cellar" salts, these silver containers were 1½ inches high, and came in such shapes as oval, round, square, and polygonal. Ornamental moulding edges the base and rim of these lovely antiques.

We're known for our lovely jewelry. When selecting a gift for any member of your family be sure to visit with us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. Nestor Replaces Solimini In No. 2 Police Post

Mayor LaRaia during the transition of his administration. Finn said announcement of the new assignments was postponed until Dec. 13, when Solimini returned from vacation, "so that he will not read it in the newspapers or hear it in any way before he is officially notified."

Nestor was also named to oversee the Police Department's Crime Prevention Bureau.

In other moves within the Police Department:

- Lt. Neil MacDonald was given the day-to-day duties of the Crime Prevention Unit, working with Planning and Research for all background data.

- Sgt. Kenneth Borst was reassigned to the Crime Prevention Unit under Capt. Nestor and Lt. MacDonald.

- Lt. William Murphy was directed to assist the Crime Prevention Unit in addition to his duties as administrative aide to the Chief.

Solimini was named inspector of divisions in place of Nestor in January, 1976, a few days after Mayor LaRaia took office.

On Jan. 22, Solimini made several recommendations to Finn for reorganizing the Department. Finn rejected some of them. On Feb. 11, LaRaia wrote to Finn ordering him to adopt Solimini's suggestions. Finn sued to establish the lines of authority between himself and the Mayor.

Last August, Judge Ellis F. Brown in Norfolk Superior Court ruled that in effect the Chief and not the Mayor was in charge of the Police Department.

The judge said that LaRaia acted outside his authority when he named Lt. Solimini to the post of inspector of divisions over the Chief's objections.

He also ruled that the Mayor does not have the authority to order transfers or make duty assignments for police officers within the department.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

One of the best ways to treat a dark dim corner in your home is to brighten it with a potted palm. Palms have been around for centuries and their regal ways provide a touch of class for any environment. They take their time growing, require little attention and will survive the most benign neglect. The Pygmy Date or Bamboo palms are trustworthy and loyal and the Parlor Palm will sit comfortably for years wherever you put it. Be on the lookout for brown leaf tips - the signal that you're overwatering.

At NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 you will find a wide variety of floral related gifts that would make the perfect Christmas present for almost everyone on your list. Stop by and see our beautiful and creative shop displays. As members of FTD and Teleflora we can arrange to deliver your Christmas message almost anywhere in the world. "For the Creative and Unusual in Floral Designing". Master Charge and BankAmericard honored. Hours: Mon. - Sat. 8-6, evenings by appointment.

HELPFUL HINT

Keep the leaves clean by misting and by sponging with tepid, soapy water and your potted palm will give you years of pleasure.

Quincy Savings Bank's Energy Conservation Loan. At an Annual Percentage Rate of 9.00% for amounts between $1500 and $7500.

That's right. If at least half of a home improvement is to save energy, homeowners who are approved by the bank now may borrow between $1500 and $7500 from Quincy Savings Bank at an Annual Percentage Rate of just 9.00%. And, for similar projects between $500 and $1499, approved borrowers will pay a low Annual Percentage Rate of 10.00%.

Why are we offering what could be the lowest rates you'll find?
 Simply because we want to encourage energy-savings in the home. Through such improvements as added insulation. Better siding or a new roof. Combination windows and doors. Weatherstripping and caulking. New heating systems, including solar panels. Turn our rate tables over in your mind as you think about the energy-saving project you particularly need. Then call us at 471-3500 to apply for your Energy Conservation Loan or for more information.

Pat Toland Seen School Committee Vice-Chairman

Quincy, it appears, will have its second woman School Committee vice-chairman in history come January.

Insiders predict the prestigious post will go to Patricia Toland at the School Committee's organizational meeting Jan. 3. The only other woman so honored -- as far as anyone can remember -- was Alice Mitchell.

If Mrs. Toland has it wrapped up, she isn't saying, however. Her only comment: "I am a candidate and that is all I am going to say." But close sources are convinced she has more than enough votes among her colleagues to replace John J. Sullivan who by law cannot succeed himself.

The defeat of Frank Anselmo and Charles Sweeney at the polls in November, leaves Sullivan the senior member on the incoming board [at this moment] with four years service. Mrs. Toland and Christopher Kennedy are next with two years each.

Kennedy would be the only other possibility for the vice-chairmanship but those same close sources say he has not really pursued it.

Voting at the organizational meeting will be Mrs. Toland, Sullivan, Kennedy, Mayor-elect Arthur Tobin and board newcomers Mary Collins and Joan Picard.

Still unresolved at this time is whether the vote for the vice-chairmanship will come before or after the vacancy now existing on the board is filled. The vacancy was created by the election of Frank McCauley to the City Council at-Large.

Those close sources again don't think it will matter as far as the vice-chairmanship is concerned. They believe Mrs. Toland has enough votes regardless of who fills the vacant seat and regardless of how that person would vote.

Which would indicate she has at least four -- and probably more -- votes with her right now. Four votes are needed.

Mrs. Toland, mother of four youngsters ranging in age from five to 13, is what you might refer to as a "working school committeewoman." She really works at the job.

In the two years she has held the office, she has visited just about every school in the city, touring the buildings, visiting classrooms, and talking with teachers.

She also attends frequent workshops sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees and meets informally with members of other school committees.

There's no doubt she would work at being vice-chairman, too.

MEANWHILE, Anselmo and Sweeney still seem to be the two strongest contenders for the seat being vacated by McCauley. Ten votes are needed among the City Council and School Committee members, who will meet in a joint-election.

A fresh face could yet win it, but there seems to be a growing feeling among some of those who will cast votes that the "logical" solution may be to give it to the runner-up in the last election. That, of course, would be Anselmo.

But others still hold to the theory that the runner-up by losing in the city election was "rejected" by the electorate.

Actually, it's causing quite a dilemma.

RONALD CONWAY of Milton Rd. North Quincy is one who would like to see a fresh face fill the vacant seat. His, A Boston police sergeant assigned to the Boston Police Academy and father of three has sent his resume to each of the 15 school committee and city council members who will cast the ballots to fill the vacancy. And has requested interviews with them. He has already had 10 interviews. Conway, incidentally, plans to run for school committee two years from now if he doesn't get to fill the vacancy.

COUNCILLOR Leo Kelly's mother, Mrs. Cathleen Kelly, 78, is coming along nicely after her second hip surgery in three months. Ann Gaffey, known to many as Quincy's "Miss Democrat" is a patient at Quincy City Hospital and reported as doing "well".

MIKE MORRISSEY is off and running for the new First Norfolk state representative district. He just blossomed with a new orange and black bumper sticker that proclaims: "Morrissey, '78"

The new district will comprise half of Morrissey's present Third District and half of James Sheets' current Fourth District.

FORMER CITY COUNCILLOR Carl Anderson may be getting along in years, but he's got a memory like an elephant. Especially when it comes to Plan E.

Anderson notes that it was exactly 25 years ago Monday that late City Manager William Deegan went to the District Attorney's office seeking indictments against him. The indictments, charging Anderson with violations of the Plan E charter, were issued in April and Anderson was found innocent in Norfolk County Superior Court. Political observers believe Deegan's action against Anderson killed Plan E in Quincy because it drove a permanent wedge between the council and the city manager's office.

"Single handedly," says Anderson, "I suppressed Communism in Quincy. Plan E is a form of Communism. By winning in court, I defeated Communism."

George R. Riley, 43, of 109 Faxon Lane, an insurance man and former city purchasing agent, has been named executive secretary-designee in the coming administration of Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin said Riley was named to the post of the Mayor's top assistant three weeks early so that he can "help me with the task of constructing my administration."

The Mayor-elect said that Riley came highly recommended by all 10 members of his screening committee, who reviewed his appointment for three hours last week, including a one hour interview.

Tobin said Riley has an appointment to meet with Arthur Casey, executive secretary to Mayor LaRia, this morning [Thursday] to discuss the transition of office.

Riley, son of the late Police Capt. Edward G. Riley, was graduated from North Quincy

GEORGE RILEY

High School in 1952 and from Boston College with a degree in finance in 1956. He was a lieutenant, a rifle platoon leader, in the Marine Corps from 1956-58.

After a brief stint as New England sales promotion representative for the Colgate-Palmolive Co., he started his own insurance business at his home in 1961.

Later he opened an office at 380 Sea St. and then went into partnership with John T. Rielly Jr. as the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency. Riley is president.

He was named purchasing agent for the city of Quincy in 1968 and served until 1972.

Riley is a member of the Lions Club, the Quincy City Club, the Elks, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Marine Corps League, the Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Norfolk County Honorary Deputy Sheriff's Association.

He has served as president of the Lions Club, the Merrymount Association and the Holy Name Society at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church. He also was chaplain of the Quincy Elks Lodge.

He and his wife, the former Mary Patricia Callahan, have four children, Mark, 17, Scott, 15, Kirk, 13 and Paul, 12.

Open Letter From N.C. To Quincy Merchants

Gentlemen and Editor:

The recent article in the Quincy Sun [1 Dec. 1977] dealing about merchants opening up on Sunday hit some real fine points for reflection.

Being a member of the Corps of Officers in the United States Marine Corps, I've had the opportunity to live in a few different states. I presently reside in Jacksonville, North Carolina with my family where they, the merchants, are open every Sunday. Wherever I've resided the local merchants have been open Sunday and for the most part are successful. I have some observations to pass on as a consumer and a college marketing major.

First, Bob Colman was wrong, Sunday shopping can be a "Big Bonanza", if merchants follow certain guidelines. The proper employment of marketing and advertising techniques can make every Sunday a meaningful shopping day. True Sunday shopping hours does give a certain percentage "a place to go and hang around", but attractive specials and sales may entice Sunday spending.

Merchants have to make Sunday shopping attractive to the consumer. The offering of Specials and Sunday Only Sales can do this; remember the consumer must be influenced, you must help him make up his mind. Sunday is the day when families are generally out as a unit, to go shopping on their way back from church, on their way to or from a visit or just out comparison shopping. Window shopping is beneficial; the first step to the cash register is getting the consumer interested and in the store. What's so wrong if Sunday browsing is the catalyst for a Monday sale? Window shopping can bring the consumer into the store; what can you offer him? Do you expect the consumer to bring his money to your register if you just open your doors?

Second, Sumner Cohen, made a good point: "It takes time to change peoples habits". That is one of the biggest obstacles. Again employment of proper techniques in marketing and advertising can change habits. Massachusetts consumers are used to doing most of their weekly shopping on Friday night, Saturday afternoon and evening. Sunday is their day of rest and leisure. The consumer must take the view that the whole weekend is for rest, leisure and shopping. Encouraging people to spread it out over the whole weekend is what is needed. This is going to take time, it cannot be done overnight and the merchants must accept this.

Mike Stone had a good point: "If there is any business to be done in the cold and rain people will take it to the malls." Face it, the Plazas and Malls are the "in thing". The reason: cities and towns have let their downtown areas go to ruin. It is up to the City Governments and merchants as a collective to offer the consumer what he desires and to make shopping in your area attractive to him.

I'm glad to see that Quincy has a plan to revitalize its downtown area, lets not procrastinate. I know that as Mayor, Arthur Tobin will not let Quincy down.

It must be remembered that the consumer has a fixed limit of buying power, and if he doesn't spend it in Quincy he'll spend it somewhere else. There is no reason why Sunday could not be a bonanza all year long; I've seen it done in Florida, Virginia, North Carolina and Maryland. Quincy??

Maybe what you need is to sit back and look at yourself. Consultation with a marketing and advertising firm who has access to studies done by those who have successfully operated on Sunday, may be what is needed.

I don't have all the answers but maybe I've given you some food for thought.

Good Luck,

It was Quincy's 15th victory in 16 games, the other being a 1-1 tie with New Bedford Vocational School, which immediately issued a challenge for a post-season championship contest.

The Quincy lineup included:

Bob Meyer, goal; Bill Jensen, Jay Desmond, backs; Al Paine, Hugh Logan, Johnny Nelson, halfbacks; Carlton Jepson, Alex Mitchellson, Johnny Brown, Johnny MacGibbon, Alec McGuire, forwards.

Also Smudge George, spare back; Charlie Anderson, spare halfback; John Sullivan, spare forward.

OIL TANKS OPPOSED

Some 300 residents of Quincy Point attended a mass meeting at the Fore River Clubhouse to protest an application by the Standard Oil Co. to build oil storage tanks on the banks of the Town River.

"If Standard Oil's application is granted then three more petitions for oil tank establishment on Town River will be sought by other companies," said City Councillor John P. Flavin, who promised to seek Council disapproval.

Meanwhile, Council intervention was rendered moot when City Solicitor J. J. McAnarney ruled that a new act of the Legislature, effective Dec. 1, had taken the power of disapproval away from the Council.

'OFFICE WIFE' AT STRAND

"The Office Wife", starring Dorothy Mackail and Lewis Stone, the picture which asks the question: "Has the woman at home anything to fear from the woman at her husband's office," was playing at the Strand.

The second feature was Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "Half Shot at Sunrise."

The Strand was also holding a special "Vegetable Matinee for Children" in which youngsters were admitted free if they brought a vegetable for the Quincy Family Welfare Society's Christmas baskets.

schools. I went to South Junior High School—it's Sterling Junior High School now—and then on to Quincy High School. I was head majorette in my senior year. I suppose that really was the highlight in high school. It doesn't seem important to a lot of people but to me it was important. Another thing that was interesting about my high school years is the fact that Joanne Condon and I went to high school together. I think it was at the end of her junior year that she transferred to North Quincy High School but we both graduated the same year from high school. We lost track of each other when she moved to North. It wasn't until I read about her candidacy in the paper and sent her a note and she met me and explained who she was that I knew she was Joanne Moore. But that's neither here nor there. I graduated in 1957 and got a job at Quincy Hospital. I was there three or four weeks and had my appendix out. I was out for five weeks so I transferred when I came back to the Quincy School Department. I was secretary to John Houston, who was assistant superintendent of schools under Dr. Gossard. I worked there for two and a half years and then transferred when an opening came up at Point Junior High School. I worked as a secretary there for two and a half years. So basically I have a pretty good background in what the school department is all about and how it operates.

SUN: Did you go to college?
PICARD: I did. I met my husband, Tom, married him, had three children and went back to college. I graduated last June from Quincy Junior College. I'm now at Bridgewater. In fact, while I went to Quincy Junior College, I was a student at Bridgewater. I hated to waste that last year in junior college with just one course each semester. So I went to Bridgewater and enrolled in courses down there. When I graduated from Quincy Junior I had quite a start at Bridgewater. I've been a fulltime student this semester.

SUN: How old are your children now?

PICARD: Scott is 7½. Rene is 9 this week. Suzanne is 11.

SUN: This nursery school is interesting. How long has it been going? When did you start it?

PICARD: Well, we wanted to buy a camper about seven years ago but there was no way we could afford it on our salary. So I said to Tom: "Gee, there's a little job open in a nursery school. Why don't I take that and I can take the little one with me and not have to leave him home?" So I took the job and I worked there for a year. When I got through I realized that if you really wanted to do something like that you could do it. The opportunities were there. We had this building. I didn't have to buy the land. But I had to take out a loan. I went to see Frank McCauley at the bank and he arranged the whole thing for me. It's funny how everything travels in circles. When I opened the doors of the nursery school I wasn't qualified to run it. I didn't have a degree so I had to hire a director for that first year until I got enough credits toward my degree to run it. This is our fifth year.

SUN: What do the kids do here?

PICARD: It's basically a learning experience. They're having snacks right now and they're all sitting at the table together and it is more structured than usual. But you can't structure 3 and 4-year-olds down and have them do what you want them to do or you'll have a lot of unhappy kids. Nursery school is basically letting a child experience different things.

SUN: How many kids do you have here?

PICARD: I'm licensed for 53 in the morning and 53 in the afternoon. I have 50 in the morning and about 20 in the afternoon.

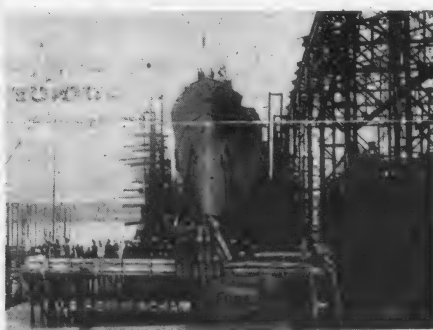

SUN: Okay, let's get down to work. Why did you run for the School Committee?

PICARD: Because I was really discouraged with a lot of things in the School Department. When I started going to meetings with Tom I had no intention of running for School Committee. He was going because he happened to be involved with the maintenance unions. It meant it was a night out for him and he came home and he used to say this and that so finally I said, "Maybe I'll go and see what it's like." I started going two years ago to the meetings. I found that many, many things that went across the School Committee tables sometimes didn't have a second. Sometimes they went by the board without any discussion whatsoever. I felt there should be a lot more discussion. Sometimes hearing someone else's feelings on a particular issue could influence the decision one way or another. There didn't seem to be much talk. It was kind of cut and dried. I wanted to hear more. I said to Tom, "Apparently, the only way to have a voice in the Quincy schools is to become part of it." Obviously, the only way that I could become part of it at this stage of the game was to run for office. I came home a few times from meetings and I'd say, "For heavens sake, I'm going to run for School Committee." Tom would say, "Go ahead." But the next day I'd have second thoughts about it. Finally, one day I came home and I was so upset, I said, "Well, that's it. I'm going to run for School Committee." Tom said, "This time do something about it or don't tell me again." So I picked up the telephone and I called Henry Bosworth. I said, "Would you put in the Sunbeams column in The Sun that I am considering my candidacy for School Committee?" He said, "Are you

Tobin Names Riley

Executive Secretary-Designee

George R. Riley, 43, of 109 Faxon Lane, an insurance man and former city purchasing agent, has been named executive secretary-designee in the coming administration of Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin said Riley was named to the post of the Mayor's top assistant three weeks early so that he can "help me with the task of constructing my administration."

The Mayor-elect said that Riley came highly recommended by all 10 members of his screening committee, who reviewed his appointment for three hours last week, including a one hour interview.

Tobin said Riley has an appointment to meet with Arthur Casey, executive secretary to Mayor LaRaia, this morning [Thursday] to discuss the transition of office.

Riley, son of the late Police Capt. Edward G. Riley, was graduated from North Quincy

Quincy, it appears, will have its second woman School Committee vice-chairman in history come January.

OIL TANKS OPPOSED

Some 300 residents of Quincy Point attended a mass meeting at the Fore River Clubhouse to protest an application by the Standard Oil Co. to build oil storage tanks on the banks of the Town River.

"If Standard Oil's application is granted then three more petitions for oil tank establishment on Town River will be sought by other companies," said City Councillor John P. Flavin, who promised to seek Council disapproval.

Meanwhile, Council intervention was rendered moot when City Solicitor J. J. McAnaney ruled that a new act of the Legislature, effective Dec. 1, had taken the power of disapproval away from the Council.

'OFFICE WIFE' AT STRAND

"The Office Wife", starring Dorothy Mackaill and Lewis Stone, the picture which asks the question: "Has the woman at home anything to fear from the woman at her husband's office," was playing at the Strand.

The second feature was Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "Half Shot at Sunrise."

The Strand was also holding a special "Vegetable Matinee for Children" in which youngsters were admitted free if they brought a vegetable for the Quincy Family Welfare Society's Christmas baskets.

schools. I went to South Junior High School—it's Sterling Junior High School now—and then on to Quincy High School. I was head majorette in my senior year. I suppose that really was the highlight in high school. It doesn't seem important to a lot of people but to me it was important. Another thing that was interesting about my high school years is the fact that Joanne Condon and I went to high school together. I think it was at the end of her junior year that she transferred to North Quincy High School but we both graduated the same year from high school. We lost track of each other when she moved to North. It wasn't until I read about her candidacy in the paper and sent her a note and she met me and explained who she was that I knew she was Joanne Moore. But that's neither here nor there. I graduated in 1957 and got a job at Quincy Hospital. I was there three or four weeks and had my appendix out. I was out for five weeks so I transferred when I came back to the Quincy School Department. I was secretary to John Houston, who was assistant superintendent of schools under Dr. Gossard. I worked there for two and a half years and then transferred when an opening came up at Point Junior High School. I worked as a secretary there for two and a half years. So basically I have a pretty good background in what the school department is all about and how it operates.

SUN: Did you go to college?

PICARD: I did. I met my husband, Tom, married him, had three children and went back to college. I graduated last June from Quincy Junior College. I'm now at Bridgewater. In fact, while I went to Quincy Junior College, I was a student at Bridgewater. I hated to waste that last year in junior college with just one course each semester. So I went to Bridgewater and enrolled in courses down there. When I graduated from Quincy Junior I had quite a start at Bridgewater. I've been a fulltime student this semester.

SUN: How old are your children now?

PICARD: Scott is 7½. Rene is 9 this week. Suzanne is 11.

SUN: This nursery school is interesting. How long has it been going? When did you start it?

PICARD: Well, we wanted to buy a camper about seven years ago but there was no way we could afford it on one salary. So I said to Tom: "Gee, there's a little job open in a nursery school. Why don't I take that and I can take the little one with me and not have to leave him home?" So I took the job and I worked there for a year. When I got through I realized that if you really wanted to do something like that you could do it. The opportunities were there. We had this building. I didn't have to buy the land. But I had to take out a loan. I went to see Frank McCauley at the bank and he arranged the whole thing for me. It's funny how everything travels in circles. When I opened the doors of the nursery school I wasn't qualified to run it. I didn't have a degree so I had to hire a director for that first year until I got enough credits toward my degree to run it. This is our fifth year.

SUN: What do the kids do here?

PICARD: It's basically a learning experience. They're having snacks right now and they're all sitting at the table together and it is more structured than usual. But you can't structure 3 and 4-year-olds down and have them do what you want them to do or you'll have a lot of unhappy kids. Nursery school is basically letting a child experience different things.

SUN: How many kids do you have here?

PICARD: I'm licensed for 53 in the morning and 53 in the afternoon. I have 50 in the morning and about 20 in the afternoon.

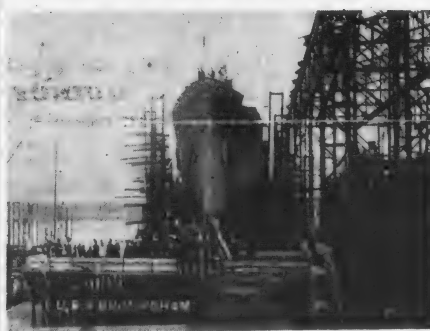

SUN: Okay, let's get down to work. Why did you run for the School Committee?

PICARD: Because I was really discouraged with a lot of things in the School Department. When I started going to meetings with Tom I had no intention of running for School Committee. He was going because he happened to be involved with the maintenance unions. It meant it was a night out for him and he came home and he used to say this and that so finally I said, "Maybe I'll go and see what it's like." I started going two years ago to the meetings. I found that many, many things that went across the School Committee tables sometimes didn't have a second. Sometimes they went by the board without any discussion whatsoever. I felt there should be a lot more discussion. Sometimes hearing someone else's feelings on a particular issue could influence the decision one way or another. There didn't seem to be much talk. It was kind of cut and dried. I wanted to hear more. I said to Tom, "Apparently, the only way to have a voice in the Quincy schools is to become part of it." Obviously, the only way that I could become part of it at this stage of the game was to run for office. I came home a few times from meetings and I'd say, "For heavens sake, I'm going to run for School Committee." Tom would say, "Go ahead." But the next day I'd have second thoughts about it. Finally, one day I came home and I was so upset, I said, "Well, that's it. I'm going to run for School Committee." Tom said, "This time do something about it or don't tell me again." So I picked up the telephone and I called Henry Bosworth. I said, "Would you put in the Sunbeam column in The Sun that I am considering my candidacy for School Committee?" He said, "Are you

George R. Riley, 43, of 109 Faxon Lane, an insurance man and former city purchasing agent, has been named executive secretary-designee in the coming administration of Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin said Riley was named to the post of the Mayor's top assistant three weeks early so that he can "help me with the task of constructing my administration."

The Mayor-elect said that Riley came highly recommended by all 10 members of his screening committee, who reviewed his appointment for three hours last week, including a one hour interview.

Tobin said Riley has an appointment to meet with Arthur Casey, executive secretary to Mayor LaRaia, this morning [Thursday] to discuss the transition of office.

Riley, son of the late Police Capt. Edward G. Riley, was graduated from North Quincy

High School in 1952 and from Boston College with a degree in finance in 1956. He was a lieutenant, a rifle platoon leader, in the Marine Corps from 1956-58.

After a brief stint as New England sales promotion representative for the Colgate-Palmolive Co., he started his own insurance business at his home in 1961.

Later he opened an office at 380 Sea St. and then went into partnership with John T. Rielly Jr. as the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency. Riley is president.

He was named purchasing agent for the city of Quincy in 1968 and served until 1972.

Riley is a member of the Lions Club, the Quincy City Club, the Elks, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Marine Corps League, the Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Norfolk County Honorary Deputy Sheriff's Association.

He has served as president of the Lions Club, the Merry Mount Association and the Holy Name Society at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church. He also was chaplain of the Quincy Elks Lodge.

He and his wife, the former Mary Patricia Callahan, have four children, Mark, 17, Scott, 15, Kirk, 13 and Paul, 12.

Pat Toland Seen School Committee Vice-Chairman

Quincy, it appears, will have its second woman School Committee vice-chairman in history come January.

Insiders predict the prestigious post will go to Patricia Toland at the School Committee's organizational meeting Jan. 3. The only other woman so honored -- as far as anyone can remember -- was Alice Mitchell.

If Mrs. Toland has it wrapped up, she isn't saying, however. Her only comment: "I am a candidate and that is all I am going to say."

But close sources are convinced she has more than enough votes among her colleagues to replace John J. Sullivan who by law cannot succeed himself.

The defeat of Frank Anselmo and Charles Sweeney at the polls in November, leaves Sullivan the senior member on the incoming board [at this moment] with four years service. Mrs. Toland and Christopher Kennedy are next with two years each.

Kennedy would be the only other possibility for the vice-chairmanship but those same close sources say he has not really pursued it.

Voting at the organizational meeting will be Mrs. Toland, Sullivan, Kennedy, Mayor-elect Arthur Tobin and board newcomers Mary Collins and Joan Picard.

Still unresolved at this time is whether the vote for the vice-chairmanship will come before or after the vacancy now existing on the board is filled. The vacancy was created by the election of Frank McCauley to the City Council at-Large.

Those close sources again don't think it will matter as far as the vice-chairmanship is concerned. They believe Mrs. Toland has enough votes regardless of who fills the vacant seat and regardless of how that person would vote.

Which would indicate she has at least four -- and probably more -- votes with her right now. Four votes are needed.

Mrs. Toland, mother of four youngsters ranging in age from five to 13, is what you might refer to as a "working school committee woman." She really works at the job.

In the two years she has held the office, she has visited just about every school in the city, touring the buildings, visiting classrooms, and talking with teachers.

She also attends frequent workshops sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees and meets informally with members of other school committees.

There's no doubt she would work at being vice-chairman, too.

MEANWHILE, Anselmo and Sweeney still seem to be the two strongest contenders for the seat being vacated by McCauley. Ten votes are needed among the City Council and School Committee members, who will meet in a joint-election.

A fresh face could yet win it, but there seems to be a growing feeling among some of those who will cast votes that the "logical" solution may be to give it to the runner-up in the last election. That, of course, would be Anselmo.

But others still hold to the theory that the runner-up by losing in the city election was "rejected" by the electorate.

Actually, it's causing quite a dilemma.

RONALD CONWAY of Milton Rd. North Quincy is one who would like to see a fresh face fill the vacant seat. His, A Boston police sergeant assigned to the Boston Police Academy and father of three has sent his resume to each of the 15 school committee and city council members who will cast the ballots to fill the vacancy. And has requested interviews with them. He has already had 10 interviews. Conway, incidentally, plans to run for school committee two years from now if he doesn't get to fill the vacancy.

COUNCILLOR Leo Kelly's mother, Mrs. Cathleen Kelly, 78, is coming along nicely after her second hip surgery in three months. Ann Galfey, known to many as Quincy's "Miss Democrat" is a patient at Quincy City Hospital and reported as doing "well".

MIKE MORRISSEY is off and running for the new First Norfolk state representative district. He just blossomed with a new orange and black bumper sticker that proclaims: "Morrissey, '78"

The new district will comprise half of Morrissey's present Third District and half of James Sheets' current Fourth District.

FORMER CITY COUNCILLOR Carl Anderson may be getting along in years, but he's got a memory like an elephant. Especially when it comes to Plan E.

Anderson notes that it was exactly 25 years ago Monday that late City Manager William Deegan went to the District Attorney's office seeking indictments against him. The indictments, charging Anderson with violations of the Plan E charter, were issued in April and Anderson was found innocent in Norfolk County Superior Court. Political observers believe Deegan's action against Anderson killed Plan E in Quincy because it drove a permanent wedge between the council and the city manager's office.

"Single handedly," says Anderson, "I suppressed Communism in Quincy. Plan E is a form of Communism. By winning in court, I defeated Communism."

READER SPEAKS OUT

Open Letter From N.C. To Quincy Merchants

Gentlemen and Editor:

The recent article in the Quincy Sun [1 Dec. 1977] dealing about merchants opening up on Sunday hit some real fine points for reflection.

Being a member of the Corps of Officers in the United States Marine Corps, I've had the opportunity to live in a few different states. I presently reside in Jacksonville, North Carolina with my family where they, the merchants, are open every Sunday. Wherever I've resided the local merchants have been open Sunday and for the most part are successful. I have some observations to pass on as a consumer and a college marketing major.

First, Bob Coiman was wrong, Sunday shopping can be a "Big Bonanza", if merchants follow certain guidelines. The proper employment of marketing and advertising techniques can make every Sunday a meaningful shopping day. True Sunday shopping hours does give a certain percentage "a place to go and hang around", but attractive specials and sales may entice Sunday spending.

Merchants have to make Sunday shopping attractive to the consumer. The offering of Specials and Sunday Only Sales can do this; remember the consumer must be influenced, you must help him make up his mind. Sunday is the day when families are generally out as a unit, to go shopping on their way back from church, on their way to or from a visit or just out comparison shopping. Window shopping is beneficial; the first step to the cash register is getting the consumer interested and in the store. What's so wrong if Sunday browsing is the catalyst for a Monday sale? Window shopping can bring the consumer into the store; what can you offer him? Do you expect the consumer to bring his money to your register if you just open your doors?

Second, Sumner Cohen, made a good point: "It takes time to change peoples habits". That is one of the biggest obstacles. Again employment of proper techniques in marketing and advertising can change habits. Massachusetts consumers are used to doing most of their weekly shopping on Friday night, Saturday afternoon and evening. Sunday is their day of rest and leisure. The consumer must take the view that the whole weekend is for rest, leisure and shopping. Encouraging people to spread it out over the whole weekend is what is needed. This is going to take time, it cannot be done overnight and the merchants must accept this.

Mike Stone had a good point: "If there is any business to be done in the cold and rain people will take it to the malls." Face it, the Plazas and Malls are the "in thing". The reason: cities and towns have let their downtown areas go to ruin. It is up to the City Governments and merchants as a collective to offer the consumer what he desires and to make shopping in your area attractive to him.

I'm glad to see that Quincy has a plan to revitalize its downtown area, lets not procrastinate. I know, that as Mayor, Arthur Tobin will not let Quincy down.

It must be remembered that the consumer has a fixed limit of buying power, and if he doesn't spend it in Quincy he'll spend it somewhere else. There is no reason why Sunday could not be a bonanza all year long; I've seen it done in Florida, Virginia, North Carolina and Maryland. Quincy??

Maybe what you need is to sit back and look at yourself. Consultation with a marketing and advertising firm who has access to studies done by those who have successfully operated on Sunday, may be what is needed.

I don't have all the answers but maybe I've given you some food for thought.

Good Luck,
Lt. Kevin B. Davis USMC

Center Forward Johnny Brown kicked three goals and Bob Meyer played a flawless game in goal as the Quincy High School soccer team won the New England title with a 5-0 victory over Pawtucket, R.I.

It was Quincy's 15th victory in 16 games, the other being a 1-1 tie with New Bedford Vocational School, which immediately issued a challenge for a post-season championship contest.

The Quincy lineup included:

Bob Meyer, goal; Bill Jensen, Jay Desmond, backs; Al Paine, Hugh Logan, Johnny Nelson, halfbacks; Carlton Jepson, Alex Mitchelson, Johnny Brown, Johnny MacGibbon, Alec McGuire, forwards.

Also Smudge George, spare back; Charlie Anderson, spare halfback; John Sullivan, spare forward.

within the city books would be basically an audit of the city auditor's performance and compliance with the generally accepted accounting and auditing standards as well as the municipal finance laws.

"I question that these are being adhered to by the auditor."

The Mayor charged that some $100,000 worth of mini-computers, purchased for the Auditor's Department a year ago, have been "no real benefit" in expediting the work flow.

"It takes a while to convert the records to a new system," said Shea.

"But we have converted all the payrolls, except the hospital

"Now we are doing the fire, police and retirement payroll. They were being done outside for $5,700 a year.

"Now we are doing some CETA payrolls which used to be done at a bank. We will get 30 cents a check reimbursement from CETA. That's close to $3,000.

"We have converted all the water billing so that for the first time this year we are up to date. This was formerly done outside at a cost of $12,000 a year.

"We have just finished converting from the manual system of issuing personal property tax bills and next year we'll be able to handle real estate tax billings, which are contracted out for $12,000 a year.

"Furthermore, we will have the tax bills ready the day after the tax rate is set. The delay this year cost us $60,000 to $70,000 in temporary interest."

Mayor LaRaia charged that the auditor is "paying himself in illegal stipend of $1,200 per year without the necessary City Council approval."

Shea said the $1,200 was apparently the sum that he receives for acting as financial advisor to the City Council.

"I haven't gotten the money since July," he said. "I don't intend to make any move to get it."

Shea agreed that the city had been penalized $450,000 for an error in paying for snow removal but, he added:

"After a meeting with the commissioner of public works, his assistant, the budget coordinator, the executive secretary and the city solicitor, the solicitor ruled that that was how we were going to handle snow removal under a new state law."

"I abided by the solicitor's ruling."

Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone said the solicitor had indeed made a ruling but Shea did not follow it and the city was penalized because "the auditor did not tell the Bureau of Accounts what he was going to do."

Shea said the penalty had no effect on the tax rate since "they tacked it on our free cash deficit."

Mayor LaRaia said that "unpaid city hospital bills dating back for seven years, over $160,000 worth, were approved for payment by the auditor under an illegal procedure."

Shea said that it was he who uncovered the $160,000 in unpaid hospital bills and the City Council "approved the $160,000 and $400,000 more that I uncovered. For the first time in many years the hospital is up to date on accounts payable."

LaRaia charged that "monthly financial statements, which are the tool of management, have not been made available to the Mayor, the city department heads or the public at large since June 30, 1977."

Shea said he not only sent a monthly statement to the Mayor on Sept. 30 but he had a girl messenger sign a receipt for it.

The auditor said that he too has asked for an audit but the Bureau of Accounts told him that other communities in the area had higher priority.

Also, he said, the federal revenue-sharing people have told the state bureau that they are no longer accepting the old audit methods and a new audit could not be guaranteed.

Robert B. Crosby of the Bureau of Accounts suggested that Quincy hire a private auditing firm, said Shea.

Correction

Because of a typographical error, the wrong offer appeared in the Happy Pizza Chef advertisement appearing on Page 3 of the Dec. 8 issue of The Quincy Sun.

The ad erroneously said a free large cheese pizza could be obtained with the coupon appearing in the ad.

The offer should have read two free Cokes could be obtained with the purchase of a large cheese pizza.

Santa Claus comes to Cohasset

SUNDAY, DEC. 18th 12 NOON

Come join all the fun as Santa arrives in Cohasset on Sunday, December 18th at 12 O'clock.

Be there as Santa enters the Tedeschi Shopping Center parking lot, atop an antique fire engine. He will have gifts for each child and will draw the winner's name for the giant 8 foot Christmas Stocking on display in the Cohasset branch of Quincy Cooperative Bank. The children will be able to visit with Santa, receive free gifts and go for a ride on the antique fire engine.

A Cohasset band will be providing holiday musical selections throughout the afternoon. Santa's Throne will be set up in front of the Cohasset branch of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, Rte. 3A, in the Tedeschi Shopping Center Parking lot.

Barry Calls Fire Contract Amendment 'Ridiculous'

employee[s].

• "Upon Occurrence of the vacancy or opening, the Fire Department shall post for seven calendar days in each fire station a notice of such vacancy or opening and employees may file with the Department an application to transfer to such vacancy or opening. The senior most employee applicant indicating a desire to occupy such vacancy shall be granted the transfer.

• "Employees who arrange a mutual swap in terms of group or company positions shall be granted such swap."

Chief Barry said the amendment "was so designed and worded as to permit all members of the fire department, both officers and firefighters, to arrange their own transfers for all positions in the Fire Department."

Barry said Tuesday that he had not yet been notified officially by Mayor LaRaia of the contract change.

"It must be realized," said the Chief, "that every organization must have a department head with good order and discipline if its administration is to function efficiently.

"This is especially true of a semi-military group like the Fire Department.

"Good order cannot be had when firefighters are allowed to make their own selection of where they want to go and what they want to do.

"In making transfers, such as in the Fire Department, a fire chief must take a number of things into account.

"Consideration must be given to locations in the city, strength of companies, varying experience of the men, various ages, years of experience, necessity of gaining a specific type of experience, personalities, physical condition of the men and other such important points.

"In the assignment of men, input is also received from those officers of the Fire Department with whom the chief consults."

"It is difficult to understand," Barry concluded, "why in the last days of Mayor LaRaia's administration he would amend the firefighters union contract to attempt to weaken the very fabric of the administrative structural weave of the Chief's position as head of the Quincy Fire Department"

During contract negotiations earlier this year, the Firefighters Union requested the following article covering transfers as its last best offer:

"Transfer opportunities to fill permanent vacancies in the fire stations caused by employee retirement, death or promotion shall be provided employees pursuant to the following procedure:

"Upon the occurrence of a vacancy, the Fire Department shall post for seven calendar days in each fire station a notice of such vacancy and employees may file with the Fire Department an application to transfer to such vacancy.

"The senior, qualified employee so indicating an interest in occupying such vacancy will be given the transfer opportunity."

The transfer article went to arbitration and the arbitration panel ruled:

"This proposal of the union, which was recommended by the factfinder, applies the principal of seniority to transfers, also has the endorsement of the panel.

"The provision that 'the senior, qualified employee...' be granted the transfer opportunity should reassure the Fire Chief that such transfers will not reduce the efficiency of the department."

Barry was not reassured by the contract amendment, however.

"I seriously doubt," he said, "that the intent of the arbitration decision was to have fire department transfers reach the extent and magnitude that the Firefighters Union has reached with Mayor LaRaia."

The article in the contract, prior to amendment, read like this:

"Local 792 will withdraw without prejudice its demand that the city comply with that part of the final offer arbitration award relating to transfers based upon seniority and qualifications;

"However, as of Dec. 1, 1977, that provision will be subject to reopening negotiations between the city and Local 792 at the request of Local 792.

"And any bargaining impasse reached as to that provision will be subject to final and binding arbitration at the request of Local 792 under the voluntary labor arbitration rules of the American Arbitration Association."

It was the reopening clause that permitted Mayor LaRaia to negotiate the amendment. The new article on transfers reads:

"1. There shall be no group or company transfers without the consent of the affected employee[s].

"2. Transfers to fill the following positions [Sub-part A], vacated as a result of employee transfer, retirement, death or promotion and, to fill new job openings in any of the following [Sub-part B], shall be filled pursuant to the procedures [Sub-part B], set forth below;

"A. List of positions: Group positions, company positions, Fire Alarm Division positions, captain in charge of fire alarm, captain in charge of fire prevention, lieutenant assistant in charge of fire prevention, fire prevention force, captain in charge of drill, lieutenant assistant in charge of drill, deputy chief administrative assistant to chief, and firefighter in charge of supplies.

"B. Upon the occurrence of the vacancy or opening, the Fire Department shall post for seven calendar days in each fire station a notice of such vacancy or opening and employees may file with the department an application to transfer to such vacancy or opening. The senior most employee applicant indicating a desire to occupy such vacancy shall be granted the transfer.

"3. Employees who arrange a mutual swap in terms of group or company positions shall be granted such swap.

"4. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 1 and 2 above, where there are no applicants pursuant to Section 2, above, for a Fire Alarm vacant position, the Fire Department can transfer the least senior employee in the appropriate rank to fill such position; provided, however, that such involuntary transfer shall not exceed a 12 month duration.

"5. The foregoing Sections 1 through 4 shall be effective upon the execution of the Addendum."

Chandler Re-elected President

QCA Recommends Runnerup Fill School Committee Vacancy

Arnar M. Chandler, 320 Belmont St., was reelected president of the Quincy Citizens Association at the annual meeting held at the Montclair Men's Club.

Other officers elected were: Joseph N. Gilda, Sr., vice-president; Saul Lipsitz, treasurer, and Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary.

In other action the membership voted:

- To advise the City Council that the QCA is opposed to a special election to fill the upcoming vacancy on the School Committee; and recommends that the post be filled by the next person in number of votes (after those elected) in the Nov. 8, election.

- In favor of a South Shore resident being elected to the MBTA Board of Directors, and will so advise Governor Dukakis and the MBTA Board.

- To oppose the narrowing of any established street by projecting the sidewalk into the thoroughfare, as is now being considered for Foster St., Quincy Center.

- To brighten Christmas for a number of needy elderly in Quincy through gifts of provisions.

Following the business meeting, a Christmas party was held and a buffet served with Mrs. Elinda Lipsitz and Mrs. Jennie Beatrice as hostesses.

CAREER POSSIBILITIES in the field of law enforcement are discussed by State Trooper Ralph Shea of the Norwell Barracks, and Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall, with students at Atlantic Junior High School. The students are taking part in an elective course devoted to a survey of various areas of endeavor. Speakers in the weeks to come include leaders in travel, medicine, retailing and other occupations.

Morrissey Presses For Federal Action On Airport Aircraft Noise

The U.S. Congress has taken note of the problems the people of North Quincy and Squantum are having with noise from aircraft landing at Logan Airport, according to Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton).

Burke told Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) that the Airport and Airway Act provides that no airport development project at Logan shall be approved unless it is consistent with planning for the surrounding area.

"Logan is one of the few major airports in the country which is located in the urban core of the area it serves," Burke quotes a report on the law.

"It is unique in that the residential areas it affects predates the airport's own beginnings... The jet age created severe noise impact on surrounding residential communities. Furthermore, there is a renewed emphasis on modernizing and developing adjacent land for Boston's seaport."

Burke also noted that the Federal Aviation Administration [FAA] has issued a regulation which requires American subsonic aircraft to meet a noise standard of 108 decibels.

"There has been some delay on the implementation of this regulation," Burke said, adding that he has asked the Secretary of Transportation for a progress report on this regulation.

Morrissey said Burke promised to keep him informed of the progress of this request and has promised to help in any way we can with the noise problem.

Joanne Keane In Students' 'Who's Who'

Miss Joanne Keane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Keane of 226 North Central Ave., Wollaston, has been selected for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Miss Keane, a senior at Regis College in Weston, is majoring in economics.

Career Investigation Course Offered At Atlantic Junior

By LINDA TRUBIANO

A career investigation course is being offered as a weekly elective course for approximately 25 Atlantic Junior High School students.

The course, under the direction of teacher Mrs. Rebecca Goshe, takes place Friday mornings from 8:30 to 10 a.m. for six weeks. In the third week, however, it takes place Thursday morning.

Each week the informal session deals with different career opportunities and tries to familiarize students with them. Guest speakers are invited from each field to speak with students. Many bring printed material, films and filmstrips.

On Dec. 9, the first session, guest speakers on Law Enforcement were State Trooper Ralph F. Shea of the Norwell Station; Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall and Sam Aaronson from the Quincy Probation Department.

The second week, also on law enforcement, will feature Inspector Gene Fulmine of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Detective Barbara DiNatalie of the Quincy Police and Lt. Robert Kelly from the Quincy Fire Department.

Thursday, Dec. 22, Howard Garvell from the Family Counseling Service, Joan Kilday of the Youth Service Board and Barbara Pionti from the Child Protective Service will speak on Social Work as a career.

Retailing will be the subject of the Jan. 6 session with Steve Norton, a buyer from Remick's Men's Department and Cathy Mogavero, Dean of Admissions at Chamberlayne Junior College as speakers.

Carol Osgood from the X-ray department at Quincy City Hospital and Dr. Cheryl Melhaufs of the South Shore Veterinary Association, will speak on careers in medicine.

Speakers for the final session on travel will be Capt. John Haack, instructor of Eastern Airlines Pilots, Lt. Thomas Tempero, U.S.N. pilot and Christine Riley of Bay State College.

Free Weight Control Clinic At Atlantic

A free weight control clinic, given by Rita Francione and Vern Eicker of the Norfolk County Extension Program, will be a highlight of next week's program at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St.

The Program:

Monday - Free weight control clinic, with lessons on dieting sensibly through low calorie recipes, exercises and nutrition. will be held from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Carol Bray will conduct a class in ceramics for children Grade 7 and above from education and mediation in landlord-tenant disputes.

Tuesday - Class in ceramics for seniors will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Grace Ilaqua and Julia DeRosa will give knitting instructions to girls in Grades 4 through 6 at 2 p.m.

Wednesday - Knitting for seniors will be held at 10 a.m. Bingo at 1 p.m.

Thursday - Mrs. Carol Bray will be available at 328-1708 with information on winterization and energy for income eligible homeowners.

Friday - Rosemarie Hanley, a volunteer from Greater Boston Legal Service, will be on hand with legal assistance from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Ms. Roanay A. Horne, R.N., a volunteer from RSVP, will hold a free blood pressure clinic from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

Energy information will be available daily, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Morrissey Excise Tax Law Signed By Governor

Freshman Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has seen his first piece of legislation signed into law by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

Co-sponsored by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy), the bill prohibits the issuance of registration certificates for motor vehicles to applicants who are delinquent in paying their excise taxes.

"This will help collect delinquent excise taxes all over the Commonwealth," said Morrissey. "The city of Quincy alone is owed just over $2 million in delinquent taxes."

"The Brownell-Morrissey bill signed by the Governor will help collect delinquent taxes on both automobiles and trailers," said Brownell.

The new law calls for the applicant for a motor vehicle or trailer registration to sign a statement under the penalties of perjury that there are no outstanding excise tax liabilities on the vehicle.

The bill also calls for the local tax collector to forward a notice of

QJC To Offer Course In Modern China

Registration for the spring semester, 1978 is now open for History of Modern China, a new course offering of the History and Government Department of Quincy Junior College.

The course will be given Tuesdays from 3:30 to 6 p.m., and will be open to students in both the Day and Evening Divisions and to interested people in the Quincy community and surrounding areas.

This three-credit course will trace the Western influence in China and the Chinese response to it from the time of the Western trade treaties (1840's) through the rise of the Chinese Communist Party to power in China. An attempt will be made to see beyond ideologies in order to gain a genuine understanding of the modern Chinese experience. Present and future prospects will also be given some consideration.

Spring semester classes begin on Jan. 23. Students interested in this course or other day courses

5 WAYS TO BUY A BIKE CHEAP

#1 BUY IT UNASSEMBLED:

It takes a trained mechanic, with all the specialized tools & equipment, about an hour to assemble, tune & adjust a 10-speed bicycle for comfort & safety. (slightly less for a 3-speed or coaster)

The average daddy needs 2 to 3 hours for assembly only. (Tuning & adjusting for safety not generally possible)

#2 BUY IT WITHOUT SERVICE BACKUP:

If your bike breaks down, who'll fix it, even if it's warranted?

#3 BUY IT WITHOUT A SERVICE WARRANTY:

After 20 miles, or so, of riding, your bicycle's brakes won't stop safely, speeds won't shift, & nuts & bolts will loosen, resulting in a severe safety hazard!

#4 BUY IT IN A TOY STORE; LIMITED BICYCLE SELECTION:

Great selection of toys, but only 30 or 40 bicycles to choose from, usually results in an improper fit, one of the most common safety hazards.

Germantown Girl To Dance In 'Nutcracker Suite'

LYNDA LEE RICE

"Nutcracker" for the past two years as a Polichinelle and has also appeared in the Boston Ballet's production of "Sleeping Beauty".

During the past five years she has studied tap, jazz and ballet with the Maribo School of Dancing in South Weymouth and also attends classes at the Children's Ballet Workshop in Hingham.

Lynda has a busy schedule studying piano and currently taking flute lessons. She also lists bowling, swimming and small crafts as among her hobbies. She is in the fifth grade at the Snug Harbor school in Germantown and is a member of the Germantown Junior Heritage.

Lynda Lee Rice, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rice of 282 Palmer St., Germantown, will appear in "The Nutcracker Suite" being presented at Boston's Music Hall.

The budding ballerina will appear today [Thursday] through Dec. 23 as a Party Child and a Bird in Piotr Tchaikowsky's traditional holiday classic.

Lynda started her dancing lessons when she was four years old and has been with the Boston School of Ballet, taking two classes a week, for the past several years.

She has performed in "The Christmas Concert At Central Junior Thursday

Central Junior High School will present a Christmas Concert in the Learning Center tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

Selections by the seventh grade glee club, The Morning Chorus and the Concert Choir will include: "And the Glory of the Lord" from the Messiah, by Handel; Ray Charles' arrangement of Jingle Bells and the music of Bach. Soloists will be Diane Carboneau, Jay Williams, John Gonzales, Ashot Gheridian and Holly Bumpus.

The production will be under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Carnabuci, assisted by Bernard Goldstein. The program is open to the public. A limited number of tickets will be available at the school Learning Center at 7 p.m.

Renegades Discuss Future Programs

James O'Brien, who has been named manager of the Renegades Drum and Bugle Corps, met recently with parents of the corps members at Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point, to discuss his plans for the future of the organization.

O'Brien, formerly assistant manager, was named to his present post following the death of Edward Gabauer. He is working with an 11-member advisory board to develop the Senior Corps and the Drifters, the 10-13 year-old group.

The advisory board has agreed to seek parents interested in the welfare of the corps, even those who do not have children. It is hoped that by getting these people involved with the activities of the group the Renegades can grow into an active youth organization.

George Vallatini In Lowell College Performance

George Vallatini, 7 Buckley St., West Quincy, a junior at the University of Lowell College of Music, will perform with the University Symphony Orchestra in the presentation of Gian Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" at the campus arts center.

After $1.2 Million

MDC To Spend $700,000 More For Nut Island Improvements

The MDC has spent $1.2 million to upgrade mechanical elements at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant and is ready to spend $700,000 more according to MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

Snedeker met recently in the office of Sen. Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) with a delegation of Quincy officials, who asked him to expedite work at Nut Island so that the clam flats can be reopened.

Snedeker said the plant is now capable of handling its capacity of 17 million gallons of sewage a day.

He said that repairs to the sludgeline are progressing in line with the impending arrival of sonar equipment which will be used to locate the sludge line auger.

Snedeker praised a recent decision by the Environmental Protective Agency (EPA) to permit the MDC to proceed with the design phase of the southerly end of the sewage project prior to completion of the EPA statement.

This, he said, will serve to cut the time factor necessary for the final phases of the complete project leaving only primary treatment at Nut Island.

He also advised the Quincy delegation that the Kimberly project at Wollaston Beach should be ready for bid in March, 1978. The Quincy legislative delegation will review the plans before final approval.

Present at the meeting with City Councillor Leo J. Kelly, Councillors-elect Joanne Condon and Stephen J. McGrath and people from the offices of Sen. Tobin, and Reps. Thomas Brownell, James A. Sheets and Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy).

DeMatteo Awarded $1.7 Million

MBTA Station Contract

A $1,712,375 contract for initial construction of the new MBTA station at South Quincy has been awarded to the M. DeMatteo Construction Company of North Quincy.

DeMatteo was the lowest of five bidders. The work, expected to start early in January, will include construction of the station platform and retaining walls, grading, drainage and installation of duct systems for traction power, signals and sub-surface utilities.

In the spring, bids will be sought for construction of the station building and a 2,000-car parking garage.

The MBTA's board of directors also confirmed that the new station will be known as Quincy Adams, as recommended by Mayor LaRaia's MBTA Task Force.

Picard: 'There Should Be More Discussion At Meetings'

kidding me, Joan? Is this right?" I said, "Yes. Put it in. I'm going to do it." Of course, once it came out in Sunbeams that was just the wedge I needed to make me do it.

SUN: It sounds as though you were calling the School Committee a rubber stamp committee. Is that fair to say?

PICARD: I think it is, to a certain degree. I think that many of the issues that were brought up at the School Committee meetings were, as I said, just passed. It was done at the recommendation of the superintendent. Most of the time they followed the recommendation of the superintendent without any discussion. It upset me because I felt more talk should be brought up and the public should be made aware. If you don't discuss an issue at the School Committee meeting it doesn't get in the paper and the public is really not made aware of it. I think it's good to talk about things.

SUN: You sound critical of Dr. Crendon. Are you?

PICARD: I think I was critical during the campaign of why this man is paid the salary that he is. He'll be making over $50,000 next year and he's not an elected official. Many times he recommends programs that benefit the administration of the School Department and not so much the students. Yes, I am critical to a certain degree about the way things are going. I think there should be more input from the parents and less recommending by the administration. I think the administration is top heavy. They let teachers and teachers' aides go and they are the keys to education. In the meantime, nobody from the administration is let go. No matter how low the teaching staff goes, the administration either stays the same or goes up in number. It doesn't make sense.

SUN: Why do you feel you won?

PICARD: I feel I won because people in Quincy, all

[This is the fourth in a series of in-depth interviews with those elected to new offices in Quincy city government in November and who will assume their new posts Jan. 3]

14,600 of them, wanted a change. The people who were in office had been in for years and years. I think they felt it was time for a change. I think in my particular case it'll be good for the city. Mary Collins and Pat Toland and I, being women, can feel for the parent and the school child much more than a man who has been away from involvement in the schools as a father of a school age child for many years. All of a sudden I am going to have input as a parent of school children. There is a difference between being a parent and a parent of school children.

SUN: Do your children go to public school?

PICARD: Yes, they do.

SUN: Do you feel that you and Mary won or that Anselmo and Sweeney lost?

PICARD: I feel I won. I think they voted for me on the issues. You know, in this particular campaign it was kind of difficult for a woman. We had to run... I should say I had to run. When I say "we," I'm talking about Tom and I. Tom and I are a team. When I say we, it will refer to Tom and I and not to anyone else who is on the School Committee.

SUN: Tom works for the School Department, doesn't he?

PICARD: He's in the maintenance department. And make a note that he's been in the maintenance department for five years before Joan was elected so that a year from now they don't say, "Look, her husband is on the School Department!" I don't want that. Anyway, we actually ran two campaigns. We ran what I call a man's campaign, which is the signs, the bumper stickers, the newspapers, the radio, geared to how men have always campaigned. Then we had coffee hours. I went to some of them. I found people asking me, "Well, what are your issues?" I realized I did not have an issue. I went home and I said, "Tom, what are my issues?" He said, "What is it you don't like about the School Department? What is it you want changed in the system?" So I went to coffee hours and I asked the parents, "What is it that you want? What is it that you don't like and want to change?" That's where my issues came from. From the people, not from me.

SUN: What were the issues?

PICARD: The issues were that the superintendent was making far too much money than they thought he was worth. They said, "Why is he the highest paid official in the city of Quincy? Why does he make more money than the mayor?" It was upsetting to them to think that their husbands were going out and working hard, maybe holding a second job and this man was making far more money than they could ever imagine. And they weren't particularly pleased with the products that were coming out of the School Department. They said, "Why am I working so hard to pay taxes to pay his salary and getting nothing back?" I heard this night after night after night.

SUN: What are you going to do about it?

PICARD: I'm going to work on it.

SUN: That's not a very direct answer.

PICARD: I know, but I'm not a member of the School Department at this particular point. I know what I'm going to do but I can't tell you. I mean it's not that I can't tell you but it would take the wind out of my sails when I do. It is my issue. I plan to do something about it.

SUN: What new ideas for the schools will you be pushing?

PICARD: The first thing that I'd like to see is that this Tuesday afternoon with the children at home be eliminated.

I am sick and tired of listening to the parents about this. Parents are working. They're paying through their taxes the teachers' salaries. The teacher is in the building but the kids are home. I don't know how many times parents have said to me, "Please, get the kids back in school on Tuesday afternoons!" The second thing I would like to see changed is more of the basic education.

SUN: The three Rs?

PICARD: Yes. I don't know that the kids in public schools are working up to capacity. I think they can absorb a lot more. Their brains are like sponges. They can absorb an awful lot.

SUN: You sound awfully old-fashioned.

PICARD: Yes, I probably am old-fashioned. But, gee, it didn't hurt me to have a good education. A lot of us who are running the city right now, running jobs and running businesses were educated in the old-fashioned way. And that meant that you went to school and you came out at 2:30 and you had a day's education behind you. It was a five-day schedule. I don't like the six day cycle. I haven't looked into it yet but I'd like to see what could be done about that. I think there's just too much free time, too many mini-courses. I'd like to see half the mini-courses eliminated and just get back to basic education. I think there is too much time wasted. Many times you go into a school and the kids are working on art projects or a play or a concert. They work on it day in and day out to get it ready for the parents to come in. I don't think taking education away to have our children perform for adults is a good way to educate kids. Not that I'm against liberal arts. I am for liberal arts but they should have their place in the education program. They shouldn't dominate it.

SUN: Did the subject of school spending and budget autonomy come up in your campaign?

PICARD: It sure did. It came up in the form of 3,000 to 4,000 votes. That's what I figure I lost. The Quincy Education Association sent out a questionnaire last summer to all school candidates asking for their opinions on certain questions. The first question was: "Do you believe in fiscal autonomy?" Of course, I don't. I think it's great if it works but I don't know any city or town where it works. The School Committee is supposed to check the administration's spending. I don't think they're doing their job. As a result, school autonomy is not working well. If the School Committee can't act as a check on spending, then you need somebody else.

SUN: Would you like to see the City Council have a crack at the school budget?

PICARD: Oh, I sure would. I sure would. It's the taxpayers' money. If you can't have a School Committee that's going to act as a check on the budget, you've got to have control somewhere.

SUN: It sounds like Dr. Crendon is in for a tough four years.

PICARD: Well, I think I'm going to enjoy this. But when the QEA sent out that questionnaire and asked "Do you believe in fiscal autonomy?" I answered "No." When the report came out it went to all the teachers in the city. Joan Picard was the only one of the candidates who said, "No." I had teachers call me up at home. I had people calling me saying, "Listen, I was going to vote for you but I can't vote for you now." I said, "That's fine. You do what you think is right." From a good source in the QEA I know I lost 3,000 to 4,000 votes on that one item. Now if I came in with 14,600 votes and we know of 3,000 to 4,000 that I lost, I'm in pretty good straits. I like that feeling. You don't need a large group like that to win. Public support is what put me in, not groups.

SUN: Does your ambition end with the School Committee?

PICARD: I ran for the School Committee because I'm basically interested in education. I don't think I could do what I would like to do in any other department. I don't think running for the City Council is my thing. Or Mayor, if it ever came to that. I have no political ambitions, truly, other than the School Committee. My sole interest is how the schools operate and anything to do with the schools. I want to know every phase of it. If they're sanding around the schools at night and getting them ready, I want to know. How do they do it? What time do they get through? Who's doing it? If you don't have this drive, you're not really doing the job. I don't think that going to School Committee meetings is where it all ends. It's not my idea of being a School Committee member. You've got to be involved.

SUN: How long would you like to serve on the School Committee?

PICARD: I wouldn't put any time limit on myself. I do think that once your children are out of the school system, then it's time to completely reevaluate your position. It's good to have people who do not have children. I'm not saying that it isn't. But I do think that the heart of an educational system is the children and if you don't have children involved in the schools you remove yourself somewhat from the situation.

SUN: Your first action on the School Committee will be to choose a replacement for Frank McCauley. Who do you favor for the job?

PICARD: To be honest I haven't given it much thought. I have resumes on my desk now from people. I've got to sit down and really go over the whole situation. I know the two members that Mary and I beat, they did lose.

SUN: But, as Pat Toland points out, they ran and someone else didn't.

PICARD: That's right. I think basically the same way Pat does. Maybe there's a little bit of jealousy in me, too.

SUN: What do you mean?

PICARD: Well, I ran for nine months. I ran long and hard for nine solid months. We spent a lot of money. We spent $6,500 that we raised and another $300 to $500 of my own money. I had a lot of people out there working for me. I worked hard to get elected. Why should someone walk in the back door? I've talked to some of the candidates who are looking for the job and they said, "I didn't run because there were three incumbents running." That didn't stop me. Another one said, "Well, I didn't run because I was finishing up college." I was a fulltime student at Bridgewater and I still managed to campaign. I have to take a good look at the people who ran. Then there are candidates who have run before who may still be interested in the job. Maybe we should look at the slate that ran at the same time Frank McCauley ran. I don't know. I've got to sit down and really go over the situation.

Kelly Suggests Public Interviews For School Committee Vacancy

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has suggested that candidates for a coming vacancy on the School Committee be interviewed in public session with the public given "an opportunity to have some input into the selection process."

The vacancy, created by the election of School Committeeman

Francis X. McCauley to the City Council, will be filled by vote of the Mayor, the nine members of the City Council and the five School Committee members.

In a letter to those who will vote, Kelly made the following recommendations:

- All candidates should submit a resume so that each and every one of us will be well versed in their qualifications and background.

- Interview with candidates should be held in public session.

- Queries from the public should be submitted through either the chairperson or through a member of the joint Council and School Committee, thereby giving the public an opportunity to have some input into the selection process.

McCauley had said he plans to resign from the School Committee a few minutes before 10 a.m., Jan. 3, when he is sworn in as a member of the Council. His School Committee term has two years to go.

Koch Club Santa To Visit With Shut-In Children

The Koch Club of Quincy will sponsor a Santa Claus visit to shut-in children for the 21st consecutive year with parents welcome to invite Santa to their homes.

The program is conducted especially for those children who are shut-ins year 'round.

Originally, the service was limited to Quincy people, but requests from parents in Braintree and Weymouth were honored and now the South Shore is included.

Only parents of the shut-in children may make the request for Santa's visit. They should contact Richard J. Koch at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, at 328-8286.

Arrangements for the most convenient time will be scheduled for Santa's visit to the children.

Richard M. Morrissey is chairman of Santa's visitation to the homes.

LaRaia Protests Lack Of S.S. MBTA Representation

Mayor LaRaia has written to Gov. Michael S. Dukakis protesting the appointment of a Concord woman to the MBTA's board of directors, replacing Forrest Neal of Hanover.

"The South Shore should be represented on the MBTA board," said the Mayor.

"It really is a matter for the South Shore legislative delegation but I think they should have the support of local officials in their efforts to get the governor to change his mind."

Adams School PTA To See Student Holiday Program

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Adams School, Abigail St., South Quincy, will meet Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 7:15 p.m. at the school.

A short business meeting will be followed by a special holiday program presented by pupils of the school. Taking part in the program will be the first and second grades of Mrs. Karen Greenberg; second grade of Mrs. Mary Lou Fishman; second grade of Miss Effie Maniatakis; Miss Eve Powell and Miss Mary Morris, grade three; Miss Catherine Cauley, grade four, and Mrs. Jean Philipponne, grade six.

The Adams School band, under the direction of Robert Coviello, will play several selections and the school chorus, conducted by Mrs. Christine Pucci, will present holiday selections, followed by general carol singing.

95.1% Of United Way Goal

The United Way of Massachu-

New England Champs

Quincy, Braintree Brothers Win Sports Car C-Sedan Title

Inner Circle Racing announces that John and Bill Reimels are the winners of the 1977 New England Region Sports Car Club of America C-Sedan championship.

John, who lives in Quincy with his wife, Linda, drives the team's 1962 British-built Mini Cooper [a small, nimble-handling front wheel drive automobile]. He is a senior at Northeastern.

Bill, a resident of Braintree, is the team's mechanic and he keeps the car in top form. The fact that the car has had a perfect reliability record for every event entered in the past three years testifies to his skill. A design engineer for the Foxboro Company, he recently received his racing license.

Because the Mini Cooper has the smallest engine in its class [998 c. c. vs. the 1300 c. c. of the others], the Reimels' championship victory is all the more remarkable.

Next year's plans call for the installation of a larger, more competitive engine. John hopes the power increase will land him a Northeast Division Title Series championship and he'd like a shot at the national championship.

Sylvia Cautious But--

Quincy Icemen Hope It's The 'Lucky 13th'

By TOM SULLIVAN

Coach Bob Sylvia has taken eight of his 12 Quincy High hockey teams into the state tournament and this could be the "lucky 13th" for Bob and his Presidents.

Although the veteran coach said, "I just say I'm cautiously optimistic," he couldn't hide his enthusiasm and, barring key injuries, this could be one of Quincy's best years.

The inexperienced Presidents finished strong a year ago, winning their last four games and finishing with a 9-8-1 record. Quincy has never had a losing season under Sylvia.

The Presidents walloped Boston English, 8-1, Saturday in a jamboree at Rockland.

"This is a real good group of boys," Bob said. "They are looking forward to the tournament and to Boston Garden and if our defense and goalies come through, it should be a good season."

"We should score a lot of goals and the only 'ifs' we have are in goal and on defense. If the defense comes through and permits me to keep Brian Bertoni at forward, we will be in good shape."

Bertoni returns to the Presidents after missing last season and he should be one of the best in the state. He will team at center with veteran Mark Giordani and a surprise walk-on, Mike Bonarick, on the first line.

"Bertoni and Giordani are established stars, but Bonarick has proven a very pleasant surprise," Sylvia said. "He has played no high school hockey but looks great."

Senior Tom Cahill, the state's number two scorer a year ago, centers the second line, showing Quincy's depth, and with him will be juniors Billy Deitsch and Jack Campbell.

The third line has Robbie Craig, an outstanding sophomore prospect, at center with senior Mike Van Tassel and junior John Norton.

The fourth line is made up of sophomore Scott Richardson, who has a bright future, at center, with juniors Bob Molloy and Rich Ahola.

Veteran Jimmy Deitsch will be the starting goalie, backed up by a fine sophomore, Jim Campbell.

The first defense duo teams up veterans Brian Jolley and Mike Gulizia.

Another pair of veterans, Mike Furey and Pat Bamberg, make up the number two defense pair and Chris Erikson and Bob Brennan, who played junior varsity hockey last year, are the third defense combine.

Sylvia had his best turnout ever, 80, and it appears Jack Crowley's jayvees will also be strong.

"I feel the Suburban League is the best around and Newton, Brockton, Brookline and Waltham all should be very strong," Sylvia said.

Quincy's team can be called a "family affair." Bertoni is the third brother to play under Sylvia and Erikson, brother of North Quincy Coach Ron Erikson, is the third brother to play. Rich Ahola is the last in a line from his family to play for Sylvia and Bob this year has three brother combinations playing either varsity or jayvee.

Quincy opens its season Wednesday at the Quincy Youth Arena against Brookline in a 6:40 game.

Maver, Goguen Quincy Winter Track Coaches

Bill Maver and Joe Goguen have taken over as coaches of Quincy's winter track team and they hope to improve upon last year's 2-7 record.

They have only five returnees from last year's squad and have been hit hard by the loss of distance standout John Saville to North Quincy.

The veterans are Kevin

Murphy in the mile, Tom LaBlue in the high hurdles, Rich McKinnon, 600; Mark Assad, shot put and hurdles, and Vin Harte, shot put.

Other leading hopefuls are Jim Maze, high jump and sprints; Tom Sutliff, high jump; Tod Caflish, hurdles; Dave Eastwick, shot put, and Dave Reilly, distances.

"We don't have much depth, but we have some good athletes and we hope we can improve," Maver said.

The Presidents will open their season next Thursday at 5:30 against Weymouth North at Newton North, where all Suburban League meets will be run.

Paul Kelly Paces Koch Young Men Bowlers

Paul Kelly holds the individual honors in the Koch Club Young Men's Bowling League with high average of 105, high individual three string total of 366 and high single string of 143.

Other members in the top 10 of the average department include: Mark Kelly, Paul's brother, second, with 103.1; Chris Gorman, 98.4; Bob Hutchins, 95.4; Ernie Dubeau, 94.9; John Wahlberg, 94.3; Lennie Staff, 91.5; Tom Koch, 90.6; John Batts, 86.9, and Mike Williams, 85.6.

Paul Kelly's team No. 1, leads the loop with a 26-16 record, while Chris Gorman's squad is in second spot with a 24 and 18 score.

The league bowls every Saturday morning at 9 at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Broad Street.

Anthony T. Delmonico is director of the loop and founded the league in 1974.

Amorosino Loses Top 7 Men

Green Quincy Team Faces Plymouth-Carver

Coach Joe Amorosino led Quincy's basketball team into the state tournament last season for the first time in 11 years and the Presidents finished with a 19-4 record.

But Amorosino lost his first seven players from that outstanding squad and Quincy will put an inexperienced squad on the floor Friday night when it plays Plymouth-Carver at 7 p.m. at Silver Lake in the opening round of a holiday tournament.

The most experienced varsity player is Ken Ames, a 5-10 senior guard whom Amorosino rates as "the best all-around guard I've had since I've been coaching." Ames is an excellent shooter, a fine ball handler, defensive, stout and intelligent floor leader.

"This squad has a lot of quickness, enthusiasm and team leadership," the Quincy coach said. "The boys play well together and have good intelligence. Five of the players are in the top five in their class. Although lacking varsity experience, they have been part of our program for two or three years and are very competitive. Once they get that varsity experience, we could have a shot at the league title."

Several of the other players saw little varsity action but Amorosino is depending heavily upon Mike

Mitch Finnegan, 6-1 senior, is an excellent defensive player and displays fine leadership.

John Connolly, 6-1 senior has made great strides and played well at the end of the season and in the final game against Brockton he scored six points in the last period. He is a fine shooter.

John Faulkner, 5-9 senior is quick and aggressive and a fine ball handler.

Mike Cortez, 5-10 senior, was injured most of last year, but is now fit and ready and is an excellent rebounder and defensive player.

Dave Casey, 6-5 senior center, was Jack Uhlar's backup last year and, although untested, has made good progress and the center job is his.

Ron Donovan, 5-11 senior, was an outstanding pass receiver in football and has good hands. An excellent all-around athlete, he is Amorosino's quickest player and one of his best jumpers. "He could make the difference for us," the coach said.

Tom MacKay, 5-10 junior, is up from the jayvees and greatly improved, is a good floor leader and strong defensively.

Dave Austin, a 6-1 sophomore, is a rugged player who can shoot and handle the ball well.

Dana Guidice, 6-1 junior, has shown in practice that he can play for the varsity.

Ray Coscia, 6-2 junior, Mike Sullivan, 6-1 senior, Ron Pulsifer, 5-11 sophomore, and Brian Donovan, 6-3 sophomore, round out the squad.

"I think the fact that five of the players are in the top five in their class proves you can get a good education in the Quincy public schools and still maintain top performance in athletics," Amorosino said. "Last year's players and this year's players have proven by their classroom performances the quality of the Quincy schools."

Host Silver Lake plays Oliver Ames in the second game of the Friday's holiday tourney and the winners will meet Saturday for the title.

The Presidents will open their Suburban League season Tuesday against cross-town rival North Quincy.

They will not host a holiday tournament this year but will play in a second four-team tourney Dec. 27 and 28 at Hingham, playing Framingham North on the 27th and 7 and Hingham will face Duxbury.

The winners will meet on the 28th for the championship.

Joe Amorosino is in only his fourth year as Quincy's basketball coach and he is proud of the fact that 11 of his former players are playing with college or prep school teams this season.

Dacey is at Merrimack, Lyle

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow... either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls. Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

Call us today for more information on our homeowner's warranty and a free estimate. You need to insulate your home only once. Do it right. Call us today!

Junior High School Basketball Season Underway

By WALTER MCCARTHY
Central got off to a fast start with a pair of wins as the junior high school basketball season got underway last week.
Central defeated Sterling 38-32 and Point, 49-46.
Atlantic-North defeated Broad Meadows, 26-19. Sterling bounced back by also downing Broad Meadows, 42-26.

Mark Millane paced Central to its 49-16 win over Point with 16 points. Paul Mallory was right behind with 13.
High scorers for Point were Steve Prisalla with 14, Gary DiNardo, 12 and Danny White, 10.

Central's jayvees also racked up two wins. They defeated Sterling, 39-12, with Brian Reale and Dave Church pacing the attack with six points each. Greg Freeman and Joe Burns each chipped in four points. Top man for Sterling was Chris Draicchio with four points.

The Central jayvees defeated Point, 21-14, with Wes Paul scoring five points and Kevin Arthur, four. Kevin Breen and Sal Lorenzo were top scorers for Point with five and four points respectively.

Kurt McDonald's 10 points sparked Sterling to its win over Broad Meadows. Frank Riley's six points was tops for the losers.

The Broad Meadows jayvees turned the tables on Sterling with a 32-23 win. Jeff Morrison led the attack with 15 points. Larry Reardon was high scorer for Sterling with eight.

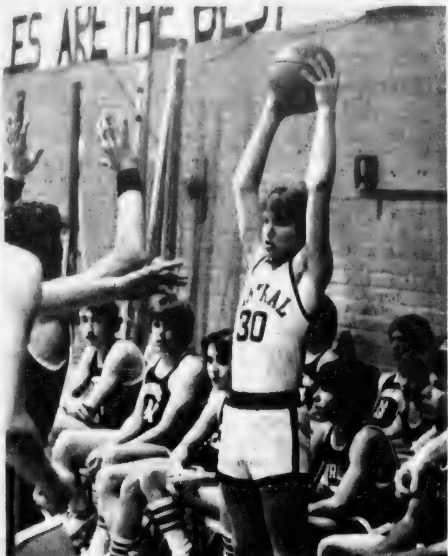

Willy Dudley and Paul Gill each chipped in eight points to pace Atlantic-North to its victory over Broad Meadows. Victor O'Leary contributed seven.

The A-N jayvees defeated Broad Meadows, 28-15, with Pat King's 11 points showing the way.

The junior high school basketball league has been reorganized this year with varsity and junior varsity teams instead of teams by grades.

Miller Looking For Fast Start

Raiders Open Friday Night At Abp. Williams

North Quincy's basketball team opens Friday night at Abp. Williams and second year coach Eddie Miller hopes the Raiders will get off to a much faster start than they did a year ago.

"Last year we lost eight of our first 13 games and we had to win our last seven games to make the state tournament," Miller, a former Raider standout himself, said. "I think the boys realize they can't afford to get off to such a slow start again. This year a team must win 70 percent of its games to make the tourney, while last year it was only 59 percent."

Leading North are Co-Captains Wink Phelan, 6-1 senior guard, and Steve Germain, 5-10 senior guard. Phelan started most games last year and Germain saw a lot of varsity action.

Other seniors are Joey Deane (6-2), who saw a lot of action at forward and played in the tournament; Pete Johnston (6-3), who started at center for the junior varsity; Kurt O'Sullivan (6-3), who played some varsity and who was a starter in football; Tom McAleney, 5-9 guard who played both varsity and jayvee a year ago; Sparky Anderson, 5-11 forward, and Jim Conboy, 6-4 center who is out for the first time.

"Conboy has no experience and is still learning, but he should contribute," Miller said. "He is in the process of learning our system but he is coming along well."

Other players are Bill Harrow, 6-2 forward; Kevin Cobban, 5-8 guard who was the quarterback in football; Bill Murphy, 5-11 forward; Bob Nolan, 5-10 forward and the son of the former North Quincy coach; Mark Roberts, 5-9 guard, and Jim Holleran, 6-0 forward.

"We have limited experience but this year the players won't be learning a new system," Miller said. "Most of the boys played either varsity or jayvee ball, so know our system. Last year was my first as head coach and the boys had to learn my system. As a result, we are progressing faster than at this time last year. We have more size and should be a better rebounding team."

"The scoring should be well-balanced with any one capable of contributing each night. There is no super scorer. As I said, we are hoping for a faster start this season."

Miller explained that several players who would be playing for him are going to other schools. "I think the double sessions and the lack of a gym are big reasons for them going to such schools as B.C. High."

"I think when we have our own gym again next year and double sessions are over, many of them will be back at North Quincy."

Following Friday's non-league opener at Williams, North will be at Quincy Tuesday for the first Suburban League game.

The Raiders will again play home games at Quincy Vo-Tech gym this year, but all but one non-league game will be played on the road due to lack of gym space.

Paul Bregoli is Miller's junior varsity and assistant coach for the second year.

Maloo Stock Outboard Champ

Clark Maloof of Quincy is one of this year's national high point champions of stock outboard racing, the 'South Shore Outboard Association has announced.

Maloof, a local Evinrude Outboard dealer, has been involved in racing since 1960 when he began as a rookie driver in the "B" stock runabout class.

He won his first national championship and since then has added five national titles.

Inducted into the American Power Boat Association Hall of Champions in 1974, Maloof won his sixth national championship this year in Bakersfield, Calif., competing against the best in the world in the "D" stock hydroplane class.

HOT GREASE BURNS

Twice as many people are burned from liquid scalds than from flame. Grease scalding deserves special attention because of the high temperature it can reach.

When heating grease, keep a constant watch. If food sticks in a pan of hot grease, steady the pan and work slowly to dislodge it. Applying force could cause the pan to fall, spilling hot, scalding grease.

Steady is also the watchword when pouring grease from a pan into a container. A wobbly pan or an unsure grip could dump hot liquid on you.

Don't drop wet food into hot grease. Doing so immediately converts the water to steam, causing oil to spatter violently. Dry off excess moisture from the food and use tongs [not your hands] to slowly place food in the pan.

Turn pot and pan handles toward the back of the range or countertop, out of reach of young children and out of the path of "pot-watchers."

BUSINESS NEWS

Woodman Chairs Electric Vehicle Task Force

Robert T. Woodman, 113 Oxenbridge Rd., Wollaston, has been elected chairman of the Electric Council of New England's Electric Vehicle Special Task Force for 1978.

The Electric Council of New England, a regional association of investor-owned light and power companies, provides a central forum for conducting joint research and the exchanging of industry information and techniques. For five years the Council has maintained a Special Task Force with the prime purpose of monitoring the development of the electric vehicle which, if it becomes a reality, could provide a remedy to help solve the country's energy and economic problems.

A graduate of Northeastern University, Woodman is active in community affairs, having been Commissioner of the Quincy Junior Baseball League for the past five years.

He is an employee of the Boston Edison Company, having served that utility for more than 22 years.

Kelly Kenney On Navy Recruiting Duty Here

Navy First Class Petty Officer Kelly E. Kenney has reported for recruiting duty at the Navy Recruiting Office, 1626 Hancock St., Quincy.

As a recruiter, part of Kenney's responsibilities include informing the young men and women in his district of the many career and educational opportunities offered in today's Navy.

A machinist's mate, Kenney entered the Navy in 1967 and comes to recruiting from the Recruit Training Command in San Diego where he was a company commander.

Kenney is married to the former Lucille Marie Hanks of New Bedford. They have two children, Scott Alan, 5, and Joy Elizabeth, 3. His parents are Glendon and Lena Kenney of Earth, Tex.

The Quincy recruiting office is part of Navy Recruiting District Boston which is comprised of more than 70 offices located throughout New England.

Socko Stocking...

GIANT CHRISTMAS STOCKING, over 8-feet in length, is packed by Patricia Jones, marketing director, Quincy Co-operative Bank, in preparation for raffling it off to a lucky customer. Each of the bank's five branches will have a stocking sewn by women volunteers at 1000 Southern Artery as a community project. Any person visiting a Quincy Co-operative bank is eligible to sign up for a chance to win the stocking filled with toys, dolls, and a variety of other Christmas gifts. The Cohasset branch will have its drawing at noon Sunday, Dec. 18, when Edward Rowe Snow, author and historian, draw the lucky number. Dates for other drawings have not been set as yet.

He Has The Votes

No Deals Made On Council Presidency, Says Quinn

Veteran City Councillor John J. Quinn has the votes to become president of the 1978-79 City Council and those most closely concerned deny that he had to wheel and deal to get them.

At one point in the discussions, however, it was proposed that a post of vice president be created to "balance" the Council and smooth over differences between Quinn and Councillor-elect Francis X. McCauley.

"I do have the votes," said Quinn. "Absolutely no deals were made."

"I made up my mind Saturday that John Quinn was going to get my vote," said Councillor-elect Stephen J. McGrath, whose promised vote for Quinn was the fifth and deciding one.

The others are Councillors Leo J. Kelly, John J. Lydon, Joanne Condon and, of course, Quinn himself.

"I obtained no concessions for my vote," said McGrath. "I said to him, 'John, you have my vote.' He said, 'Thank you,' and that's about it."

The Quincy Sun, Dec. 8, reported that Quinn would be the new Council President, succeeding Mayor-elect Tobin.

"Very definitely there were no deals," said Councillor James A. Sheets, a lukewarm candidate for the post himself who reportedly offered to withdraw if Quinn would give McCauley and Councillor Paul D. Harold key posts on the finance and oversight committees.

"When I sat down with John Quinn I said I would prefer not to seek the votes for the Council presidency," said Sheets, who is contemplating a run for the U.S. Congress next fall.

"One of the things I wanted most of all was balance on the Council and for everyone to be

Reorganization Planned

Barry To Be City Solicitor

By TOM HENSHAW

Richard W. Barry of West Quincy, a former city councillor and assistant district attorney, is the top choice for city solicitor in the administration of Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin, it has been learned by The Sun.

Barry was one of three candidates for the post who were interviewed last week by Tobin's blue ribbon screening committee and his name was forwarded with recommendation to the Mayor-elect.

Tobin declined to comment on the choice and Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, who chairs the screening committee, would not name any of the nine persons whose resumes were screened for the solicitor's job.

Tobin would say only that the screening committee "was extremely impressed with one of the individuals" adding that he did not want to comment "until I have notified the other people who took the time and effort to submit resumes."

The post of city solicitor, who is the city's chief legal officer, pays $20,000 a year. There were two assistants until

Many Applicants For $25,000 QHA Post

A shakeup is looming in the ranks of the Quincy Housing Authority with the retirement of Maintenance Superintendent Frank Terranova at the end of 'he month.

There are a reported 70 to 90 applicants for the $25,000 post, including John Cattaneo, who is currently the assistant director of the QHA, a job that pays roughly the same salary.

Should Cattaneo get the job, his rumored successor as assistant director would be Harold Coose, a longtime aide in the Senate office of Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin.

All concerned have refused to comment on the situation.

Terranova passed the mandatory retirement age of 70 last month but he was granted an extension until Dec. 31.

Council Denies Barilaro

Bid To Halt Sheet's Pay

A bid by Albert R. Barilaro to bar City Councillor James A. Sheets from receiving a $6,500 salary as a teacher at Quincy Junior College was denied Tuesday in Norfolk Superior Court.

Judge James P. Lynch Jr. refused Barilaro a restraining order after attorneys for Sheets and Barilaro and City Solicitor

Thomas F. Williams agreed to place Sheets' $3,500 salary as councillor in escrow pending adjudication of the dispute.

Barilaro, who lost the Council election to Sheets in Ward 4, contends that Sheets is in conflict of interest by taking salaries as councillor and part-time teacher of history and government at the junior college.

Tobin Bill Would Give S.S. MBTA Board Representative

South Shore residents may regain representation on the MBTA's advisory board if a legislative proposal filed by Senator Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) becomes law.

The Tobin proposal, providing for geographical representation on the MBTA board, has been filed for the upcoming 1978 session of the Massachusetts General Court.

Tobin's plan creates three geographical areas -- north, south and west of Boston. Under the plan, each of the three regions would be entitled to at least one representative on the advisory board.

Tobin's action comes in the wake of two recent gubernatorial appointments, one from Concord the other from Boston, which he said effectively disenfranchised the South Shore's cities and towns.

"The South Shore area is in the path of major MBTA expansion," Tobin said. "With the number of South Shore riders increasing and the southward extension of the Red Line, it is increasingly important that we have a voice on the advisory board. I believe that my proposal is equitable in that it provides for all of the cities and towns in the MBTA service area."

Tobin's bill is scheduled for action in early 1978.

Walking, Sense Of Humor Her Longevity Secret

She'll Be 100 Years Young Christmas Day

By PETER BARNICLE

Mrs. Thomas Duncan, 29 Albion Rd. Wollaston, will celebrate her 100th birthday on Christmas and is looking forward to the start of a second century.

Mrs. Duncan was born in Dundee, Scotland, and came to this country shortly after the turn of the century. Throughout the years the family has kept up contacts with the homeland and this coming Sunday one of the highlights of the birthday will be a telephone call from Mrs. Cathie Graham, a niece living in Dundee.

The party will include a daughter, Miss Helen Duncan, with whom she makes her home. Mrs. Margaret MacLeod of Weymouth, another daughter, and a son, Gordon Duncan of Wakefield. They will be joined by eight grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Mrs. Duncan attributes her longevity to a fondness for walking and a good sense of humor. She had aspirations to be a dancer, but her family talked her out of it, she recalls sadly.

During the early years of her life in this area she lived in Dorchester, but moved to Quincy more than half a century ago. Her late husband

Food Baskets, Gifts To Needy

Salvation Army, Koch Club, Elks Put 'Merry' In Christmas

By PETER BARNICLE

The true spirit of Christmas was plainly evident throughout Quincy during the week with fraternal, civic and social groups joining in all-out efforts to spread joy to those in need.

Food baskets, toys and gifts were generously contributed to make the holiday season a little brighter for families and patients in hospitals in the area.

The Salvation Army, the Koch Club and the Quincy Lodge of Elks were among the groups spending effort and time to spread some happiness.

Capt. Charles Waddington, in charge of the Quincy branch of the Salvation Army, reports that approximately 100 families will be given food baskets and gifts during the week.

Toys and canned food were distributed during the early part of the week and vouchers were given out for more perishable foodstuffs.

"We are very fortunate to have so many generous people in the area," Capt. Waddington said. "Other organizations, including the schools, have cooperated with us."

Nursing home and hospital patients received visits and gifts from members of the Salvation Army which stepped up its year-round social services program.

The Koch Club completing its 29th year of Christmas charitable projects reported that this season has been the most successful and effective.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the organization, said that more than 2,000 items were collected and distributed in the drive for new and used toys. In addition to the used toys the club also collected more than 700 new items of all varieties.

Organizations participating with the Koch Club in the effort included: the Sacred Heart School of North Quincy, first and second grade students who participated in a Native pageant and asked a gift for a needy child as admission, the students of the Massachusetts Fields School, the Parker School, students of the Woodward School for Girls who Christmas wrapped over 100 gifts for distribution, members of the Quincy Junior Wonders Candiepin Bowling League, the South Shore Junior Ten Pin Bowling League, employees of the Otis Elevator Company of Quincy who each year provided gifts for local families in need, the North Quincy Catholic Women's Club for sixty gift wrapped items and the Koch Club Bowling and Basketball Leagues who participated in the endeavor.

CPR Refresher Course Given To Firefighters

The Quincy Fire Department is currently involved in recertifying all its members in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), required by law each year.

The 26 hour course requires each member to accurately perform mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and cardiac massage on life-like mannequins. This is followed by a written examination prepared by the American Heart Association.

The program is under the direction of Captain Carl Valenti, training officer, and firefighters Edwin Curtis and Ralph Bucchianerri, qualified CPR instructors.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

The African Queen in your door garden may well be named Saintpaulia and can be traced to the family Gesneriaceae. Better known as the African violet, this is no shrinking beauty and will light up any cozy corner, North window or cultivated sunny spot in your home. A combination of daylight and incandescent lighting works well so almost any place will do to grow the African violet. Colors range all over the purples, deep blue to delicate pink and white. Flowers are clustered doubles or five-petaled singles with ruffled, crimped or frilled petals. You can have a range of bright yellow stamens. You have a choice of about 1,000 varieties and hybrids to choose from Buy one now and enjoy this tiny jewel of the plant family.

Our staff at NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 would like to wish you and your family a very Merry Christmas and a most joyous New Year. May 1978 be the year to bring complete peace across all corners of the globe. Hours: Mon. - Sat. 8-6, evenings by

Today's Women

Project WAGE

Mayor's Commission

Studying Employment Opportunities

A special project to examine the employment opportunities for women is being initiated by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The project is made possible by a $53,854 grant under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) which provides funding for wages of eligible unemployed persons engaged in public service.

Project WAGE (Women Are Good Employees) will include a comprehensive survey of employment opportunities for women, an examination of apprenticeship and training programs, a study of affirmative action policies, identification of barriers to the employment of women and an assessment of nontraditional job and training opportunities.

"Experience has shown that employment is the most critical need of women on the South Shore," stated Mary Weafer, co-chairwoman of the Commission.

"Women's groups have done a great deal of work to prepare women for the job market, however, these efforts have largely been directed towards helping women set career objectives, identify goals, prepare resumes, etc."

"This project is aimed at beginning to link these efforts with the job market on the South Shore."

According to Miss Weafer, the nine and a half month project is intended to produce a directory of employment opportunities on the South Shore, an analysis of the employment needs of women, and the initiation of innovative approaches to the employment of women.

The project staff will also work cooperatively with women's groups such as the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, to provide outreach to women in the South Shore Community.

In a letter in support of the project, Alicia Coletti, Director of the Women's Center, noted that this project is a logical extension of the work at the Women's Center aimed at preparing women for the world of work.

The proposal notes that particular problems facing women in employment are sex-stereotyping, reentry difficulties, and inflexible hours.

It states that although women represented 41.3 percent of the labor force in Quincy in 1970, women constituted only 13.2 percent of the management positions and only 3.2 percent of crafts jobs.

"We are grateful to receive this grant from CETA and have the opportunity to begin to address some of these problems facing women who are seeking employment," said Miss Weafer.

The project is scheduled to begin at the end of the month.

EXERCISE AND WATER MYTH

MYTH: You should avoid drinking cold water during exercise because it will give you cramps.

To the contrary, water should be consumed before, during and after exercise to protect the body against heat exhaustion. Adequate water intake can also improve performance. NASA scientists found lower pulse rates and higher performance in men given one quart of water prior to exercising in high temperatures. The water should be cold, according to physiologists. No matter what you drink, unless it gets out of the stomach, it's not going to do you much good. The colder the solution, within reason, the more rapidly it will be emptied from the stomach.

At Ohio State University, the football squad consumes 80 to 100 gallons of ice water during a practice or game. That averages out to at least a gallon apiece, but it's still not enough to totally replace all the body fluids lost.

3 From Quincy Receive Security Program Certificates

Three Quincy residents were among 21 who were recently awarded certificates-upon their completion of a four-week security program sponsored by Braintree Hospital, 250 Pond Street, Braintree. The course was taught by Robert F. Drapeau, Professor and Director of Campus

Police at Babson College.

Certificate recipients from Quincy were: Leo R. Layden, 24 Cushing St., Wollaston, Capt. Francis J. Maloney, 177 Traffrail Rd., Germantown, and Brian J. Sullivan, 28 Pilgrim Rd., West Quincy.

Drapeau's program was designed to teach professional law enforcement and security methods to both established and potential security personnel. Audience participation was so great that the intended three-week program was extended to a fourth session.

Quincy Savings Bank's Energy Conservation Loan. At an Annual Percentage Rate of 9.00% for amounts between $1500 and $7500.

That's right. If at least half of a home improvement is to save energy, homeowners who are approved by the bank now may borrow between $1500 and $7500 from Quincy Savings Bank at an Annual Percentage Rate of just 9.00%. And, for similar projects between $500 and $1499, approved borrowers will pay a low Annual Percentage Rate of 10.00%.

Why are we offering what could be the lowest rates you'll find?

Simply because we want to encourage energy-savings in the home. Through such improvements as added insulation. Better siding or a new roof. Combination windows and doors. Weatherstripping and caulking. New heating systems, including solar panels. Turn our rate tables over in your mind as you think about the energy-saving project you particularly need. Then call us at 471-3500 to apply for your Energy Conservation Loan or for more information.

CPS Directors Hold Christmas Party

The directors of the South Shore and Brockton Boards of the Children's Protective Society held a Christmas party recently at the Old South Union Congregational Church in South Weymouth with more than 85 children attending.

There was a presentation of the movie "The Littlest Angel" and Christmas music by the young people's group of the church. After refreshments, Christmas gifts were distributed to the children. Mrs. Freeman Putney was chairman of the party, assisted by Miss Vera Freeman, Miss Josephine Ray and Mrs. Lincoln Ryder.

Previously, the directors held a luncheon and auction at the Quincy Neighborhood Club to raise funds for refreshments, gifts and other expenses of the party. Auctioneers were Mrs. Frederic Manley and Mrs. John Sullivan.

SUNBEAMS

By Henry Bosworth

Dear Santa . . .

Dear Santa:

Here I am again -- late as usual. Next Christmas I promise to write sooner. Honest. But if you could squeeze these last minute gift items into your sleigh for delivery this Christmas, I'd really appreciate it. Some of these requests, as you'll note, are being asked in fun and a few in a serious vein. Please do your best to get the following to the following:

Mayor JOSEPH LA RAIA, a typewriter and a block of paper to get his promised book going. With a foreword by JOE ALFANO... Mayor-elect ARTHUR TOBIN, some old fashioned forward progress Quincy needs badly... FRANKIE AVALON, a set of long red underwear and a one-way ticket to as far away from Quincy as possible... Councilors-elect JOANNE CONDON and STEVE McGRATH and School Committee members-elect MARY COLLINS and JOAN PICARD, the best of luck in their new political careers... WARREN POWERS, DENNIS HARRINGTON, FRANK ANSELMO and CHARLES SWEENEY, new campaigns to look forward to... Councilor JOHN QUINN, a handshake from Councilor-elect FRANK McCAULEY... Councilor-elect FRANK McCAULEY, a handshake from Councilor JOHN QUINN... Auditor CHARLES SHEA, a Christmas card from Budget Director SARAH SACCONO... SARAH SACCONO, a Christmas card from CHARLES SHEA... ERIC SWIDER, executive vice-president South Shore Chamber of Commerce, lots of success in his new job as director of the New England Council... The SOUTH SHORE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, two big feet to fill the two big shoes Swider will leave at the Chamber... Congressman JAMES BURKE, tip top health... PAT MCCARTHY, JAMES MCCARTHY and JAMES SHEETS, seats on a sight-seeing bus to Washington... QUINCY PROPERTY OWNERS, a nice big real estate tax cut--and one no one can argue about... WIDA's JAY ASHER, a TV station, so everyone can see that beard... CHARLES PEARCE, outgoing president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, congratulations for a job "well done"... GERALD REILLY, incoming president, accomplishments to match or surpass Charlie's... GOV. DUKAKIS, an answer to one question: How could you have snubbed the South Shore by not retaining a South Shore representative on the MBTA advisory board? With all the expansion plans out here, it just doesn't make sense to deprive us of a voice. You really blew that one, Mike... Former Mayor THOMAS BURGIN, seeing the completion of the planned extension of Thomas S. Burgin Parkway [formerly Upland Rd.]... City Clerk JOHN GILLIS, a couple of voting machines as a starter set. [He asked, but didn't get them last year, Santa]... RUTH GORDON, another Academy Award... Former Quincy High School Principal GEORGE WILSON, a continuous flow in his Fountain of Youth... Quincy District Court Clerk DENNIS RYAN and former Deputy Sheriff JACK BROWNELL, something really special. [Their birthdays are the day before Christmas and you know, Santa, people with birthdays that close to Christmas usually get a little cheated on Christmas.]... Dr. DONALD MacLEOD, chairman of the Freedom Park Committee, a statue of John Quincy Adams to keep John Adams company... WILLIAM O'CONNELL, president Quincy Historical Society, another dozen members... JACK SILVERSTEIN, the North Quincy druggist, a new joke book. [We're running low in the Smile Dept.]... School Supt. LAWRENCE CREEDON, completion of the North Quincy High School addition on time... Dr. ALFRED MAHONEY, former City Health Commissioner still quite busy with his own practice, a well deserved commendation for all the good things he has done publicly and privately... City Solicitor TOM WILLIAMS and JACK SALENIUS, Mayor LaRaia's administrative aide, good luck as they prepare to leave public service... Assistant City Clerk TOM BURKE, a set of darts... Reps. TOM BROWNELL, MICHAEL MORRISSEY and ROBERT CERASOLI, good strong voices on Beacon Hill... Police Chief FRANCIS FINN and Fire Chief EDWARD BARRY, a year without interference... GEORGE RILEY, the new mayor's executive secretary, the expertise of an EDWARD [RED] LEWIS... Fire Lt. ROBERT KELLY, his own hit album... BOB COLMAN, a snow storm and a truck load of skis... Councilor PAUL HAROLD, a coin to flip to help decide his next political goal... Quincy Postal Supt. VINCENT NOE, every card and package delivered by early Christmas Eve... DICK KOCH, KEN RUNGE, NORMA and PETER GACICIA, AGNES COSTELLO, NORMAN FORDE, sincere thanks for all their help during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon and to the hundreds of others who generously donated or assisted us... BARON HUGO, a new Totem Pole... School Committee Vice-chairman JOHN SULLIVAN, a truck load of shanties... HANK CONROY, a seat of honor at future Quincy-North football games... Quincy High School band director MIKE CAHILL and DAVE WATSON, North Quincy High band director, and their talented musicians, continued good tooting and success in their planned trips to a bowl game and Ireland...

To all of them, and all of you, a very Merry Christmas and a happy, healthy New Year.

The first jukebox was installed at the Palais Royal Saloon, San Francisco, in 1889. It consisted of an electrically-operated phonograph with four listening tubes.

No Deals Made On Council Presidency, Quinn Says

given responsible positions of committee leadership. That's as far as I went."

Sheets said it was he who suggested creation of the post of vice president.

"I felt in that way we could give some balance to the City Council," he said. "My position was that a guy like Frank McCauley would be a good choice for that capacity."

"John talked to the other members of the Council and they did not go along with the idea of a vice president and it was dropped at that point."

McGrath said that the key to his vote for Quinn was the fact that Sheets and Harold, the two other candidates to head the Council, had their eyes on other political jobs. Harold is reportedly interested in the State Senate.

"I had reservations about Harold and Sheets mainly because they have some aspirations for some higher office," said McGrath. "I thought at this time we could use someone who is mainly interested in working on the City Council."

"This is not meant as a criticism of the other two. It's just an observation of what I wanted, what I thought the City Council needed."

Another reason for his vote, he said, "was to end all the hassle so that the City Council can put all that behind and work together."

Sheets said he offered to give up his chairmanship of the

JOHN QUINN

Council's oversight committee in order to open up another position of responsibility to McCauley or Harold.

"I don't know what kind of deals John and I could have worked out," he said. "There was nothing I wanted. I didn't want the Council presidency. I was willing to give up my biggest standing committee. What else is there I would want?"

"My only concern was for harmony on the Council. I felt I actively pursued votes that I could have secured enough votes to become president. I felt I'm going to be very busy next year and that cup had better pass to someone else."

"If no one had it by January I felt I could have put together five votes. I would have accepted it. But I wanted all eight councilors to have the opportunity first."

"Without my vote, John Quinn put together five other votes."

"I have no idea at this point in time what committee assignments I'm going to get or what the others will get or what changes might be made in my committee assignments."

Sheets said Quinn called him Sunday night and told him that he had the fifth vote and he could be elected president on the first ballot Jan. 3.

"I congratulated John," said Sheets.

Quinn declined to go into details of what led up to his obtaining the necessary votes for president.

"I don't believe in hashing over the intimacies of private discussions," he said. "There were no conflicts. No deals have been made."

"When we were discussing the vote naturally I wanted to find out if they were interested in this committee or that committee."

"We tried to get a consensus from the various councilors of their interests so that they could be put in charge of one of those committees they are interested in."

"There were absolutely no deals."

Suggest City Employees 'Elevator' Pay Plan

City Councillor Louis A. George was seeking quick action on a Quincy Taxpayers Association suggestion that the pay of city employees be adjusted up or down annually according to the cost of living.

"Personally," said Council President William W. Jenness, "I would favor such a plan, although I would not favor a cut of wages below the base rate now in effect."

The QTA submitted its plan two weeks before during the same City Council meeting at which representatives of the Fire and Police Departments asked for 15 per cent wage increases.

SHIP A DAY

William H. Collins, general manager of Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard, announced that Bethlehem yards around the country had fulfilled a promise by delivering a ship a day to the government in 1943.

As Collins spoke, the 10,000-ton light cruiser USS Pasadena was launched at Fore River and the destroyer escorts USS Luke and USS Barr slid down the ways at the Hingham auxiliary yard on the same day.

The day before, Hingham launched the destroyer escorts HMS Hotham and USS Ahrens, its 100th and 101st ships, the first double launch of ships destined for the British and American navies.

MARAUDERS UNDEFEATED

Meade's Marauders continued unbeaten in the Sacred Heart Cub Basketball League with a 14-4 victory over the Atlantic Wildcats as Richie Sullivan got eight points and Tom Finerman four.

Jerry Humphrey, with a basket and two free throws, had all the points for the Wildcats.

HOT PURSUIT

A boarder who was four weeks behind in his rent was suspected of stealing $40 in cash and $100 in goods from the home of Mrs. Dorothy Draffone of 35 Parker St., Quincy, on Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Draffone's 14-year-old son followed the suspect to South Station in Boston and then on the New York train as far as Providence where police refused to arrest him in the absence of word from Quincy Police.

Patricia Toland Has Enough Votes For School Committee Vice-Chairman

Patricia M. Toland has the votes needed to become vice chairman of the Quincy School Committee.

But the person who will replace City Councillor-elect Francis X. McCauley on the School Committee is still very much a mystery.

Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin said Monday that Mrs. Toland has the votes of the two newcomers, Joan Picard and Mary Collins, and her own to become vice chairman of the seven-member board.

"I plan to vote for Mrs. Toland, too," he said. As Mayor, Tobin automatically becomes chairman of the School Committee.

The Quincy Sun's Sunbeams column predicted last week that Mrs. Toland would be the vice-chairman.

The other members are John J. Sullivan, the current vice chairman, and Christopher F. Kennedy.

PATRICIA TOLAND

Members of the City Council and School Committee hold a joint but informal meeting Monday night to see what direction they will take in selecting a successor to McCauley.

They decided not to decide right now.

McCauley's replacement will be selected after Jan. 3 by vote of the City Council, the School Committee and the Mayor in joint convention. Ten of the 15 votes, or two-thirds, are needed to select.

Monday night they were presented with the options of voting for the three runners-up in the fall elections, Frank Anselmo, Charles T. Sweeney and J. Thomas Mullaney, or someone else, or no decision.

The majority, seven of the 13 attending, chose the last option. And nine of the 13 voted to ask all persons interested in the post to meet with them to discuss qualifications and reasons for wanting the job.

Once that is accomplished, said Tobin, he plans to give the required 48 hours notice, call a convention "and keep them in session until they come up with a decision."

Tobin asked any individual interested in becoming a member of the School Committee to send a resume to the office of the superintendent of schools, marked to his [Tobin's] attention.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia reduced the number to one, who is paid $16,000 a year.

Tobin said he plans to reorganize the solicitor's office into the team concept with the solicitor given wide latitude in selecting his team. It is believed that the solicitor will once again have at least two assistants under the reorganization.

Meanwhile, Tobin said Monday night that his administrative assistant, which he called "the second highest appointment in the city," will be a woman.

"I am bringing in several more recommendations of competent women to serve in my administration," he said.

Dr. Griffin said that the screening committee will meet Tuesday, Dec. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the Wollaston home of Atty. Ruth M. Paven to interview at least two applicants for the post of public works commissioner. "After that they'll take up the Downtown Development Coordinator and then get into treasurer, purchasing agent, etc.," said Tobin.

The Mayor-elect said that Miss Helen Duffy, the administrative assistant to the public works commissioner, has agreed to chair a team designed to smooth the transition in the DPW.

He said he has received a copy of the resignation of acting Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, effective Jan. 3, and he named City Engineer Edward Leone to head the department until a new commissioner is chosen.

Tobin said he also received a letter from Anderson offering to help during the transition period which ends Jan. 3 when the new Mayor is sworn into office. He said Anderson's offer was one of the first communications that he has had with members of the outgoing LaRaia administration.

The first contact, he said, came a week ago from City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams. Then, he said, his executive secretary-designee, George Riley, met with Arthur Casey, who currently holds the post.

"The city solicitor," he said, "was extremely kind in offering to help. We have a second offer of help now."

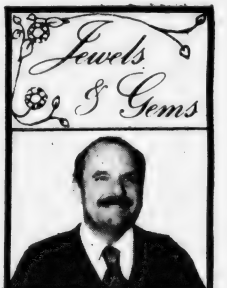

Tobin said he and the screening committee are working "slowly and deliberately" in selecting the key members of his administration. Many of the posts, he said, will not be open until February.

"Every one selected is signing a statement that he has never been indicted or brought before a Grand Jury or convicted of a crime under the pain of perjury," said Tobin.

When the screening committee gets through with major appointments, he said, "they are going to help me with my appointments to the various commissions and boards."

The Mayor-elect said that in his inaugural address he will make recommendations for the reorganization of several departments and the screening committee also will help him with that chore.

Have you ever wondered about the difference between natural and cultured pearls? It seems like a small one, really, but the difference in cost is often considerable. Here's the reason why: to produce cultured pearls, man implants a mother-of-pearl bead into the oyster. The "nacre"—the pearl material—forms around this bead. In natural pearls, however, the core—perhaps a grain of sand—enters the oyster by chance. Thus, the natural pearl is composed entirely of nacre [the tiny natural core usually disintegrates], whereas the cultured pearl only has a millimeter-thick coating around its core. As a result light is diffused differently in the cultured pearl, which appears less translucent—but only to an expert.

Our experts at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490 are always willing to talk to you about the fine jewelry we handle. We're proud to have the confidence of a wide number of people and hope you'll join our growing list of satisfied customers. Come to us for those last minute gift items of jewelry, pewter, crystal, china and clocks. Gift certificates are also available in any amount. Hours: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mon. thru Sat. Have a Very Merry Christmas. HELPFUL HINT: A good cultured pearl necklace should be guaranteed to last at least a lifetime.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas is a Singing Time -- when all the children go out caroling, young and old, tall or short, everybody loves to sing.

Some people give drinks or food to the carolers for singing so nicely. Sick people and the very, very old love the caroling because they can't go out.

Christmas is a lot of fun,
It's a time for everyone.
When I see the gifts beneath the tree,
I get the greatest feeling of glee.

Christ was born upon this day, in a manger in which he lay.
Mary was chosen above all other, to be baby Jesus's loving mother.

Christmas comes only once a year, and that's when I see everyone love and share.
I just love Christmas!

With gifts for all beneath her

What Christmas Means To Me...

I like Christmas because Jesus was born on Christmas Day, and because the family can give presents to each other. The family can get together and sing Christmas carols. We can have fun putting ornaments on the Christmas tree. We can invite neighbors over to dinner, and give them presents. Then the next morning we will wake up to nice presents under the Christmas tree.

The snow fell light on this dark Christmas night. As I gazed at the sky, I saw St. Nick ride by.

His nose and his cheeks were the color of cherries. He was plump, and jolly, and certainly merry.

All of the sudden! I heard on the roof, the prancing and dancing of many little hooves. Then suddenly behind me I heard a jolly laugh, and there stood Santa from his boots to his hat.

He wished me a merry Christmas, and I returned the wish back. Then he filled up the stockings fastened up with a tack.

As he stood by the chimney, he wished me a good night. Then he went to the sleigh to continue his flight.

As I stood there in wonder, I heard him exclaim, "Merry Christmas to all, until I come again."

Christmas is a time for good cheer, to help bring happiness thru the New Year.

It's a special kind of day, special in every way.

It was the day Jesus was born, so we celebrate in the morn.

We get a lot of toys, and the day is full of joy.

We make men out of snow, while the cold winds blow.

Christmas is when we go to my grandmother's house and share all our presents with my relatives and play with our gifts. Christmas to me means a time for giving, togetherness and having fun and a lot of little things that add up to tremendous meaning.

I like the giving part because to me it means giving presents but it doesn't always have to be presents you use. That is probably what you think about when you hear that word. I am talking about other gifts like care, love and just giving happiness. That's why I think giving is one of the most important parts of Christmas.

Togetherness is something that probably everyone is feeling on Christmas Day because most people spend this day with either their family or their relatives. That is what my family always does on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. It is really a very busy holiday for me and my family. The thing we like to do best is to decorate the Christmas tree which I always look forward to doing with my sisters.

Fun is what I always have on Christmas Day and Christmas Eve because I get to see almost all of my relatives. We all love to eat and talk. I also have fun being with my family.

These three things are very important to me in the Christmas season.

Afterwards I go home and eat with my family. At night we play games and celebrate together.

Lucy Paolilli

Christmas is a joyous season with lots of happy people around. I think it is the best time of year, because people have so much fun buying presents and things.

Since there are just two people in my family (my Mom and I), we don't have such a madhouse at Christmas time. We have fun shopping for presents for all my cousins, aunts and uncles, and most of all my grandmother. We like to get her a special present because she's really nice to us all year long.

When I go to get my mother a Christmas present, I usually go with my friends. When I get home and my Mom asks me, "What's in the bag?" I usually have to say, "Oh, nothing much," but I think she knows it's a present for her.

In about two weeks we will put up our Christmas tree. I usually do most of it. We have an artificial tree and I stick the branches in and make sure the tree is not unbalanced. My mother puts the ornaments on and I put the lights around the tree. It can be a very tiring job going around the tree in circles with the lights. I'm dizzy in no time at all. When the tree is done, we sit down and take a break. Then we put all the presents under the tree. They really look so pretty wrapped up in the Christmas paper of all different colors.

At about 4 p.m. the lights go on. We leave them on until 1 a.m. or so. It is really nice when there is snow on the ground, because the lights on the tree leave a colorful reflection in the snow.

On Christmas eve we go to my grandmother's house and have dinner. All my aunts, uncles and cousins come and we have a big dinner and then open presents and talk. It's about the only time of the year where we all see each other together.

Well, what Christmas means to me is just the best time of year. Without it all of us would not become as close to our families as we are on this special day.

Christmas means decorating the house. We put lights in the windows, cards on the wall, and lights, ornaments and tinsel on the tree. Before Christmas I watch TV shows and sing and listen to Christmas songs.

It wouldn't be the same if I didn't. I used to like waiting up all night so I could hear and maybe see Santa Claus. I usually fell asleep before I heard him! I still love waking up early and running downstairs to see what I got.

However, on Christmas day you shouldn't think just about presents. You should think about Christ. If it wasn't for Christ being born, we wouldn't have Christmas. On Christmas day you should be happy and thankful because it's the day that Christ was born, and thankful because it's the time of giving and receiving.

Christmas should be a fun day also. I love having a big dinner with dessert after it. I like to visit all my relatives. It's a season to be happy, thankful, and have fun, and that's the way I like Christmas.

Christmas is a religious holiday. Christians show their joy and thanks for Christ's coming, by decorating their homes with holly, lights and Christmas trees. Stores are brightly decorated, children visit Santa, gifts are exchanged, and families gather and enjoy the spirit of Christmas.

The real meaning of Christmas is simple. Christ came down for us to give us the spirit so that we might be born again. At Christmas you think of Him and committing yourself to do what He wants you to do, because that's why He was born.

It's a time when people you know, come over to your house and you share your food and goodwill with them.

Christmas is the only time of the year people really decorate their homes. I love to see it snow. It makes it feel more Christmasy and it's fun to play in. Christmas vacation is the only time of the year which is the longest vacation. And I also enjoy reading books "The Christmas Carol" and "The Night Before Christmas". What Christmas Means To Me...

On Christmas Eve I get so excited and can't wait to open all of my presents. I made a colorful card for my grandparents. When I go to bed I think of chubby Santa Claus with his sleigh and reindeer and Santa coming down the chimney and putting the presents under the tree with the ornaments and a little angel at the top. On Christmas it is snowy. I run down the stairs briskly to open my presents.

When I was little, Christmas used to mean presents and Santa Claus. But now that I have gotten older, Christmas means different things to me.

It is sort of sad that things have to change. I used to enjoy Christmas so much because everything seemed magical and new. I am not saying I do not enjoy Christmas now, but it is a different kind of enjoyment.

It is like, when "Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer" came on television this year. I watched it, but it was not like it was when I was young. When I was young, I used to get all excited when Rudolph left home and wandered off with the little elf. I really felt like I was walking right beside Rudolph in that big blizzard. Now it is just like I know every single word they are going to say.

Now when Christmas comes along, I know everything that is going to happen. Even my Christmas presents are not a surprise because all I want is clothes, and I have to pick them out myself so they will fit.

Now, I think Christmas means snow, company, vacations and just a little bit of Santa Claus.

Christmas is a time of happiness. If we are all happy together then it is togetherness.

Christmas is a time of loving, sharing, giving each one of these is a part.

So let's all keep these in our heart!

When everyone is so gay, we all know it is Christmas day!

I bet that Christmas is the best holiday in the whole year. In school we have a vacation. And on Christmas morning all the children got toys. But it isn't so exciting for the mothers and fathers because they have to shovel snow. But it still is fun. And I wish that Christmas was every week. But then we could only get one toy.

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas is exciting to me, with stockings on the fireplace and a brightly lighted Christmas tree. You wait in bed for morning to open your exciting presents, and to give presents to your family. You have a great time, and play with the toys and games that you get. Then to go over to someone's house, and have a great big dinner. To have it snow out makes the happy day complete!

Stephanie Petrakos

When it's Christmas Day I get so impatient. We can't go downstairs until everyone is awake. One Christmas I wanted to go downstairs. I ran terribly fast - I couldn't believe my eyes at all the toys.

I said, "I guess old St. Nick came."

When everyone came down we played and shared our toys with each other. For that's what Christmas is - loving, sharing, caring and joy!

Susan Foley

Christmas means the loving birth of our saviour Jesus Christ. It also means when St. Nick arrives and gives wrapped, shiny, bright presents to the entire world. People enjoy this joyous holiday and for weeks look forward to it. It means a time for giving special gifts and celebrating the sacred birth of our saviour Jesus Christ.

Most people stay home afternoons cooking mouthwatering cookies and cakes and all sorts of things. Our family goes visiting on Christmas to our relatives and we sort of have 3 wonderful Christmases. That's what Christmas means to me.

Christmas is a special time of year. It's a time for giving gifts and getting gifts. It's the time when Christ was born. Lots of people forget the true meaning.

It's always rush, rush, get the presents or hurry get the tree up. Nobody seems to find enough time to think.

Sure it's nice to get presents, and seeing the Christmas tree is nice too, but there are other meanings to Christmas like being with people you love.

Ann Carroll

Christmas is a happy time in our own way. It means to get and to give and to forget and to forgive.

It means to sing and to play and to say what a nice day.

Christmas is a time to be thankful. Christmas is to have fun and to play, and not to fight and not to be mad.

Christmas is a happy time in our lives, it is a time to like one another.

John Morey

Christmas isn't a time just to give presents and receive. It's a time to rejoice!

On Christmas day, we should thank God for sending a Redeemer. His Son Jesus Christ.

On Christmas Eve we should look up in the sky, and see if we can see the star, so big and beautiful, shining bright in the clear of the night. The star that the shepherds and the three kings followed to the manger in Bethlehem, where Jesus was born.

Families should gather together on this special day. On Christmas day, we should be thankful that we are alive on this very special day.

We should go to church on Christmas day and thank God and pray for our relatives who have passed away. That is what Christmas means to me.

I love Christmas because it's so much fun. You can play with your presents. Some are games and some are run by batteries. The best kind I like is games. Every Christmas Santa comes down the chimney. Santa's nose is red, his cheeks are like two cherries and when he sees the Christmas tree he gives a "Ho Ho Ho" and he fills your stockings with good little toys and he goes up the chimney. Then he gets in his sled and he goes. When you get downstairs to see your toys you will be happy!

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas means happiness to me, especially when I see everyone's happy face. I love to go into Boston and see everyone in a hurry and all the Christmas trees and lights. I like it when my cousins come over. It's so much fun opening all the gifts. However, Christmas is not all receiving. At school we bring in canned goods for needy. Best of all I like Christmas Eve. I can go to the midnight mass. I also get to open one of my gifts.

On Christmas day I like getting up real early and going down stairs to look at my gifts. Then we play with our games. It's so much fun! Then we go visiting. It is fun because the whole family is together I love to watch little kids get their picture taken with Santa Claus. Some start crying and some look so jolly! I think Christmas is the most wonderful time of the year!

Putting decorations on the tree, hanging lights so happily.

Playing all day in the snow, then off to church we will go.

To me Christmas is a time for being together with your family, relatives, and friends. Every Christmas Eve my relatives come to my house and have Christmas dinner with us. We usually have roast beef. After dinner we go to church. When we get home we sit in front of our Christmas tree and exchange gifts. We get to open one gift on Christmas Eve. After all my relatives leave, we stay up for a little while to talk and then we go to bed.

When we get up on Christmas Day we look at our presents for a while and then we eat breakfast. When we finish eating we go into our living room and sit in front of our Christmas tree. Then my father hands out the gifts under the tree. Christmas is my favorite time of the year.

Christmas is a special time of year for many people.

In our house we treat Christmas as an extremely fun and exciting season for the whole family. Not just because of gift giving, but also because of the decorating and the family getting together.

Things usually get swinging about the third week in December. It is usually that Saturday that we put up our outside lights and get our tree.

Everyone has their own job. Billy and Michael help my Dad put up all the outside lights and decorations. Jimmy and Kathy work on popcorn and cranberries, while Mom and Marilyn check out the inside lights.

I usually just get to separate the ornaments and garlands. When all this is done, Kathy, Michael, Jim and Billy all go with my father to pick out a tree for the living room. While they are gone, my sister Marilyn and I usually put up the window lights and other decorations.

When they come back with the tree, we get it set up and usually take a supper break. I do not know about this year, but for the last couple of years it has been MacDonald's!

Later on in the evening, after the little kids are in bed, my Dad and Billy usually put the lights on the tree. My Mom and I usually have the responsibility of putting the ornaments on the tree.

All in all Christmas is a pretty special time for me and my family to be together and to forget about all the difficulties that we may have.

What Christmas Means To Me...

At my house we start celebrating Christmas by carrying our statues of Mary and Joseph around our house.

This represents the trip Mary and Joseph took from Nazareth to Bethlehem many years ago.

We decorate our house with candles which signify the coming of the Lord. We have holly, which is said to have been used for Jesus' crown on our doors. The berries were white until Christ's blood stained the berries. We hang our wreath which symbolizes the never-ending circle of God's love on our front door and we have our real evergreen Christmas tree which is the sign of endless life.

The hardest part of Christmas to me is deciding on what to give to my family for presents. However, I still look forward to this because I like going to Quincy Square and being part of the excitement. During this time of rejoicing, I also like seeing all the decorations up, making the Square look happy and alive. It looks especially nice when it's lit up at night.

I also enjoy the fun on Christmas Eve with Santa Claus coming. While we wait for him, our family sits by our fireplace and sings Christmas carols. At about eleven o'clock we put cookies, milk and carrots out for Santa and then we go to bed.

My brothers and I get up early Christmas morning and come down and open our presents with smiles on our faces.

When my parents come down, we get the statues of Mary and Joseph which we had moving around our house and we put the baby Jesus between them.

That is what Christmas means to me and gives me and my family a Merry Christmas.

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas is a time for families getting together and giving presents to each other. They have fun and help the mother in the kitchen. Families have time to give a little love. I think Christmas wouldn't be fun at someone else's home, because there's no Christmas like a home Christmas. It just wouldn't be fun for children if they couldn't decorate their own trees. Christmas is a time to think about what God's son did for us.

Then we go outside and have a snowball fight. We throw the snowballs with all our might. Christmas morning is a happy time. To wake up early is no crime.

Then we have a big party, with all our relatives and friends, and here we go all over again.

Christmas means giving and getting gifts. My favorite part of Christmas is my brothers and I saving all our money to buy gifts for our family.

I think Christmas wouldn't be Christmas if there wasn't any gifts to give people on Christmas day.

Christmas is having all the family get together to rejoice and be happy. It is helping each other when it is near to putting up decorations around the house.

At my house Christmas always has love and excitement. I never fight with my sister for that whole day. But I always think how early Christmas was. I mean when Christ was born. What kind of presents did they give. Well, when I was a little boy I always thought they had love for one another. I think it means that if you had all the toys that you wanted and no love you have nothing. How could you not have no love and just not care. Well its nice to see my sister jump up and down and say Santa, Santa, Santa Claus came. Then she runs and looks at her toys. The naturally I look at mine. The about two hours later my sister and I let our parents open their presents. Then we sit down and eat out breakfast. Later in the day we pick up grandmother and we have our feast with turkey, carrots, potatoes, dumplings, onions, squash, cranberry sauce, apple sauce, apple pie, and boston cream pie. After the whole Christmas day is over we drive our grandmother home. She goes up the stairs and waves good-bye because she always loves to come to our house for the holidays and has fun with my sister and me. We know she is happy. It's the excitement that brought our family together and the joy of having fun together.

Christmas is my favorite holiday, not just because I get presents, but also because of all the hustle and bustle of buying presents, getting ready for parties, and trying to keep secrets.

Oh the fun it is! Sometimes I get melancholy, happy, and sad at the same time. I can't imagine why. You'd think I'd be bursting with excitement with all the preparations. Sometimes I get lonely too, despite all the people I'll see.

Usually at my house we have a big Christmas party with relatives and friends. It's lots of fun. We started opening some of our Christmas presents on Christmas Eve a few years ago. I think it's better because my aunts and uncles get to see the expressions on our faces when we open the present they gave to us. We save some for Christmas morning too, of course.

Christmas is a happy time, I think, with carols and all the lights and decorations. It brings everyone closer together. It brings joy to everyone. All together, love is the meaning of Christmas.

Christmas means a lot of things to me but the most thing about Christmas is when Jesus was born. At Christmas people like to get. But I like the giving, because if you give you will make the other person happy. It will make you happy too. I like to get too. But I still say the giving is better. Every Christmas I get my family at least one present. My family gets me about one present every year. If its not one its two. Do you like to give better or get better?

Some kids would think of Christmas as a day of getting presents, playing in the snow, and wondering about Santa Claus. But, Christmas means a lot more to me. Yes, I do get presents, and play in the snow, but I'm too old for Santa Claus.

Christmas means enjoying myself and staying with my parents.

Christmas means celebrating Jesus' birthday almost 2,000 years ago.

The customs of Christmas come from many places. In Germany came the Christmas tree. We put balls and lights to lighten up everyone's Christmas. From Italy came the manger with the baby Jesus, and his parents in it. It shows what it looked like when Jesus was born. From France came the mistletoe. The Christmas card, which is a big thing at Christmas, came from England. The story starts with Henry Cole, a well-known museum director in the mid-19th century. Every year he always wrote short letters to his friends, in the Christmas season, wishing them a happy holiday. In 1843 Mr. Cole didn't have time to write any letters, so he asked a friend, John C. Horsley, to design a card with a message on it. That was the start of Christmas cards.

So, to me Christmas has a meaning of enjoying yourself and others, too.

What Christmas Means To Me...

Because of my religious convictions, when I think of Christmas I think of what Christmas is all about, namely, the birth of the Christ Child.

So when the Christmas season arrives, I try to think of doing nice and kind things -- such as showing brotherhood and kindness to other people. Even when I buy gifts for members of my own family, I realize that it is not the gift that is so important but, rather, that it shows how much I care for someone.

Christmas also means to me a time for family gatherings. I am lucky in that I have wonderful grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins who are all very close. It is a wonderful and joyous occasion when we all get together, share gifts, and eat the delicious food that Italian families usually enjoy on the holidays. Christmas is, to me, peace and love.

Christmas is a time when families write and share the holiday spirit. It enriches the hearts of both young and old. In homes, there is a warm and joyful atmosphere that is generated by the love within each family. This atmosphere begins when the first ornament is unwrapped and continues throughout the holiday season.

Christmas is also a time for giving gifts as well as receiving them. Most importantly it is a holy time to enjoy the most wonderful event of the year, the birth of Christ.

David Marcham

Christmas is a time of laughter, joy and peace on earth. Of course what would Christmas be without the presents and food? This year I enjoy giving as well as receiving. We have an old-fashioned Christmas when we go to my Uncle Jack's in New Hampshire and romp in the snow, come in the house and eat, exchange gifts, and sit and talk of all the things we've done and hope to achieve.

One of the best things on Christmas is when my friends and I have our own little celebration. We exchange gifts, and each new year grow to like one another better. That's what Christmas means to me.

Christmas to me means spending Christmas Eve and Christmas Day with my family. It means having everybody there when we are opening our presents. It is seeing all my relatives and cousins on Christmas Day. It's seeing the lights on the houses and buildings.

It is hearing Christmas carols sung and all the bells ringing. It's when you are sitting by the fire nice and warm and hearing the cold wind blowing around outside. It's waking up in the morning and having your little brother all excited and yelling because Santa Claus was there. It's when we have a big Christmas dinner and spend the whole day together.

It's going to bed happy and thinking about what a wonderful Christmas it was. It's looking forward to next year and Christmas and all the nice things about it.

December twenty-fifth is a very special day, for on that day someone was born, someone very wonderful and great, Jesus Christ. This day is very important to me for Christmas celebrates the coming of everlasting life, Jesus Christ.

Christmas may bring presents, but more important it brings love for the unloved, happiness for the unhappy, hope for the hopeless, and togetherness for the lonely.

All around us there are signs of Christmas -- the streets, the stores, the radio, the television. But most of all Christmas is in our churches, our thoughts, our hearts. Christmas is a time of happiness, a time of love and the day of a great birth, which we will never forget.

Christmas means many things to me, such as decorating the beautiful tree, and getting presents for the people. The most important thing is that we celebrate Jesus' birthday on Christmas. Christmas is a nice holiday. Santa Claus and his reindeer are coming on Christmas eve so you better be good, and to you all, have a merry Christmas!

Christmas to me is the best time of the year. It's when Jesus was born.

Christmas is presents too, especially when you get something you always wanted.

Christmas is going to your relatives and having a big dinner, sitting by the fire toasting marshmallows and just having a peaceful Christmas.

Christmas is probably the most aggravating time for parents, because they're trying to go get gifts, and may get stuck in rush traffic. It is also the greatest time for them because they know that when some little girl or boy wakes up her or his eyes will shine like a star, when he or she opens Christmas presents, their child will come and kiss them and hug them and make them feel great.

One Christmas, my little sister got her first real bike of her own, and her eyes shone really bright. She rode it all over the house, she didn't even open her other presents.

That's what Christmas means to me. The most enjoyable day of the year.

Christmas is: The joy and love of family and friends being together; the special feeling you get from giving rather than receiving; the look of happiness on a child's face as he sits and talks to Santa; the coziness and warmth of sitting in front of a fireplace enjoying the Christmas tree; the beautiful songs we hear the church choir sing bringing us the message of the true meaning of Christmas -- the birth of the Christ Child.

Christmas is a joyful time. Everybody is happy. There is a Santa Claus on every corner collecting money for the poor.

On Christmas Eve, when Santa is coming, my brothers hang up the stockings. My mother and I make cookies for Santa. At night we wish that all the stockings are filled with little toys or candy.

But the real thing I enjoy most of all is watching my brothers' faces light up with joy when they see what Santa has brought them. So you see, "That's what Christmas means to me."

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas gives me a wonderful happy feeling plus the chance to buy the people I love something special.

Winter arrives at the same time, and during the holiday season, all of the family gets together. The ground glistens from the snowfall and one can watch children making snowmen and sliding.

At Christmas, I like to see how excited all of the children get about Santa Claus coming down the chimney and giving them all of their toys.

I wish the feeling of Christmas would stay all year because it is such a joyous season. I wish it could be lasting every day, not just because of the gifts, but because of the very special feeling felt only at Christmas time.

Christmas is a very special time when families and friends get together and talk of good times.

When you're sitting around the table you feel very thankful because your whole family is around you.

Christmas means a lot to me. It means seeing relatives and friends that you haven't seen in a long time.

Christmas morning is the best time of the year, because Santa Claus came the night before and the presents are ready and waiting to be opened.

Christmas means seeing big smiles on little children's faces, when they wake up and see all the presents underneath the Christmas tree.

Then the whole family goes to church, because after all that's what Christmas is all about, to thank God and to celebrate Christ's birth.

That's what Christmas means to me.

Deanna Salvatore

I like the time of Christmas when we are preparing the decorations and the tree. In our family we have certain traditions. When we put up our manger we always put in our baby Jesus on Christmas Eve. I also like shopping near Christmas and getting ready for that special day. When I was little, the biggest part of Christmas was getting toys. Now, it's going different places and seeing all the store windows. I think it looks lovely when everyone puts lights in their windows. Every year we go Christmas caroling, and the best part is when you see people looking out their windows at us and seeing their smiling faces. That makes us know that we are making someone else merry.

A lot of people complain about the snow but it wouldn't be Christmas without it. I feel sorry for all the elderly people that have to stand through this. Some people don't even bother with Christmas! They don't know what they are missing.

I think people are happiest around Christmas. Everyone is writing out Christmas cards and sending presents. That's what makes them happy.

Before we go to our relatives houses we put up our tree. We have special ornaments that have been passed down from generation to generation. I hope some day to have a few of these on my tree. After we decorate the tree on Christmas Eve, we go to my uncle's house. Sometimes we go to midnight mass to celebrate Christ's birthday. It is scary being out so late but it is also peaceful.

The real meaning of Christmas is helping other people who aren't as lucky and as fortunate as we are to have a wonderful Christmas.

Cathy Farulla

Christmas means many things to me. The traditions of our home, I suppose, aren't too different from those of other peoples, but somehow they are very special; funny or sad, exciting or boring, but always memorable.

Christmas is a time when I stop to think about the Babe in the manger and how He grew to institute a church, thereby, affecting the lives of millions, and I renew my faith.

Christmas is a time when I become more conscious of relatives out of state and country. It means my mother will have us sit down, and in neat handwriting, send our Christmas greetings to them.

Christmas is the time of year when I take the money I earned mowing lawns and try to stretch it to buy gifts for my three sisters, my brother, my parents, and my grandparents.

Christmas is the time when I hope to get the TV game I asked for and try to "play it cool" when opening gifts Christmas morning.

Christmas is the time when I feel the absence of my grandfather at the head of the table, but I feel grateful that my grandmother is there to fill in his chair.

Christmas is my family decorating the tree together and Dad trying to locate the lights that burned out last year. Christmas is the time when Dad gives in and takes the five of us shopping for Mom's gifts, and has a coronary when we wander around the china department. After two or three stores, we convince him to take us out to eat; he always does, and we talk about his childhood Christmases.

Christmas is setting up the manger Dad made and Mom re-telling the story about St. Joseph. One of us, when small, thought he was the man who made the aspirins!

Finally, Christmas is when people find it much easier to have "Good will toward all men." Now if we all could have peace on earth, we would all have a truly Merry Christmas!

Jim Doherty

Christmas is a time for togetherness and happiness.

A time for sons and daughters going home to their families. Decorations are everywhere. People giving gifts to make someone happy and show them that you care for them. A time for forgiveness towards your enemies.

What Christmas means to me is many things. Most of all I like Christmas eve, because the relatives come over to the house and we talk and just have a great time. Of course, Christmas day is good also, and everyone is excited and eager to open their presents.

Christmas means cold weather and of course snow. The snow is nice because it means shoveling someone out of their driveway and getting a little money.

I like logs burning in our fireplace. It gives you a good feeling sitting near the warm fire, and hearing the blistering, freezing wind outside, and seeing the frost on the window.

It is a time for people watching their cars stall in the snow. Hearing the bell of the Salvation Army and the worker standing in the cold waiting to hear the clang of a quarter or more in the kettle, and watching the displays in the window.

Christmas means peace and happiness. I think most people feel good at Christmas time. It is the greatest part of the year.

Christmas does not just mean presents and snow.

Here is what Christmas really means to me.

Christmas means the birth of Christ and joy of all the families that are brought together by the birth of Christ.

Christmas is celebrating Christ's birthday. It is going to church to listen to the priest say Mass.

Christmas is when you sing carols while cutting the turkey for the Christmas feast.

Christmas is the time for love and sharing to all.

Christmas is setting up a tree and decorating it and your house.

Christmas is going to bed so excited to get up and open your presents.

Christmas is saying Merry Christmas to everyone you meet.

Christmas is singing in nursing homes, and for old people.

Most of all, Christmas is for thanking God for our Savior.

It usually starts in November. You can almost smell a difference in the air. People start walking faster than usual and without realizing it, sing Christmas carols under their breath. The stores are jammed with people. Cash registers ring madly all around you.

Let's watch a normal day of Christmas shopping. The streets were alive with the usual pre-Christmas bustle. People dashed madly around; into stores, up and down streets, trying to buy that last special Christmas present. Aunt Claudia could not live without.

Everywhere people flew pell-mell into each other. As two bodies collided, a geysir of multi-colored packages exploded upwards. This was quickly followed by a mad scramble to collect belongings, toss a nasty look over their shoulder to the other person, and be on their way.

Do you think the outside is bad? Let's take a look in a store. Jordan Marsh will do.

As you're shoved through the door, you're nearly blinded by bright lights. All of a sudden the man in back of you decides to make a sharp right turn into the shoe department. The force lifts you off the ground and you fly over the shoe department. You land on a bargain table located in "Junior World Clothes Department."

Little do you know, you are resting on a volcano about to erupt. Unfortunately you have landed on a sweater some mad shopper has decided to buy. The last words you hear are, "that's mine!" before it is zipped, quick as lightning, from beneath you. You fall off the table and topple on to a smiling mannequin modeling skirts. After a kind salesperson untangles you, you're ready to move on.

Squeezing your eyes tightly, and taking a deep breath, you step forward into the stream of people cascading by. You are now going to try to make your purchase.

The woman to the side of you gives a mighty shove. Away you go, smack into the jewelry counter knocking over an earring display. A few people stop to stare because you have disturbed them. Snatching up the first pair of earrings you see, and elbowing your way to the cash register, you finally pay for your purchase.

Now you stumble your way into the never-ending stream of people and go out the first door you see. Without hesitation you make a mad dash for the bus stop and luckily find a seat on the correct bus.

As you enter your house and collapse on a chair, your Christmas spirit is pretty low, and what is the first thing your eyes adorn before you collapse into a chair? Your very own Christmas tree, twinkling and sparkling. Yours to remind you of your wonderful day of Christmas shopping.

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

Play It Safe

Christmas Tragedy Can Be Averted

Some 2,200 persons, more than half of them children under 15 years of age, were treated in hospital emergency rooms last year for injuries suffered in accidents involving Christmas decorations.

With this in mind, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the Quincy Fire Department have launched their annual safety program, issuing the following advice for selection, use and maintenance of holiday toys and decorations.

TREES

If you are planning to buy a natural tree, the most important safety factor is its freshness. The higher the moisture content of the tree, the less likely it is to dry out and become a serious fire hazard. Fill the holder with water until the cut line is covered and keep the water at this level while the tree is in use.

Set your tree up a good distance from any heat source. Dispose of the tree when the needles begin to fall off in large quantities. This is a sign that it is becoming dangerously dry.

Metal trees present no fire hazard in themselves. However, they can be the source of a serious shock hazard if electric lights are attached to the tree.

Sharp metal edges may cut the cord insulation; the metal needles might touch an electrically charged component. Either way, the whole tree will become electrically charged, and anyone touching the tree and a grounded object at the same time could receive a severe shock.

The only way to illuminate a metal tree safely is to use colored floodlights placed in different areas of the room. Since the floodlights can become quite hot, they should be positioned where children can't come in contact with them. If you purchase a plastic tree, it should be made of fire-resistant material. This does not mean that the tree will not burn, but only that it will not catch fire easily. As with natural trees, keep away from heat sources.

LIGHTING

Check your tree lights and outdoor lights each year before you use them. Look for frayed wires, loose connections, broken or cracked sockets and spots where bare wire is exposed. Any set that is damaged, should be thrown out or repaired. Careful handling of these products during unpacking, decorating and repacking will lessen the chance of hazardous damage.

All lights should be fastened securely to the tree. No light bulbs should come into direct contact with the needles or branches. Curtains and other flammable materials should be kept away from bulbs.

Don't overload extension cords. Don't put more than three sets of lights on any extension cord. Keep the connection joints away from the water supply of a live tree.

Any outdoor lights should be weatherproof and clearly identified as designed for outdoor use. Don't try to use indoor lights for outdoor lighting. Remove outdoor lighting as soon as the season is over; even these lights are not designed to withstand prolonged exposure to the elements.

When you leave the house or retire for the evening, be sure that all lights are turned off by unplugging them from the wall outlet. Always disconnect any electrical appliance by grasping the plug, not by pulling on the cord.

Finally, though it may provide a sense of nostalgia, never use wax candles on or near a tree. This is a very serious fire hazard. Any decorative candles should always be kept well away from children and any flammable material.

ORNAMENTS AND TRIMMINGS

Avoid placing breakable ornaments or ornaments with small detachable parts on lower branches where small children or pets can reach them and knock them off.

Trimnings used on trees or around the home should be non-combustible or flame-resistant. An often recognized hazard exists in the combined use of spun glass "angel hair" and spray-on artificial snow, which present little fire hazard if used separately. When the snow is sprayed on angel hair, the dried combination can burn rapidly if accidentally ignited.

Some traditional holiday decorations may be harmful if eaten and this poses a hazard for young children. Mistletoe and holly berries may be poisonous if more than a few are swallowed, and these plants should be kept out of reach of children.

Fire salts, which produce a multi-colored effect when thrown on a wood fire, contain heavy metals. Eating them can cause gastrointestinal problems and vomiting.

If your child consumes any of these possibly hazardous substances, call your physician or Poison Control Center immediately.

FIREPLACES

Fireplaces are particularly popular during the holidays. Before starting a fire, remove all decorations from the area and be sure the flue is open.

Keep a screen in front of the fireplace any time a fire is burning.

Never use the fireplace as an incinerator. Do not burn wrappings or evergreen boughs there. These can burn suddenly and rapidly, throwing off sparks and burning debris. Dispose of wrapping paper immediately.

TOYS

Buy toys that suit the skills and abilities of the child. Avoid toys that are too complex for young children.

Look for labels that give age recommendations or safety information, such as "Not Recommended for Children Under Three" or "Non-Toxic" on toys likely to end up in little mouths.

Watch out for toys that have sharp edges, small parts, or sharp points. Avoid toys that produce extremely loud noises that can damage hearing and propel objects that can injure eyes.

Explain to the child how to use toys properly and safely.

Always try to supervise young children while they play.

Insist that children put their toys away so they do not get broken and so that no one else trips or falls on them.

Examine toys periodically. Repair broken toys and discard toys that cannot be fixed.

STOVES

Do not burn large amounts of paper in stoves.

ARTIFICIAL LOGS

Artificial logs should be burned in the fireplace only. Follow the directions of the manufacturer and burn only one log at a time and do not break them up and burn the pieces.

included a little girl who offered her doll to several hundred items from organizations. A number of women and girls participated in the dress-a-doll program with several hundred washed, groomed and dressed for a number of girls to enjoy on Christmas Day.

The food basket program will service over 40 needy families and will include turkeys, fruits, vegetables and canned goods in sufficient quantity to extend beyond the Christmas day meal.

The major thrust of the donations for food baskets was the 1,200 canned goods donated by students of the Broad Meadows Junior High School and the dozens received from the Parker School students and boys and girls of the Koch Club recreational activities program.

Once again, turkeys were purchased with cash gifts from the Koch Club Women's Bowling League and a number of individuals who each year contribute to this particular phase of the program.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks conducted a full scale program with members donating time and effort. Martin Blake, chairman of the Christmas Basket Fund, reports that approximately 150 to 160 baskets of food will be distributed.

"Last week-end," Blake reports, "I had about 40 of our members out with me distributing food and fruit baskets."

He said Capitol Market has been a big help in putting the food gifts together and will be lending a hand right through Sunday.

The Quincy City Club extended its charitable program to include dozens of gifts to patients at Medfield State Hospital. The club also provided gifts for patients at Boston State Hospital.

The major thrust of the club effort was Long Island Hospital where a new 21" colored television was provided to a ward of patients confined to their beds. The gift was delivered last week allowing those confined to the hospital grounds to enjoy the various Christmas TV shows.

Ten pairs of new colored drapes were donated to a second ward to liven up the area and provide a more homelike atmosphere while a third ward received nine multi-colored window shades allowing the nurses to control sunlight on the patient and also add to the decor of the ward.

Last year the club donated a new color and two excellent used TVs to three other wards replacing the old black and white sets that were obsolete.

The organization's 1977 donations included pillows, blankets and pajamas to the Faxon House Detoxification Center, 38 Christmas gifts to the Christmas party for retarded children sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department, mirrors, hairdryers, a curling iron and personal gifts to the group home for girls in Quincy.

'To Be Sure Where We Are Going' Morrissey Asks Meeting On Wollaston Beach Police Sub-Station Plans

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has requested a meeting with members of the Quincy delegation and the MDC concerning the architectural plans of the police sub-station at the Kimberly site on Wollaston Beach.

Morrissey said he asked for a meeting so that plans could be discussed prior to the actual construction of the sub-station.

"I want to be sure where we are going before we begin building," he said. "And I think a meeting would be helpful for both sides."

The meeting is part of a continued effort by Morrissey and the Quincy delegation to keep up with the MDC's plans for the Kimberly's sub-station. Periodic meetings with construction and engineering officials will help see that this station is open for the summer of 1978.

Morrissey has also received a number of constituent inquiries into first aid equipment and the score board clock at Shea Skating Rink. In a letter to Morrissey, MDC Commissioner John Snedeker said adequate first aid supplies and equipment are present at the rink, and MDC electricians will be installing a plug for the score board heater.

Atlantic Center To Close For Christmas Observance

The Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., will be closed Monday, Dec. 26, in observance of Christmas Day.

The program for the rest of the week includes:

Tuesday - Ceramics for seniors, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Grace Ilacqua and Julia DeRosa will conduct knitting classes for girls in Grades 4 through 6 at 2 p.m.

Wednesday - Knitting for seniors, 10 a.m. Bingo, 1 p.m.

Thursday - Mrs. Carol Bray will be available with information on winterization and energy from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. This service is available daily, Tuesday through Friday, at the same hours.

Friday - Roanay A. Horne, a nurse volunteer from RSVP, will conduct a free blood pressure clinic from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Rosemarie Hanley, a volunteer from Greater Boston Legal Service, will provide legal assistance from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Further information on any program may be had by calling Ron Tierney at 328-1708.

Montclair Men Donate Gifts To Youngsters

It was such a Merry Christmas at the Montclair Men's Club that there was some holiday cheer left over for the youngsters at Quincy City Hospital.

Thirty five gifts received at the club's annual Christmas party were donated to the pediatrics ward at the Hospital by club president George Hatfield.

Secretary David Mercier asked City Councillors John J. Lydon and Dennis E. Harrington, both members of the club, to make delivery of the gifts this week.

Trailside Offers Holiday Film Program

River otters, lions, wood-lore and nature adventure will be the subjects of award winning nature films to be shown at the Blue Hills Trailside Museum in Milton during December school vacation. The films shown daily, at 2 p.m., start on Tuesday, Dec. 27, and depict true to life natural adventures. The first film matinee on Tuesday and Wednesday, presents a family of native river otters going about their daily activities, through a series of exciting adventures. This film program runs for 50 minutes.

On Thursday and Friday, the matinee is a cartoon adventure portraying a lion who is not a "king of the beasts," a legendary woodsman, and the relationship of a park ranger and bears.

An admission of $1 will be charged for each matinee program, which includes museum admission. Call 333-0690 for information.

The Blue Hills Trailside Museum is operated by the Massachusetts Audubon Society for the Metropolitan District Commission.

Broad Meadows Edges Point In Thriller, 40-38

By WALTER MCCARTHY
Dave Grindle dropped in the winning basket with three seconds remaining to give Broad Meadows its first victory in the Junior High School Basketball League by 40-38 over Point.

Bill Concannon scored 11 points for Broad Meadows, including seven of eight from the free throw line, and pulled down seven rebounds. Frank Ried had nine and Mike Mattson and Grindle eight.

Steve Priscella had 10 points to lead the Point scorers and Peter Papile had eight.

The following day, Point got a big basket from John Varasso in overtime to pull out a 37-32 victory over Sterling. It was Point's first win of the season.

Dan Whyte led the Point scorers with 12 points, two of them coming in the overtime. Priscella had eight, Papile seven and Gary DiNardo five.

Ed Iodice threw in 12 points for Sterling and Steve Spargo had five.

Scott McLeod's 15 points were high for Sterling in a 32-25 win over Atlantic-North. Iodice had seven. Kurt MacDonald four and Dave Pekinen three.

The Atlantic-North scorers were led by Victor O'Leary with seven points, Paul Gill with six and Charlie Cahill with five.

In junior varsity action:

Central's JVs continued undefeated by romping over Atlantic-North 33-25, as Eric Green and Mike Gaudet each had six points. Pat King and Mike Pimentel also came up with six apiece for Atlantic-North.

Atlantic-North had better luck against Sterling, taking a 28-21 decision, with Paul Murphy scoring eight points, newcomer Jim Murphy six, Charlie Bunker four and Jim White and Billy Gray three each.

Bill Harris sparked Sterling with 12 points while Mike Ploof had five.

Sterling came back to bomb Point, 31-25, with Ploof getting six points and Paul Calabro and Bill Harris four apiece. Javier Perez was high for Point with six followed by Keith McNulty with four.

Broad Meadows also felled Point by the runaway score of 41-6, as Jeff Morrison fired 16 points and Tom O'Connor and Jim Austin each had eight.

Scorers for Point were Goguen and Sal Lorenzo, a basket each, and Kevin Breen and Dave Donnelly, a free throw apiece.

4 Lettermen Nucleus

Erikson Faces Rebuilding Year At North

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy Hockey Coach Ron Erikson faces a rebuilding year with only four lettermen, but the Raiders were impressive last week when they won two non-league games.

North opened with a 4-1 win over Canton and followed up with a 3-0 decision over Stoughton.

Not only has Erikson only four lettermen, but he had a turnout of only 29, the smallest in the Suburban League.

The Raiders had an 8-7-3 record last year, coming on strong at the end of the season and knocking Weymouth North out of the state tournament in their final game, but Erikson faces a rebuilding job this year.

The lone lettermen are defenseman Mike Pitts and forwards Paul Cooney, Jim Moore and Mike Marks.

Erikson has another player who would have been a regular starter last year. John Cooney, co-captain along with Moore, started as a sophomore but missed all of last year following a knee operation.

"We have some experience at forward and the big questions are defense and goal, where we have no experience," Erikson said.

The Raider coach will have a first line of John Cooney at center and Paul Cooney and Moore at the wings. This should be an excellent line as all are experienced players.

The second line will have Pitts at center and Mike Marrella and Mike Marks at the wings.

Playing on the third line will be Pat Ennis at center and Ed Marrella and Paul McDonald at the wings.

The number one defense duo will be Bryan McGilvray and Leo Doyle. Mark Rooney and Tom Pistorino will make up the second combination and Paul Graham is another top defense hopeful.

The starting goalie will be sophomore Bob Tierney, who lacks experience but has shown up well in practice.

Other players are goalies Tim McCormack and Karl Olson, forwards Paul Reardon, Chris Clark, Tom Gerry, Chuck Hogan and Dave Parsons and defensemen Dan Cronin, Bob Thomas, Bill Cooke and Brian Orla.

The Raiders went to West Point last Saturday and played the Army Plebes. North dropped a 3-2 decision in overtime. "Actually it was the Army jayvees made up of sophomores and juniors," Erikson said. "I used every player and was very pleased with our showing."

John Cooney scored two goals in the win over Canton with Moore assisting on both. Marrella scored the third goal with Doyle assisting and Pitts had the final one unassisted. Sophomore goalie Tierney made several outstanding saves.

In the win over Stoughton, junior goalie Tim McCormick had 19 saves in his first varsity start.

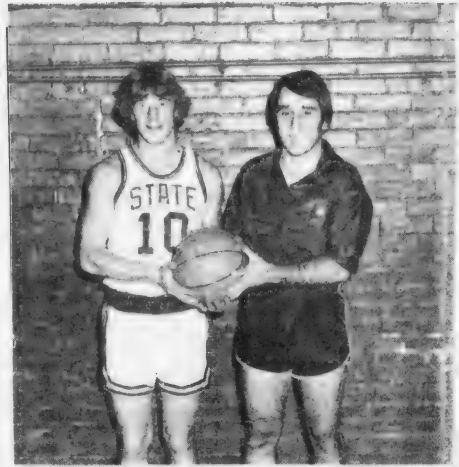

McDonald scored the first goal in the second period with Pat Ennis assisting. Later in the period Marrella scored, taking a pass from Pitts, and Marks scored in the final goal with Doyle having an assist.

Last night (Wednesday) North played at Waltham in its league opener, while Quincy opened at home against Brookline.

Saturday North hosts Brockton at the Youth Arena at 10:30 a.m., while Quincy has a bye. Next Wednesday it will be North hosting Weymouth South at 6:30 and Quincy playing at Newton at 12:30.

"The Suburban League is one of the strongest in the state and several teams will be powers this year," Erikson said.

Bob Troup is again coach of the North junior varsity. Bob McCabe is the varsity manager and Rosanne Befera, Mary Cremin and Betsy Johnson are the statisticians.

Girls Track

North Defeats Waltham

The North Quincy girls' track team won its opening meet last week and already has as many wins as it did a year ago.

Last fall, Jeff Strungis' Raiderettes had a 1-7 record and last Thursday they opened with a 40-36 win over Waltham.

"A big difference this year is the fact this is a separate program from the boys' team, instead of working with the boys as they did last season," Strungis said. "Now the girls get all the attention they need and not be put on the side as they were a year ago."

North's squad is young, with 19 sophomores and six juniors. Strungis, a former North trackman, has 11 girls back from last year and is pleased with the enthusiasm being shown.

"With a large turnout and so many promising looking sophomores, I am optimistic," the North coach said. "But we face last year's two top Suburban League teams, Brockton and Cambridge, in our second and third meets."

The key veterans include Betsy Johnson in the mile, Debbie Coutts in the 1000 (fifth in last year's league meet), Elaine Robertson and Jo Anne Clark in the 300 and Marie Voelkel and Cathy Greene in the dash.

Among the more promising sophomores are Sheila Beck in the shot put, Laurie Adams in the hurdles, Denise Chase in the distances, Paula Keany in the shot, Marilyn MacKenzie in the dash, Eileen Mackey in the dash, Eileen McKenna in the dash and Christine Tedeschi in the dash.

Others on the squad are Janet Abbe, Sue Cahill, Cathy Chase, Ann Conley, Christine Connolly, Jean Doherty, Clare Hurley, Janice Kelly, Linda Kelleher, Beth McDonough, Patricia McDonough, Ellen Regele, Claire Sullivan, Jill Sweeney and Mary Tenney.

In the win over Waltham, sophomores shone as MacKenzie won the high jump and was second in the hurdles. Classmates Robertson won the 300 and Mackey took the 600. Greene won the dash, another soph, Tedeschi was second in the 600 and Beth McDonough was second in the shot put. The relay team of Mackey, Greene, Robertson and McKenna also won.

The North girls will face Brockton and Quincy will meet Weymouth North today (Thursday) at 3 at Brookline.

Abdelahad Vice President

Edward Flavin Elected President Quincy, South Shore Realtors

Edward P. Flavin, owner of Flavin & Flavin Real Estate & Insurance, 1085 Hancock St., Quincy, has been elected president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, succeeding Vito A. Barresi, who has moved to the board of directors.

Other officers elected include: John Abdelahad, vice president; Marilyn A. Moran, secretary, and Steadman C. Beckwith, treasurer.

Directors are Barresi, James J. Basler, Joseph P. Clancy, Virginia M. Crismond, Dorothy Edgerly, James W. Gabarie, Eleanor King, Edger J. Mills-Price, F. Lester Morrill, Mary E. Nolan, George H. Raymond and Paul J. Reynolds.

Flavin heads the firm founded by his uncles John P. and James J. Flavin back in 1925. He was born in Quincy and attended the schools here before attending Northeastern University where he received his degree in Business Administration in 1964. He has also taken courses in real estate law at Bentley College and appraisal courses offered by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors.

He has been associated with Flavin & Flavin since 1965, and has been a member of the local, state and national realtors' associations. He has also served in a number of executive offices with the South Shore Board of Realtors.

Quincy Savings Offering Reduced Rate Energy Conservation Loans and over $230 million in assets.

Effective immediately, Quincy Savings Bank is offering area homeowners new low cost loan rates for energy conservation improvements.

If at least half of a home improvement is to save energy, homeowners approved by Quincy Savings Bank may now borrow between $1,500 and $7,500 at an annual percentage rate of 9.00 percent. For similar projects between $500 and $1,499, approved borrowers will pay a low annual percentage rate of 10.00

Examples of energy conservation improvements are attic and wall insulation; storm windows and doors; modifications to furnaces and oil burners; clock thermostats; weatherstripping and caulking; solar hot water heating systems and conversion from incandescent to fluorescent lighting.

"Offering this reduced rate loan is our response to federal and state programs to help homeowners finance energy-saving improvements to their homes," says Quincy Savings Bank President Charles A. Pearce. "Such investments are among the best a homeowner can make, since the savings in energy costs help pay for the loan."

Founded in 1845, Quincy Savings Bank has six offices in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties.

Flavin has also served as vice president and director of the Merrymount Neighborhood Improvement Association, a member of the parish council of the church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and Quincy Master Builders.

Tragedy In West Quincy . . .

CRASH SCENE -- Smoke billows from roof of apartment building at 71 Station St., West Quincy, shortly after WEEI traffic report helicopter plunged through the roof.

2 Dead, 4 Injured

Fatal Copter Crash Probe Continues

By PETER BARNICLE

Federal investigators today continued to check the twisted wreckage of a WEEI traffic monitoring helicopter looking for the answer to why the craft plunged into a West Quincy apartment building Tuesday, killing two and injuring four.

Dead were Henry [Chip] Whitmore, 29, WEEI reporter and pilot Richard Bank, 50, of Marlboro whose bodies were found on the first floor of the building.

The helicopter crashed through the roof and second floor of the 24-apartment building on Station St. injuring four occupants and routing an estimated 40 or 50 others.

Damage to the structure was estimated at at least between $75,000 to $100,000.

Preliminary reports indicate that the aircraft gave no advance warning it was in trouble before it fell onto the roof of the apartment building shortly before 7:30 a.m.

Injured were Ronald Michelson, 26, his wife, Lynn, 26, and their 10 week old daughter, Dawn. The infant was treated at the Quincy City Hospital and released into the care of her grandmother. The helicopter landed within a few feet of the infant's crib, fire officials said.

The parents are in the intensive care unit suffering burns over most parts of their bodies.

Tobin To Be Sworn In As 29th Mayor Jan. 3

Arthur H. Tobin will be sworn in as the 29th mayor of Quincy, Tuesday, Jan. 3, at 10 a.m. in ceremonies in the Quincy Vocational Technical School gym.

At the same time, after listening to Tobin's inaugural address, the City Council will organize and elect a new president and the School Committee will select a vice chairman.

A special guest at the ceremonies will be Thomas S. Burgin, 73, who was mayor from 1935 to 1942 and again from 1950 to 1951. He's the oldest living former mayor.

Council members being sworn in are Joanne Condon, Paul D. Harold, Leo J. Kelly, John J. Lydon Jr., Francis X. McCauley, Stephen J.

McGrath, John J. Quinn, Daniel G. Raymondi, James A. Sheets.

Quinn is expected to be elected president.

Sworn in to the School Committee will be Mary P. Collins, Joan C. Picard and John J. Sullivan, joining holdover members Christopher F. Kennedy and Patricia M. Toland.

Mrs. Toland is expected to become vice chairman.

Shortly before the ceremonies begin McCauley will resign as a holdover member of the School Committee in order to take his seat on the City Council.

His successor on the School Committee will be chosen later by a joint

Collins 'Much Concerned'

About Cost Of Running Schools

By TOM HENSHAW

Mary Collins, who will be sworn in as a new school committeewoman on Jan. 3, says she is very much concerned with the cost of running the Quincy public school system.

"I think the $32 million budget went through awfully fast," she told The Quincy Sun in an in-depth interview. "It's going to take twice as long, I think, to go through the budget this year."

Mrs. Collins, a newcomer to Quincy politics who topped the School Committee ticket in vote-getting, also made these points during the interview in her Squantum home:

• She is a firm believer in fiscal autonomy for the schools. "That's the reason we have a School Committee. We're responsible for the school budget. The City Council was elected for a different reason."

• She would like to see such things as discipline and curriculum administered the same through the school system. "The School Committee approved this and it's our responsibility to carry it out."

• She feels that the School Committee has done a good job with the Quincy schools, that she was elected because she worked harder than anyone else, that there were few

Robert L. Blair, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of South Shore Bank, announces the Board of Directors has elected William B. Austin Jr., President, Chief Operating Officer, and a director of the bank.

Blair also announced that upon his retirement in September, 1978, David B. Lynch, Chairman and President of Multibank Financial Corp., will assume the position of Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of South Shore Bank. Lynch was also appointed a director of the bank. Blair will remain as a director following his retirement as head of the bank.

Formerly a Vice President and Group Head of the Corporate Division of Bankers Trust Company, New York, Austin joined the bank as a Senior Vice President in January, 1975. He then became responsible for extending corporate services to the bank's commercial customers located throughout the state. He was elected Executive Vice President in July, 1975, a position he has held until this appointment during which he has been responsible for the administration of all banking divisions.

Austin received an A.B. in Economics from Princeton University in 1954. He also attended the New York University Graduate School of Business and has completed the New York Stock Exchange Commodity Trading Course. He was recently elected a Vice President of the South Shore Chamber and served as a Regional Associate Chairman of Large Corporations for the 1977 United Way Drive.

David B. Lynch joined the Multibank system in September.

WILLIAM B. AUSTIN, JR.

1975, as the Chairman and President of Multibank Financial Corp., parent company of South Shore Bank. Prior to assuming this position he was the President of First Pennsylvania Financial Services, Inc., a subsidiary of First Pennsylvania Corporation, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He graduated from Yale in 1950 with a B.A. degree and received an L.L.B. degree in 1955 from the New York University School of Law.

South Shore Bank, with assets in excess of $290 million and 34 banking offices throughout Norfolk County, is a member of Multibank Financial Corp. Multibank lists assets of more than $790 million and is the parent company for eight banks with eighty-four offices located throughout Massachusetts. The eight member banks are: Attleboro Trust, Duffee Trust in Fall River, The Falmouth National Bank, First Agricultural in Pittsfield, Mechanics Bank in Worcester, Northampton National, Security National in Springfield, and South Shore Bank.

Delahunt To Address QCA Meeting

Norfolk County District Attorney William D. Delahunt will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association to be held at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., Wednesday, Jan. 4 at 8 p.m.

Re-elected officers for the ensuing year will be installed. They are, Arthur M. Chandler, president; Joseph N. Gildea Sr., vice president; Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary, and Saul Lipsitz, treasurer.

Also on the agenda is a discussion on plans for the dinner-dance to be held at the Neighborhood Club on May 13. The meeting will also discuss the Joe Brett-QCA Scholarship Awards and plans for a fund-raising Flea Market. A scholarship award committee will be appointed.

Probe Into Fatal Copter Crash Continues

 was Julia Verga, 62. She was treated at Quincy City Hospital and then transferred to University Hospital in Boston. Her condition was described as "poor".

Ironically Whitmore was filling in for the radio station's regular traffic reporter, Kevin O'Keefe. According to first reports the aircraft had made two on the air commentaries on highway conditions before it ran into trouble.

The Federal Aviation Administration says that it has no record of any "May Day" or other distress signal from the helicopter before it plunged into the building.

Police on the scene theorized that the pilot was attempting to reach the parking lot at the Howard Johnson Restaurant on the opposite side of the Southeast Expressway when the craft went out of control.

Eyewitnesses said that the helicopter fell upside down into the eastern corner of the three-story brick apartment building. It ripped through the roof and the top floor apartment with the engine coming to rest in the Michelson's apartment.

Flames roared through the building at the time of the impact. Again, speculation is that since the craft had taken off from Beverly only a short time before, it had almost a full load of fuel which exploded.

More than 50 occupants of the 24 apartments in the complex were forced to flee, many of them in their night clothes.

Although the Red Cross and the Salvation Army were on hand to help it was found that the people were taken care of by friends and neighbors.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said that three alarms were sounded, the first one coming in at 7:32 a.m. The all out was sounded at 1:36 p.m. A tentative estimate of damage was given by him as $75,000 to $100,000 and "maybe more".

Arriving on the scene with the first pieces of apparatus Acting Deputy Fire Chief Robert Curtin immediately called for a second alarm. A third was rung in at 7:45 and in all from 12 to 14 pieces of apparatus were called to the area.

Firefighters were able to clear the building and contained the intense fire to less than one third of the complex. Most of the families were left temporarily homeless because the crash knocked out heat and power.

The bodies of the occupants of the helicopter were found in a corner of a room in the Michelson apartment, crumpled against a bureau and under a massive pile of water sodden soot. Firefighters trying to extricate the victims had to carefully finger their way through the ashes.

As they worked the blackened twisted wreckage of the engine, still smoldering, stood in the center of the room - a grim reminder of the tragedy.

Philip Powell of the National Transportation Board flew in from New York to take over the investigation. His crew, aided by Quincy firefighters, shifted the wreckage. The parts that were found have been sent to United Consultants, an aircraft manufacturing firm at Norwood Airport. They will be reassembled as probes seek to find an answer to the accident.

Throughout the morning after the crash the residential area was jammed. Ice coated streets made the work of the firefighters more hazardous while they struggled to keep crowds away from the scene.

AFTERMATH - Roofless corner of building shows where helicopter plunged into West Quincy apartment building. Second level windows are those of room where bodies of pilot and reporter were found. The smoldering wreckage of the aircraft's engine came to rest in the room.

GRIM REMAINS - The shattered and twisted engine was all that remained of the Hughes 269-B model helicopter which crashed into a West Quincy apartment building on Tuesday. Four residents of the apartment were severely burned and the pilot and reporter aboard the aircraft were killed.

City Installing Fuel Saving System

Quincy is installing in its public buildings a new fuel saving system which has been known to produce savings of from 10 to 30 per cent elsewhere in North America and Europe.

The first unit of the Vapormid Fuel Saving System, purchased by the city after an investigation by Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, will be installed in City Hall.

The system, which has no moving parts, requires no maintenance once it is installed in any heating system that has oil, gas, coal or wood as the energy source.

The installation at Quincy City Hall will be monitored to determine the fuel savings, and, if it lives up to its promise, other units will be installed in other municipal buildings.

QJC Receives $69,566 Federal Grant To Aid Students

Quincy Junior College has been notified by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of the award of a $69,566 supplement to its original Basic Educational Opportunity Grant.

This supplement brings the total federal assistance under this program to $207,716 for the period from July 1 to Dec. 10.

Students entering the college in January are eligible to apply for these funds. For information on admissions, phone Dean Saluti for a personal appointment.

One of the most common misconceptions about dishes is the relative strengths of earthenware and china. Because of its delicacy, china frequently is considered fragile and is saved for holiday and party use. Thick earthenware, in contrast, seems durable enough for the everyday table. The truth of the matter, however, is quite different. Despite earthenware's solid feel, it has a soft consistency. It is made from a heavy mixture of clays which are not as refined as china clays. Earthenware is fired in the kiln at a lower temperature than china, which leaves the earthenware porous. As a result, it is opaque and liable to chip. We at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490 have a fine stock of merchandise and do our best to give you friendly, helpful service. All types of clocks are appraised and repaired. Repairing is done expertly because it is "a labor of love". Our craftsman truly loves clocks and works primarily for the enjoyment. Open: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mon. thru Sat. Happy New Year Everyone!

Bonnie Mark Leadership Competition Candidate

Bonnie Mark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mark, 26 Edwards St., Quincy Point, has been selected as Archbishop Williams High School's candidate for the Hugh O'Brian Foundation International Leadership Seminar Competition.

The foundation promotes leadership qualities in high school sophomores. The criteria for selection consisted of evidence of emerging leadership ability, cooperation with fellow human beings and sensitivity to the needs of others, ability to relate to new pursuits and acquaintances, and the desire to learn and share knowledge and experience with others.

The selection committee at the school consisted of faculty members who have worked with sophomore students.

Bonnie will now compete with other high school representatives from Massachusetts. At least one boy or girl from the state will be chosen to attend the annual, all expense-paid, week-long International Leadership Seminar on America's Incentive System, sponsored by the foundation and coordinated by Columbia University in New York City, April 15-22.

A "blue ribbon" committee composed of 53 nationally-recognized leaders will select the candidates from the state level to participate in the International Leadership Seminar. These students will interact with top tenth graders from every state in the nation and 12 other countries and with prominent leaders in business, government, education and the professions. Mamie Doud Eisenhower is Honorary Chairman of the National Selection Committee, and Norman Cousins, Editor of the Saturday Review is its Chairman.

LIQUID FIRE

Hot liquids can inflict burns as serious as any flame burn. A recent study of burn injuries in Boston found that scalds represented 44 per cent of all burns reported and that 24 per cent of the scald injuries required hospitalization. Flame burns accounted for only 27 per cent of the reported burns.

The key factors determining the seriousness of a scald are water temperature and the duration of exposure. A less hot liquid in contact with the skin for a longer time results in as severe a burn as a very hot liquid in contact with the skin for a shorter time. That is why scalds from hot water systems, where the temperature may range up to 175 degrees can be as serious as scalds from hot grease at 400 degrees. Bathing scalds more often require hospitalization than scalds from hot liquids in the kitchen because the whole body is involved. The surest way to prevent bath scalding is to adjust the water-heater temperature to between 135 and 140 degrees - hot enough to wash, but not hot enough to burn.

Ten Complete Home Health Aide Course At Quincy City Hospital

Ten South Shore women, five from Quincy, have successfully completed the Home-Health Aide course given by the Medical Personnel Pool at Quincy City Hospital in conjunction with the American Red Cross.

The 80-hour course has a dual purpose. It offers members of the community an opportunity to develop basic home care skills enabling them, in time of need, to care for members of their families.

It also offers all graduates an opportunity to utilize their skills by working in the community through Medical Personnel Pool as a Home-Health Aide.

Areas of instruction cover basic home care, child abuse, fire safety, care of the alcoholic patient and psychological support. At the completion of their classwork the students had three days of clinical work at Quincy City Hospital during which they utilized their knowledge.

Quincy residents participating in the course included Mary Johnson, Barbara Linnehan, Bridget Mannion, Kathy McGrath and Margaret Ryan.

William Horne Memorial Bloodmobile On Dec. 28

The seventh annual William J. Horne III Memorial Bloodmobile will be at St. John School, Phipps St., Quincy, from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 28. Appointments may be made by calling 472-2700 or 471-3866.

The sponsors, Marion and Bill

Horne of 95 Monroe Rd., Quincy, are hoping for a better but equally heroic turnout as last year when 30 pints of blood were donated in the midst of a snow storm.

They point out that the hospitals of Massachusetts need 1,300 pints of fresh blood each day to keep patients alive and the Red Cross has committed itself to total state coverage.

Any healthy person between the ages of 17 and 66 can give blood, although parental permission is required before taking blood from 17-year-olds.

Rev. MacEachern Devotional Leader For Baptist Home Program

Commonwealth Ave., Newton, Tuesday, Jan. 10.

Rev. MacEachern, who is also president of the American Baptist Churches in Massachusetts, will be joined by Mrs. Lewann Marple, as soloist and Mrs. William Bulock, Mrs.

Clarence Churchill and Mrs. Harold B. Pope, all parishioners, as hostesses.

The all-day event will open at 10:30 a.m. and continue with a luncheon and visitation of some 130 family members.

CARE seeks Lions Club Aid To Help Cyclone Survivors

CARE this week mailed a special appeal to all Lions Clubs in Quincy, and more than 50 other neighboring towns asking them to help more than two million homeless cyclone survivors in India.

In a special Lions-CARE fund drive authorized by Lions District 33-K Governor Ralph Kenty of Malden, CARE is asking for contributions to help support a massive relief and reconstruction effort underway in the southeastern India states of Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu. These regions were devastated by cyclones and tidal waves in mid-November which left more than 2 million people homeless, an estimated 20,000 dead, and more than 1 million acres of crops destroyed.

CARE has committed more than $2.5 million worth of relief supplies which included food, clothing and shelter during the initial emergency phase, and is now planning for the construction of 30,000 houses during the reconstruction phase as funding permits.

Children's Council Seeks Volunteers

The South Shore Council for Children is interested in plans for school finance reform and is seeking volunteers who could help with a program designed to educate the community on the pros and cons.

Gov. Dukakis is reported to have committed himself to support a more equalized method of state aid to education. However, the Council is of the opinion that it is a very complex issue and will need the help of knowledgeable explanation when the legislation is drafted.

Persons interested in becoming involved in this civic project are asked to contact Audrey at the South Shore Council for Children, 1354 Hancock St., Quincy, 472-4224.

The Council is prepared to provide direction, technical assistance and educational materials.

38 Daniel Webster Students Visit Bunker Hill Pavilion

Thirty-eight members of the fourth and fifth grades from the Daniel Webster School, Quincy Point, recently visited the Bunker Hill Pavilion in Charlestown, and other Boston attractions as part of a class study project on American History.

According to one of their teachers, Gall A. Schlager, the group "enjoyed the show immensely."

"Many of the students," she said, "commented that it was like being in the middle of the action. They really seemed to relate to the 'human aspect' of the battle and the emotions of the colonists."

At the specially-designed pavilion, the class saw the multimedia show "Whites of Their Eyes" which recreates the Battle of Bunker Hill and the events immediately leading up to it. The presentation uses seven channels of sound, 14 projection screens, 22 authentically-dressed manikins, and a specially-composed, revolutionary ballad to surround the audience with the actual sights and sounds of the battle.

The group also visited the USS Constitution adjacent to the pavilion in the new Boston Waterfront Park.

Robert Price, Lynda Quigley, Robert Rosemond, Kim Truong, Tammy Vozzella, Francis Arena, Laura Brennan, Karen DiNardo, Steven Durante, Sean Flaherty, Christine Francis, John Groezinger, Michelle Hearn, Kathy Herrins, Pamela Hicks, Annette Holden.

Cheryl Kerr, Dorothy Maskell, Grace Papia, Sergio Peruyere, Richard Pettinelli, Daniel Raymond, Donald Rosemond and Michael Seppala.

Group leaders who attended in addition to the teachers were Mrs. Elizabeth Brown and Mrs. Margaret Francis.

HISTORY COMES ALIVE - Students from Daniel Webster School, Quincy Point, pose at Bunker Hill Pavilion after witnessing a reenactment of the Battle of Bunker Hill and visiting "Old Ironsides". The masts of the famed fighting ship are to be seen in the background.

Michael Mitchell Receives Police Assn. Scholarship

Michael J. Mitchell, son of Quincy Police Officer and Mrs. Maurice Mitchell, has been awarded one of 20 scholarships given annually by the Massachusetts Police Association to children of members.

Mitchell is a 1977 graduate of Randolph High School where he was on the track and football teams, a writer for the school newspaper and sports editor of the class yearbook. He was an honor roll student.

He was chosen by Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.) to attend the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in King's Point, N.Y.

Mitchell also won scholarships from the Randolph Elks, the Randolph Lions Club, the Randolph Insurance Agents and the Blue and White Banner Award.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

If you have a sunny windowsill, you can grow miniature roses all winter long. They make perfect indoor houseplants after they have summered outdoors in their pots at border plants, in flower beds or any garden setting. These tiny roses prefer a cool room, high humidity and fertilizer about once a month. They come in a riot of lush colors and forms from the reds, peaches and pinks to yellows, whites and lavenders. For fragrant delicate blooms all winter, try a rose garden indoors. Whether you wish to spruce up your home, lobby or office keep in mind that living plants or floral arrangements from NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 can add just the perfect touch. We encourage you to give us a call. If you are a businessman keep in mind that we can make arrangements whereby these plants and/or floral designs are charged on a regular basis, just as you desire. Master Charge and BankAmericard honored.

For the Creative and Unusual in Floral Designing: Hours: Mon. - Sat. 8-6, evenings by appointment.

HELPFUL HINT:
Spray roses in the morning to prevent red spider mite - they will dry before dusk and mildew will not develop.

Amelio Della Chiesa Elected First Mayor Of Italian Descent

Amelio Della Chiesa, a veteran of 10 years in the City Council, became Quincy's first mayor of Italian descent when he was elected to the Plan E post by a 7-2 vote of his fellow councillors.

Those voting against him were former Mayor David S. McIntosh and Alfred G. Helfrich, who voted for each other.

Edna B. Austin, who was starting her sixth term on the Council, was elected vice chairman, the first woman to be so honored.

A. Wendell Clark was re-elected to a ninth consecutive one-year term as vice chairman of the School Committee. He had been a committeeman for a dozen years.

NEW YEAR WELCOMED

Sam Lombardo and his Singing Strings played "Auld Lang Syne" as revellers greeted the New Year at the Sportland Grille, 80 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Elsewhere, Harry Downing's Orchestra and Ray Jones, your song and piano man, were at the Fox and Hounds Grille on Sea St., and the Show Boat Trio made music at the Brewster Boat near the Neponset River bridge.

The midnight show at the Strand was "Kiss Me Kate", starring Kathryn Grayson, Howard Keel and Ann Miller, and you could watch it in 3-D through polaroid glasses.

For those who celebrated at home, noisemakers were available at the House of Fun, 541 Washington St., Quincy Point, and Thomas Morton whiskey was $3.35 a fifth at Wollaston Wine and Liquor Co., 54 Beale St.

QUINCY WINS OPENER

Quincy High School's basketball team won its opening game by wearing down a smaller North Quincy team for a 58-42 victory as Bruce Williams scored 18 points and Bob McDonald had 14.

The lineups included:

Quincy -- Bob McDonald, Marvin Weinstein, Bruce Williams, Ronnie Deardon, Dick Ruggles, Bob Coleman, Steve Collins, Jim Kelley, Hobie Robinson, Andy Oriola, Ed Mathieson.

QUARRY ST. ARGUMENT

Quincy businessman J. Alcide Beaumier and Building Inspector Alrick A. Weidman clashed over the proposal that Quarry St. be given access to the new Southeast Expressway to help develop the West Quincy area.

"It is vitally important to the future economy of Quincy that there be a street direct from the Expressway to Quincy Center," said Beaumier, "or Quincy will diminish into an overgrown town."

"The access will serve no purpose," countered Weidman. "Development of the area will come sometime but only when it is made desirable by filling in the quarries."

QUINCY-ISMS

Dr. Israel Edelstein announced that the new Temple Beth El building will be constructed in 1954 near the corner of Hancock St. and Furnace Brook Parkway... Airman 1/C Charles E. Campbell of 22 Quarterdeck Rd, Germantown, brother of golfer Ken Campbell, was home on furlough from Germany... The Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. changed its name to the Quincy Electric Co. after customers claimed the old name was too long... A five-pound box of hamburger was selling for $1.25 at Lodgen's, 32 Cottage Ave., Quincy... The Quincy Rent Control Board deferred action on a proposed 10 per cent general increase sought by landlords when new member George C. Smith Jr. said he needed time to familiarize himself with the case... Donald Blanchard, Francis Murdock and Dr. Paul Ossen gave their biographies at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club... The Jolly Blue Jays Campfire girls of Wollaston attended the Ice Capades in Boston Garden with their leaders, Mrs. Edward Bowman, Mrs. Edward Welch and Mrs. Samuel Feldman... Dr. Paul Gossard, school superintendent, told the School Committee that the four-room addition to the Snug Harbor School would be ready for occupancy in mid-January... The City Council paid tribute to Councillor Frank N. Orcutt, who was retiring after 16 years on the Council... His Personal Goal: To Head U.S. Chamber

Quincy, South Shore Must Grow Together, Says Swider

By TOM HENSHAW

One of the people who are reviewing applicants to succeed Eric M. Swider as executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce observed to Swider recently:

"You know, if you applied for this job today with the credentials you had six years ago we wouldn't even consider you."

Swider accepted the comment as the highest form of praise as he left the chamber for his new $50,000 a year post as president of the New England Council for Economic Development.

He not only grew with the job, the job grew with him.

When Swider became executive vice president of the Chamber in 1971, it had less than 500 members, mostly Quincy business firms, and a staff of five working on a $67,000 operating budget.

Now it has well over 1,000 members with a staff of more than 30 - 13 on the payroll and another 25 on special programs and grants - and more than $300,000 in annual dues income.

It is also an accredited Chamber of Commerce, nominated in 1974.

"The Chamber very rarely put a definition to what it was doing before," said Swider. "Now it has one of the most specific programs of work of any business organization of which I'm aware."

"So I'm leaving a substantially different organization than the one I found."

Swider lists the biggest accomplishment of his six years on the South Shore as "the South Shore is now spelled with capital letters. People are identifying with this place as a region."

"We have started identifying issues which are regional in nature and call for regional solutions. A lot of problems of transportation and economic development are going to be solved on the regional level."

One result of regional thinking, said Swider, is the extension of the MBTA from Quincy to South Braintree.

"The reason that the South Quincy and South Braintree MBTA stations are being built is because we created it as a regional issue," he said. "If they were left alone they would never have been able to get the political support to make them happen."

The stations were part of the process of revitalizing downtown Quincy.

"The MBTA had to get extended; Upland Rd. still has to be built; but once those things happen economics suggests that the revitalization of Quincy Center is possible," he said.

Swider sees the development of Quincy and the South Shore towns as consistent with each other, not a competition. "The South Shore," he said, "has to develop more industrial parks and office parks and continue to grow and expand in those areas. That puts the South Shore in competition with Boston for business and jobs, not Quincy in competition with the towns.

"We have a lot of economic similarities.

"South Shore Plaza is going to continue to be more expensive and more exclusive in terms of the types of facilities it attracts. Quincy Center's economic future is going to continue to be more popularly priced in nature.

"When Milton's moved out of Quincy and into South Shore Plaza it was very consistent with what economic forecasts said would happen. Milton's is very expensive.

"At the same time there are facilities like Sears who are right on when it comes to Quincy and would make a marketing error to consider South Shore Plaza.

"I understand there are several major retailers who are anxious to jump into this market place once the road system is in place."

Swider said the new Fore River Bridge is one of the most important things left undone.

"It's a problem of lost opportunities," he said. "The shipyard has almost closed several times. It's just luck that it's open right now."

"There is lots of business the shipyard hasn't bid on because the bridge was just too small. There are a lot of people not working at the shipyard today because that bridge has not been replaced.

"I hope we get it solved before the shipyard closes. The shipyard could close at some point in the next 10 years and everybody would be saying, 'Gee, we should have done it.'"

Swider sees one of his first jobs as president of the New England Council as getting the six diverse states to work together for the good of all.

"There's no question about it," he said, "there are two different New Englands, one in

JQC Offering Course In Mass Communication

A new credit course, Introduction to Mass Communication, will be offered by the Quincy Junior College Evening Division next semester.

Richard Mula, Dean of Continuing Education, said the new offering is the result of requests from the citizens in the community for a course of this type.

"This is in keeping with the College's tradition of offering courses of community interest," he noted.

The objectives of Introduction to Mass Communication are to teach students the role of the mass media in modern America, the history of the mass communication in shaping our society, and business operations and economics of the media, with special emphasis on the electronic media, radio and television.

Among topics to be covered will be the various audiences of the media, popular taste, information gathering for the different forms of mass media, advertising, and the effect of the media, especially television, on human behavior.

"Today's college students are truly media children," said Mula. "They have grown up spending quite a bit of their time watching television, they have radio stations programmed exclusively for them, because of their buying power, and they idolize investigative journalists such as Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward. This course could be a forerunner to an Associates Degree program in Mass Communication, if interest warrants it," he added.

Besides the highly competitive field of journalism, there are other occupational areas students could enter with such a degree. Among these would include behind-the-scenes aspects, such as business aspects, advertising, planning and strategies for effective media utilization, and programming and promotion in the mass media.

For a liberal arts student, this course in mass media will broaden the student's understanding of the value of the media in a democratic society and will give the student the tools to evaluate the media, as it effects one's everyday living.

Introduction to Mass Media will be offered on Tuesdays, 6:30 to 9:10 p.m., beginning Jan. 24, to be taught by Dr. Martin LoMonaco.

For more information about this and other JQC courses, call for an evening brochure, 471-9200 or 471-2470.

March Hearing To Be Held On Squantum Gardens

Cong. James A. Burke recently contacted Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) concerning the latest developments at Squantum Gardens.

According to Burke, the 38 units of the complex that come without accompanying land have been cleared by all Department of Defense (DOD) activities, and have been reported to the GSA Regional Office in Boston for their usual surplus property routine.

The 28 units which have 5.1 acres of land included in their package have been screened within the DOD, and a draft disposal report is due at the Pentagon sometime in January.

Burke also said the House Armed Services Committee is scheduled to hold hearings in March to determine whether or not the government should get rid of the property.

Burke promised to keep Morrissey informed of any and all developments in the Squantum Gardens case.

William Hahn Re-elected To Action Center Board

William Hahn, Jr., of Wollaston, vice president of community relations, WNAC-TV, was reelected recently to serve a three-year term on the Advisory Board of the Voluntary Action Center at United Community Planning Corporation.

The corporation is a nonprofit citizen-led human services planning and research organization for 67 Massachusetts Bay area communities, including Quincy.

The Voluntary Action Center serves agency volunteer programs and places individuals and groups wanting to volunteer their time in service opportunities within the metropolitan Boston area.

New Lighting At Parker School Seen Vandalism Deterrent

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has praised the efforts of the Massachusetts Electric Company and the Quincy School Department in lighting the F.W. Parker School and schoolyard.

"The new lighting should help cut down on vandalism to the school," said Morrissey.

Morrissey praised the efforts of John Browne, director of plant facilities of the school system for his help and efforts to light the area.

Morrissey said the parents organization and many area residents had requested that the area be lit, and the school department and the electric company were instrumental in this effort.

"The new lighting should be particularly useful in curbing vandalism in the school area, especially in the summer months," said Morrissey.

Morrissey Expanding Local Office Hours

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) announces he will be expanding his district office hours to include Tuesday nights.

His office hours will now be Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 8:30 to 10 a.m. and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

"A lot of people have mentioned that an extra night of office hours, especially at this time of year when the weather is so unpredictable, would give them an extra chance to stop in," said Morrissey, "and anything that keeps me in touch with my constituents sounds good to me."

Morrissey said a volunteer staff will man the office at 69 Billings Rd. Tuesday night for now. If anyone would like to volunteer, they can reach Morrissey at either his office in North Quincy or at his office in the State House, Room 20.

Steven MacInnis Cited In West Germany

Pfc. Steven W. MacInnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. MacInnis of 50 Webster St., North Quincy, recently was selected Soldier of the Month in the Army's 24th Engineer Group in Karlsruhe, West Germany.

MacInnis is a 1975 graduate of North Quincy High School who also attended Quincy Junior College and worked at the Quincy Youth Arena before joining the U.S. Army in March, 1977.

The achievement as Soldier of the Month won for him two $25 savings bonds and a five-day trip to East and West Berlin.

The competition involved testing of such military knowledge as map reading, first aid, the M16A1 rifle, chemical and biological warfare, military customs and courtesies, job knowledge and world events.

MacInnis is a member of the 249th Engineer Combat Battalion (Heavy).

Donald Jeffery's Ship Wins Award

Navy Storekeeper Apprentice Donald K. Jeffery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jeffery of 75 Walnut St., North Quincy, has helped his ship win a competitive award.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Richard E. Byrd, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

His ship was awarded the Navy's Battle Efficiency Award in recognition of its outstanding accomplishments and competitive scores obtained while assigned as a unit of the NATO Atlantic Standing Naval Force.

A 1976 graduate of North Quincy High School, he joined the Navy in June, 1976.

Court Reform

The Massachusetts legislative session is now in its final week for the 1977 session. The legislature will work this week but the big day is January 3 when the legislature is slated to vote on court reform.

A House and Senate Conference Committee finally worked out a compromise on the Court Reform package, and the final draft will be in print this week. A copy of the compromise will be available in my district office.

The legislature will also consider gubernatorial vetoes of certificate of need from two area Boston hospitals. January 3 is expected to be an exceptionally busy day. Members of the House and Senate are busily trying to save legislation that they have filed.

I am currently working on a bill I co-sponsored that would provide compensation to victims of violent crimes. Two more steps and the bill will be on the Governor's desk.

I hold office hours Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8:30-10 a.m. and Wednesday 6:30-8:30 p.m. I also have the office staffed with volunteers on Tuesday evenings. I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or in the State House by calling 727-7035.

Tobin Defeats LaRaia Top Story In Year Of Turmoil

By TOM HENSHAW

It was another 12 months of political turmoil in Quincy but, as the end of the year came in sight, it appeared that the bickering and infighting were coming to an end, too.

The top news story of 1977 in Quincy was Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin's smashing victory over Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia in a confrontation of the two leaders of the city's warring factions.

Tobin polled 19,096 votes to 14,046 for LaRaia in trouncing the Mayor in November after he scored another stunning victory by nearly 5,000 votes in the six-man mayoral primary in September.

But it was the events leading up to election day that kept the city in a state of constant agitation that dated all the way back to LaRaia's first days in office in January, 1976.

There was the continuing saga of Ellen Nieters.

Mrs. Nieters was selected by a screening committee of the Harborview Residents' Committee as the best qualified candidate to succeed Rev. Peter Corea as a member of the Quincy Housing Authority.

Mayor LaRaia duly sent along her nomination to the City Council for confirmation.

But the City Council wasn't buying the sharp-tongued Mrs. Nieters, long a critic and thorn in the side of the Housing Authority, in spite of a series of tumultuous meetings packed with Nieters' supporters.

The official reason given when the Council turned her down by an 8-1 vote was that senior citizen tenants had not been given adequate roles on the screening committee. Only Councillor Paul D. Harold voted confirmation.

After a month and a half of debate and hearings, LaRaia gave up on the Nieters nomination and named Frank Myett but the Council ignored him and started looking into the possibility that it could appoint a member to the QHA itself.

When Myett finally was recognized and rejected the three-month controversy was settled as the Mayor offered a nomination the Council couldn't refuse - Rev. William Sharkey, associate curate of St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

The long dispute between LaRaia and Police Chief Francis X. Finn that began only a few days after the Mayor took office in January, 1976, was settled in midsummer in Norfolk Superior Court.

Judge Ellis F. Brown ruled that the Mayor does not have the authority to order transfers or make duty assignments for officers within the Police Department.

The ruling meant that LaRaia had acted outside his authority when he named Lt. Corady Solimini as inspector of divisions, a post that is, in effect, second in command of the Police Department.

However, Chief Finn waited four months before transferring Solimini to the Division of Statistical Services and restoring Capt. Paul Nestor to the post he held before it was given to Solimini.

In events leading up to Judge Brown's ruling, Finn obtained a preliminary injunction to prevent LaRaia from obtaining certain confidential information from Lt. David Rowell of the Special Services Unit, which investigates organized crime.

The injunction restored Rowell to the Special Services Unit, from which he had been transferred to uniformed street duty by LaRaia, in time to take part in raids that broke up what was described as a multi-million dollar gambling ring.

One of the places hit in the raid was Jimmy's Cafe on Des Moines Rd, Quincy Point, just outside the main gate of the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

Lt. Rowell said the raid, in which Quincy Police cooperated with the District Attorney's office, had been delayed two weeks and placed in jeopardy by LaRaia's order transferring him from the Special Services Unit.

The injunction, however, granted LaRaia the right to look at records of the hearing and punishment of three Quincy police officers who were involved in a bookmaking incident in 1976.

A LaRaia proposal to create a three-member Public Safety Commission to supervise the operation of the Police and Fire Departments drew down the wrath of the two chiefs concerned.

Chief Finn called it "a step backward." Fire Chief Edward Barry said it was "definitely not a step forward." And Tobin, by now a candidate for Mayor, termed it "another attempt to carry on his [LaRaia's] vendetta against the Police Department."

LaRaia also drew a bead on the City Hospital Board of Managers.

In January, he reappointed Edward Cronin to a new five-year term on the Board but three months later he fired him for "excessive absenteeism" and named Ruth Janus of Wollaston to replace him.

At the same time, the Mayor asked Dennis F. Ryan to resign from the Hospital Board, claiming that his job as clerk of court placed him in conflict of interest since he dealt with the attorneys on the generally anti-LaRaia City Council.

LaRaia, Council In Heated Battle Over Budget

Ryan refused to resign. In a shift within the administration, Robert F. Denvir Jr. was appointed to the Hospital Board of Managers, Succeeding Hugo Fabrizio, who was named to the Board of Assessors in place of Henry Bertolon.

LaRaia also fired Asst. City Solicitor Robert Fleming and Labor Negotiator Joseph McParland, two holdovers from the previous administration of Mayor Walter J. Hannon, by eliminating their jobs.

In their places, parttime on a fee basis, he named Alphonse Query, the Walpole town counsel, and Sanford Kowal a Boston lawyer, to handle contract negotiations with city employees.

When the City Council refused to appropriate money to fund their jobs, LaRaia raised a further storm by taking $4,242.50 from the Quincy Sons of Italy Capital Improvement Fund for the City of Quincy to pay them.

A perturbed Council agreed that there was nothing illegal about the move and Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, said, "It was simply the most expeditious way to pay the guys," and promised that it would be paid back to the Fund.

But those disputes paled beside the furor over the Mayor's budget proposals, particularly the $3.4 million supplementary budget sent to the Council late to cover last minute pay increases for city employees.

LaRaia submitted an $82 million budget in March, saying, "We have not experienced any reserve money in our account in this fiscal year or anticipate any reserve money in next year's operation of city government."

The Council trimmed the budget with little ado but when the supplementary budget arrived, pencilled and xeroxed and pasted together, only an hour before adjournment, the storm broke.

The Council thought it had discovered a $600,000 mistake in the Mayor's figures but when councilors turned to Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone for information, she couldn't be found.

When she finally appeared before the Council, she refused to answer questions, designating Kowal to speak for her. The Council refused to listen to him. LaRaia justified her refusal to speak by saying she had been "harassed and intimidated" by councilors.

The Council wound up appropriating some $2.7 million to fund union-negotiated salaries, nearly $600,000 less than the Mayor asked for, and left it up to the future to decide who was right.

In mid-September, the 1977-78 tax rate was set at $197.20, an increase of $2.40 over the previous year but infinitely more acceptable than the $34.90 hike of 1976-77.

It was in this atmosphere in March that Tobin announced for Mayor to rescue Quincy from "the insensitivity and incompetence of the present administration that has placed the morale of our citizens at an all-time low."

A few days later, Mayor LaRaia reported finding a bullet hole in the rear window of his car parked in the driveway of his West Quincy home. Neighbors reported hearing what sounded like a shot at 4 a.m. LaRaia said the incident had ARTHUR H. TOBIN and his wife, Shirley, celebrated his victory over Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia in his bid to become the city's chief executive.

"political overtones."

Tobin kicked off his campaign in early May with a slashing speech to the Quincy Taxpayers Association in which he called the LaRaia regime "the most corrupt administration in the history of our city."

He also had some unkind things to say about the Post Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Boston's North End which had been flooding the city with heavily pro-LaRaia material. The Post Gazette sued him for slander to the tune of $7 million.

LaRaia went to court in an effort to restrain until after the election depositions taken by Tobin's attorney in the suit but Judge Joseph Ford declined to "make a decision based on political considerations."

The depositions on file in Suffolk Superior Court showed that LaRaia himself was the primary source of information contained in the first two articles of the Post Gazette series. They also showed 18 contacts between LaRaia and Phyllis Donnaruma, publisher of the paper.

The September primary found Tobin a winner over LaRaia, 12,216 to 7,411, with Thomas M. Barron, Leo J. Hannon, George M. Tull and Thomas P. McHugh eliminated in that order.

In an effort to recoup, LaRaia urged that candidates make full disclosure of their incomes and assets. He listed his income for 1976 as $25,189, including his $25,000 salary as mayor, and his assets at $87,795.

But Tobin refused to go along, claiming that he couldn't because of the Post Gazette slander suit, and when LaRaia submitted a resolve calling for all candidates to file tax returns and net worth statements the City Council tabled it.

Tobin, who already held jobs as a state senator and an attorney, did announce, however, that he would not take a salary if he was elected Mayor of Quincy.

Three weeks before the election, LaRaia's chances for a second term were dealt a stunning blow, when Vincent R. LoCicero, his former public works commissioner, and Herbert Reppucci, onetime assistant director of RSVP, were convicted in Federal Court of extortion.

They were charged with extorting $7,000 from the Rocheford Construction Co. of Natick in connection with a $1 million contract to build an addition to the Merrymount School. Judge Walter Jay Skinner, on election day, sentenced them to a year each in the federal prison.

An hour-long debate on Radio Station WJDA between LaRaia and Tobin proved anti-climactic as just about everything that could be said had already been brought up.

Tobin repeated his campaign theme that an end to corruption is needed in the city and LaRaia reiterated his campaign issue that the city would be better off with a fulltime Mayor.

Towin won the election handily.

Other election results:

Joanne Condon defeated Walter J. Hickey in Ward 6 to become the second woman ever elected to the City Council and

Condon, McCauley, McGrath, Collins, Picard Elected

FRANCIS X. McCAULEY moved from the School Committee to the City Council when he was elected to an at-large seat in the November election.

STEPHEN J. McGRATH, a young law student, pulled a major upset when he defeated City Councillor Warren A. Powers in Ward 5.

MARY COLLINS topped the School Committee ticket.

JOANNE CONDON was only the second woman ever elected to the Quincy City Council.

JOAN PICARD won a School Committee seat with a strong finish.

the first since Edna B. Austin retired from the Council in 1959.

Two newcomers, Mary Collins and Joan Picard, ran first and second in the School Committee race, ousting longtime members Frank Anselmo and Charles T.

Sweeny. John J. Sullivan was reelected.

But another seat on the School Committee was thrown up for grabs when member Francis X. McCauley who had two years left to serve, was elected to an at-large seat on the City Council.

The city charter states that his successor is to be chosen by a joint convention of the Mayor, the City Council and the School Committee, but at year's end, no one was a clear favorite for the post.

Stephen J. McGrath, a 24-year-old law student, upset two-term Councillor Warren A. Powers in Ward 5 and Councillor Dennis E. Harrington of Ward 6 also lost out when he ran for an at-large seat.

Councillor Paul D. Harold topped all the candidates with 21,243 votes in retaining his at-large seat. John J. Quinn also was reelected to an at-large spot. McCauley was third after winning a recount with Harrington.

Other Councillors reelected were Leo J. Kelly in Ward 1, Daniel G. Raymond in Ward 2, John J. Lydon Jr. in Ward 3, and James A. Sheets in Ward 4.

However, Sheets' opponent, Albert R. Barilario, disputed Sheets' reelection in court claiming that he was in conflict of interest by taking two salaries from the city, one as a councillor and the other as a parttime teacher at Quincy Junior College.

In post-election actions, Mayor-elect Tobin named a screening committee, headed by Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, to accept resumes and interview candidates for appointment to various city jobs.

He also named the Rev. Bedros Baharian director of Downtown Development at $1 a year, William J. Callahan, as his financial advisor and George Riley as executive secretary.

As the year ended, The Sun learned that Richard W. Barry, a former city councillor and assistant district attorney, would be named city solicitor.

In other last minute maneuvers, Tobin asked for a state audit of the city's books and LaRaia signed the resolve, saying that if anything is wrong it's probably the fault of City Auditor Charles Shea, a City Council appointee.

And LaRaia negotiated an amendment to the firefighters contract giving them virtual free rein in transferring themselves within the department. Chief Barry called it "utterly ridiculous."

In September, an automobile crashed into the wall atop the PICKETS MARCHED in front of the main gate of General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard as Shipbuilders' Local 5 went on strike lasting nearly three months.

Local 5 Shipyard Workers Strike

 Ross Parking Garage, knocking a heavy spandrel to the ground and touching off yet another municipal controversy.

Public Works Commissioner refused to open the garage roof to parking as a safety measure despite pleas of the Chamber of Commerce that merchants would lose $1 million in Christmas business if it remained closed. The roof was quietly opened shortly after Thanksgiving.

Fortunately, the holiday shopping season was rescued when a new state law permitted stores to stay open between 12 noon and 5 p.m. on the four Sundays preceding Christmas. Most Quincy stores took advantage of the opportunity.

Shipbuilding Workers Local 5 struck the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard for the second time in three years in a walkout of 5,000 workers that lasted nearly three months.

"We are shooting for wage parity with all East Coast shipyards," said Local 5 President Stanley Kyller.

Twenty-six persons were arrested and two policemen were treated at Quincy City Hospital as violence erupted on the picket line on the first day of the strike.

The contract dispute was finally settled through the efforts of former Labor Secretary William J. Usery Jr., whose mediation also brought an end to the 17-week strike at the Yard in 1974.

A proposal by Messina Enterprises of Braintree to build a $5 million shopping plaza on the site of the old Squantum Naval Air Station was stalled when the Board of Zoning Appeals turned down a special permit for access to Quincy Shore Drive.

A plan by Carabetta

Called "Marina Landing", it would include parking space for 4,531 cars, recreational facilities, a boatel and housing for the elderly built around Ron Courville's Boston Harbor Marina.

And a plan advanced by the Boston Celtics to build a $35 million, 20,000-seat arena on land owned by State Street South in Montclair was shot down by the City Council, the Mayor and nearby residents.

"That land is too valuable to devote to circus clowns and basketball players," said Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., a remark that was listed among the "Quotes of the Week" by the nationally circulated weekly paper, the Sporting News.

Troopman John R. Tocchio, president of the Quincy Police Betterment Association, was placed on probation for a year and resigned from the force after he admitted taking $26,000 in association funds to satisfy his gambling urge. He made restitution.

County Commissioner George B. McDonald, former Quincy city councillor, was dismissed from his MDC post as storekeeper at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Facility for "neglecting to perform his duties."

McDonald's attorney said McDonald's firing was "an attempt at a coverup by certain persons in the MDC." He said Commissioner John Snedeker "is trying to cover his coattails."

Meanwhile the long controversy surrounding expansion of the Nut Island plant apparently was resolved when Gov. Dukakis signed a measure that would prevent the MDC from filling in 26 acres of Quincy Bay.

The Retired Seniors Volunteer Program (RSVP) was removed from sponsorship by the Quincy Council on Aging and placed under the aegis of Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc.

Donald Wright, director of ACTION, the agency through which federal funds are channeled to RSVP, said the Council was dropped as sponsor because of internal management problems and failure to operate under procedures specified by ACTION.

Teresa Jean McElaney, 17, a tall brunette from Weymouth, was chosen Miss Quincy Bay from a field of 17 contestants. She expressed "total shock" when she heard her name called.

Three turn of the year snow storms wiped out Quincy's $118,588 snow removal budget in a matter of hours. The total bill for the season, according to Commissioner Anderson, came to $555,000.

Charles N. Ross, son of former Mayor Charles A. Ross, retired as assistant registrar of deeds for Norfolk County to enter private law practice.

Mrs. Robert Day was elected the first woman chairman of the corporation of the Covenant Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

Jeffrey Magnell, 20, of Quincy was one of the lucky few soldiers to survive the crash of a DC9 military plane in New Hope, Ga.

Milton's moved its store from Hancock St. to South Shore Plaza after 30 years in downtown Quincy and Quincy merchants named a task force to help find a quality replacement.

Stiff new rules were drawn up for students in the Quincy school system after 18 of them were arrested on drug charges following a three-month police investigation.

Quincy Heritage, which was organized in May, 1974, to promote the 350th anniversary of the settlement of Mount Wollaston and the American Bicentennial, wound up its affairs with a luncheon at the Quincy Vo Tech School restaurant.

Paul E. Hurley was elected president of the Quincy YMCA.

The City Council, urged on by Councillor Leo J. Kelly, passed an ordinance that would enable the city to ban outsiders from digging clams in Quincy beds.

A grand total of 1,127 seniors were graduated from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and the Vo Tech School in ceremonies at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Andrew Klein was named to succeed Robert Verge as chief probation officer at the Quincy District Court.

The Public Works Department received bids for the installation of a fire alarm system in the Adams Birthplaces on Franklin St., South Quincy, the culmination of a campaign by City Councillor Paul D. Harold.

The annual Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, headquartered locally in the offices of The Quincy Sun, netted $34,651 in pledges and $3,737 in cash in a fishbowl.

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, toured the historic sights of Quincy and was presented a wooden cross carved from the old belfry of United First Parish Church as a souvenir.

John Quincy Adams, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. and a sixth generation descendant, was the main speaker at the unveiling of a statue of John Adams in Freedom Park.

Eric M. Swider resigned as executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce to take the $50,000 a year post as president of the New England Council for Economic Development.

Kennedy Sees Revival In Navy Shipbuilding would be designated "Quincy Adams".

Quincy High School's Marching Presidents won the state high school marching band competition in the Christmas Festival Parade but turned down a second prize - a trip to the 1979 Cotton Bowl parade in Dallas, Texas.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy [D-Mass], on what is becoming an annual visit to The Quincy Sun, predicted a revival in shipbuilding for the U.S. Navy.

U.S. Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton], 67, underwent surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital for amputation of his right foot to arrest a diabetic condition and a number of people began sounding like candidates.

Atty. Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph, who lost to Burke in the Democratic primary in 1976, was holding fund-raisers and sending out newsletters to his old supporters.

Rep. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston], announced that as long as his good friend, Sen. Joseph F. Timity [D-Boston], would rather be Mayor of Boston he wouldn't mind taking a shot at Burke's seat himself.

And, in December, City Councillor and Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] sent out a letter to his Ward 4 constituents asking if they thought he should make the run. He promised an announcement in January.

In the wings stood former Mayor and Sen. James R. McIntyre, who had been quietly harboring ambitions of succeeding Burke someday himself.

Mayor LaRaia and his planning director, L. Norman Lundin, revealed a massive $300 million, 15-year plan for the revitalization of downtown Quincy, including demolition and reconstruction of almost half of Quincy Center.

Major points in the master plan included a new highway through the center of the city from Granite St. to McGrath Highway, an international merchandise mart, a high rise motel topped by a restaurant, and a high rise office building.

Reaction to the five phase plan by the downtown business community was mixed.

Most said it was good to see that someone in authority had recognized the need for revitalization and they called Phase 1 [the highway, a new major retail store and 900 more parking spaces] a good idea.

But the merchants also thought that the later phases might be a little too ambitious and they agreed that the key question was: Where is the money to come from?

Trustees of Eastern Nazarene College voted to sell the 15-acre campus in Wollaston and move the entire college to a 125-acre site in Newtown Square, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia.

Academic Dean Donald Young said:

"We are at a point where we put in every new building with a shoehorn. We are impacted by a residential neighborhood. There is a very real question about our ability to grow physically."

He also said that the Wollaston campus is far from the demographic center of the Church of the Nazarene's eastern district and "a new school in Ohio is bleeding away our Pennsylvania students."

Eastern Nazarene officials said the school does not want to leave Quincy and Gov. Michael S. Dukakis made a special trip to a trustees meeting to pledge state aid in helping it to remain.

ENC Hopes To Stay, Death Takes Prominent Residents

At year's end, the Newtown Square property was no longer on the market but Eastern Nazarene was still going ahead with plans to leave if a solution to its growth problems is not found.

Enrollment in the Quincy School system went down for the sixth straight year — from a high of 17,080 in 1971 to 14,260, the lowest enrollment in 20 years.

But school costs continued to rise, with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon proposing a $28.8 million budget, up 1.4 per cent, some 90 per cent of it in salaries, energy costs and state-mandated programs.

Creedon also disclosed that the School Department was conducting a study that could result in the closing of three or four elementary schools. Likely candidates were Cranch, Great Hill and Hunting Schools, all well under 250 in enrollments.

MBTA Chairman Robert Kiley signed a memorandum of understanding with the city to open the way for depression of the Red Line tracks between Granite and School Sts. in Quincy Center.

The City Council appropriated $500,000 to pay for design, demolition of old walls and construction of new ones, sharing 50-50 with the MBTA the costs of the project in excess of the $6 million federal grant.

President Charles L. Ryder of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, in a letter to Gov. Dukakis, called depression of the tracks "the single most important issue affecting the revitalization and future of our city."

Quincy Politics on the state level was thrown into confusion when the new redistricting plan for the State House, devised by Rep. George Keverian [D-Everett], reduced Quincy's representation from 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 state reps.

Reps. James A. Sheets and Michael W. Morrissey [both D-Quincy] were placed in the same district and Rep. Robert Cerasoli's Quincy-Weymouth district was juggled so as to place him in confrontation with Rep. Mark Fitzsimmons [D-Weymouth].

Later in the year, however, the situation was eased when Sheets indicated he may pass up a bid for re-election to run for Congress and Fitzsimmons moved his voting residence into an adjoining district.

Councillor Sheets, following a long investigation of the city dump in West Quincy, concluded that the city had lost more than $1.5 million due to unauthorized dumping over the past four years.

He called for rigid controls over dumping, including increased dump fees and registration of locally owned rollofs.

The federal government approved a $2.44 million grant for an annex to be built on the parking lot in back of the 133-year-old City Hall.

Councillor Harold proposed a Finance Commission to watch over money matters in Quincy but the City Council, pointing to the Boston Fin Com, rejected the idea.

"Boston is the only city in the Commonwealth that can't even manage its own fiscal affairs," said Council President Tobin.

NECROLOGY — Mrs. Charles A. Ross, 95, widow of the former mayor of Quincy.

M. Joseph Sweeney, 69, president of Sweeney Funeral Service, Inc.

Judge Kenneth Nash, 88, justice of Quincy District Court for 52 years until his retirement. The main courtroom in the courthouse on Chestnut St., was renamed in his honor.

George H. Bonsall, 82, retired president of the Quincy Savings Bank.

Roland [Pop] Josselyn, 93, the grand old man of Houghs Neck.

Harry E. Rodgers, 87, widely known Wollaston musician and Masonic organizer.

Joseph H. Tobin, 64, one of the founders of Radio Station WJDA.

One of the most popular customer services offered by the main office of the Quincy Cooperative Bank is our walk-up teller area for off-hour banking. We started this feature with a single teller and two years ago, we had to add a second window.

WALK-UP WINDOWS

Now, because of the growing popularity of the walk-up service, we have had to add a third window. The opening of this third window should relieve any congestion previously found at the walk-up.

This service opens at 7 A.M. and continues until 9 A.M. when the main bank opens. As the main bank closes at 3 P.M. we reopen the walk-up until 6 P.M. at night. Our customers are under cover, in an area heated in the winter and air-conditioned in the summer. We hope our new three window service meets your expectations, and ours for improved Quincy Square banking. Of course, if you have any suggestions to better this off-hour service, let us know. After all, customer convenience is first in our mind. And we all know ...

Collins: Discipline Should Be Same In All Schools

very involved in the schools for the past four or five years. I don't think I've missed more than five meetings in 4 1/2 years. I served on the task force that studied the double sessions in the high schools and I felt if I was going to put that much time into it I might as well have a vote.

SUN: There was no specific thing that made you run?

COLLINS: No.
SUN: Were you unhappy with the way things were going in the schools?

COLLINS: No. Not at all. I think we have a very good School Committee. I think we've always had a good School Committee. But I think I can put a little more time into it than some people have been able to do.

SUN: Won't it be difficult raising four kids and serving on the School Committee?

COLLINS: No. The three oldest are in school and Timothy is in nursery school until nighttime. And my husband is very understanding. He's here in the evening if I have a meeting to go to so the children won't be left alone.

SUN: You were the biggest vote-getter among School Committee candidates. Why?

COLLINS: This is going to be very blunt. I think that I worked the hardest. I worked the longest. I know that I was out there when other candidates weren't. I think the campaign finished exactly the way we worked. I was out at supermarkets all summer long and knocking on doors and I didn't really hear about anyone else until after the primary.

SUN: Was it all hard work? No philosophical differences?

COLLINS: No. It was a very pleasant campaign. The only thing that disturbed me was that there was so much emphasis on the Mayor's race that the School Committee sort of took a back seat. I was out there working so hard and I just wasn't getting any feed back, especially when we didn't have a primary. But I don't think I would have changed anything. I did everything I could possibly have done. I don't think having a primary would have changed it too much. I would have done exactly the same.

SUN: Do you feel that you and Joan Picard won or that Frank Anselmo and Charlie Sweeney lost?

COLLINS: I respect the School Committee. They're all very good. I think the reason Frank Anselmo and Charlie Sweeney did not win is because they did not work. I love Charlie Sweeney and I love Frank Anselmo both dearly but I know they didn't work. I think if they did get out it would have been a little different.

SUN: You didn't detect any anti-Anselmo or anti-Sweeney feeling among the voters?

COLLINS: No. People just said it's time for a change and they did think that a woman would have more time to devote to it and she's closer to the situation. I think they can relate better to a woman than they can to a man because they feel women are sort of on top of the situation.

[This is the fifth and final article in a series of in-depth interviews with the newly elected officials of Quincy, including their backgrounds and philosophies.]

SUN: Were there any issues in the campaign?

COLLINS: Well, there wasn't anything specific. People are very concerned with the School budget. The majority of the people in the city do not have children in the school system. The older people are concerned with taxes. Also, discipline was an issue.

SUN: Discipline?

COLLINS: Yes, they didn't feel that they were strict enough with the students. They think they're a little bit too liberal when it comes to telling them what they should do and where they should go. The thing that disturbed me was seeing how the discipline is handled differently at the different schools. I feel that if you have a child that cuts a class or plays hooky he should be treated the same at Quincy High School or at North Quincy High or at Atlantic Junior High. From what I have heard it really isn't.

SUN: Do you think of your ideas as old-fashioned or quite modern?

COLLINS: I think I'm sort of in the middle. I don't think it should be the way it was when I went to school. I know that I did not enjoy school as much as my children do. We should have a little of the old and a little of the new.

SUN: What would you like to see of the old and the new?

COLLINS: Well, I know when I went to school we had more homework. I think that's good. But it's better environment now. Instead of lining them up in rows and having them put their hands up to talk like we did. I think they feel better. If they enjoy school they're going to learn more.

SUN: How do you feel about fiscal autonomy?

COLLINS: I'm a firm believer in fiscal autonomy.

SUN: Why?

COLLINS: Because that's the reason we have a School Committee. We're responsible for the school budget, for cutting it, for keeping the tax rate low. But we're also responsible to the children to make sure they get a good education. That's one of the most important things we do with our tax money, molding the future of our country.

SUN: Do you feel fiscal autonomy is working well?

COLLINS: I think it is. I know a lot of the city councillors would love to have a chance at cutting the school budget. But I feel they were elected for a different reason. They're responsible for many departments in the city, public works and things like that. I think the schools are a lot more important. If the city councillors attended the budget session for the school budget, maybe they'd be less apt to complain.

SUN: Half the elected members of the School Committee are now women. Is that good, bad or indifferent?

COLLINS: I think it's good. As I said before I think women will take a more active part in the School Committee. I'm not criticizing the men because I realize that they have responsibilities. They hold jobs in the daytime and they don't have as much time to find out what's going on.

SUN: Do you find anything wrong with the school system at all?

COLLINS: Sure. The curriculum disturbs me a little bit. We have one curriculum for the Quincy public schools. But I find that it varies tremendously from school to school. Talking to parents, I'd hear, "Gee, my son did a lot of writing in the sixth grade." Then you talk to another parent and she says, "Oh, my kid never even wrote a composition." The School Committee approved this curriculum and I think it's our responsibility to see that it's carried out.

SUN: How do you feel about the job that Dr. Crendon has done as superintendent?

COLLINS: I think he's done a very good job. I know people say that the School Committee is a rubber stamp of the administration. I said during my campaign that I would not be a rubber stamp because people automatically asked me about that. They feel that if you agree with him you're going to be a rubber stamp. I don't agree with that. In the last month, the School Committee has invited us to sit in on the meetings as observers. The superintendent has sent us the agendas. He gives us so much background information. Joan Picard said that she doesn't think there's enough discussion but I think the reason is that you get enough background information beforehand.

SUN: Doesn't discussion bring out more information for the public?

COLLINS: I don't agree. I've been sitting in the audience for four years and there were very few times that I felt there wasn't enough discussion. The only criticism I've had about the School Committee was at budget time. I think the $32 million budget went through awfully fast. I don't think they asked as many questions as they should have.

SUN: Will you?

COLLINS: Definitely. It's going to take twice as long, I think, to go through the budget this year.

SUN: Joan Picard thinks Dr. Crendon is overpaid. Do you?

COLLINS: I think he's worth every penny he makes. But I don't think the job of superintendent in Quincy is worth $50,000. When you compare it to Boston, he doesn't have half the headaches that Marion Fahey has and she's only making $4,000 or $5,000 more than he is. I would take a hard look at any future raises for him. But I want to emphasize that I think he earns every penny he makes. I think anyone who is running a $32 million business in private business would be making a lot more than $50,000.

SUN: You ran for State Rep. once and now you're a school committeewoman. What's next?

COLLINS: I haven't even been sworn in on the School Committee yet. I have four years and I'm just going to work hard at being a good school committeewoman. I don't have any other plans.

SUN: Some people use the School Committee as a stepping stone to higher office. Would you like to be a city councillor?

COLLINS: I don't think it's a stepping stone to the City Council. The only position in the city that would be a step up would be Mayor.

SUN: Would you like to be the first lady mayor?

COLLINS: No, I don't think so.

SUN: Why not?

COLLINS: Well, not right now. I think there may be a woman elected mayor before I decide that I'd like to be mayor.

SUN: One of the first things you'll have to do is select a successor to Frank McCauley. Do you have anyone in mind?

COLLINS: I do have a person in mind.

SUN: Who?

COLLINS: I'd rather not say right now but he's someone who has run for School Committee.

SUN: There are those who feel that the results of the election showed a desire for new blood on the School Committee. Why wouldn't you consider someone entirely new?

COLLINS: Because that person didn't run. I know how hard I had to work for the last nine months. Charlie and Frank and Tom Mullaney all took out nomination papers and ran. I've met a couple of people who said they are interested and I think they'd be very good people but I would prefer to pick someone who ran.

SUN: How does your husband feel about the possibility of becoming Mr. Mary Collins?

COLLINS: It won't happen. He's Mr. Tom Collins and I'm Mrs. Mary Collins.

SUN: How does he feel about you being on the School Committee?

COLLINS: He's happy. He knows it's something I've wanted for a long time. He didn't discourage me two years ago but he didn't encourage me either. I think he thought maybe it's something that she'll forget in time. But this time he realized that I really wanted it and he was behind me 100 percent. He really worked hard.

SUN: You say it's Mrs. Collins. Why not Ms. Collins?

COLLINS: Because I'm Mrs. SUN: You're also a woman in public life. Isn't that supposed to be the goal of today's liberated woman?

COLLINS: I'm liberated. I don't feel I have to have the Ms. attached to my name to let people know it.

North Seeks 3rd Win, Quincy Off To Slow Start

North Quincy's basketball team sought its third win in four starts Wednesday night at Milton, while Quincy, winless in four games, hoped to get its elusive first win Tuesday in a Christmas tourney at Hingham.

Friday, North will host Brockton in a Suburban League game at Vo-Tech gym while Quincy plays at Brookline. Tuesday, Quincy faced a new opponent at Franklin and Wednesday, North will be home to Cambridge Rindge and Latin at Vo-Tech.

Eddie Miller's North team bounced back from an opening night 52-39 loss to Abp. Williams to defeat Quincy, 42-31, with an outstanding defensive effort, and top Brookline, 62-45.

Against Brookline the Raiders outscored their opponents, 18-6, in the second period after falling behind, 14-12, in the opening session.

Joe Deane scored 17 points and Steve Germain 16 for North, while Pete Johnston had seven rebounds and Kevin Cobban eight assists.

North shut Quincy out in the first period as it rolled to a 10-0 lead but had to halt a Quincy rally which moved it to within five points with two minutes left.

For North, Deane had 17 points, Johnston 10 and Wink Phelan was outstanding on defense.

A poor second period ruined the Raiders in their opener as Williams outscored them, 13-3, over the final three minutes of the half to take a 27-17 halftime lead.

North had no one in double figures as Kurt O'Sullivan had nine points and Phelan eight.

Quincy has fallen behind in most of its games and staged great rallies to move within a few points but has always fallen short.

In its latest start last week Quincy followed the same pattern as it bowed to undefeated Weymouth South, 62-56. The Presidents were at a decided height disadvantage and this played a large part in the defeat.

Ken Ames paced Quincy with 17 points and John Connolly had 15, as Coach Joe Amoroso saw marked improvement and hope for the future.

"When you hold a team to 43 points, you should be able to win, but our offense has been a problem," Amoroso said after the loss to North Quincy.

Connolly was the high scorer with 10 points and was the only player in double figures.

Quincy had opened its season by losing both its games in the holiday tournament at Silver Lake but Amoroso was pleased with the fine comebacks the Presidents made in both games.

In their opener the Presidents lost to Plymouth-Carver, the tourney winner, 68-63, after falling behind, 18-2. Again height was the big problem as 6-7 Charlie Gilmore sparked the Blue Eagles.

Ron Donovan had an outstanding night for Quincy as he scored 17 points and earned the plaudits of his coach, who said, "Ron had one of the finest individual efforts at both ends of the floor that I've ever seen, and Connolly also played very well."

In the consolation game, Quincy lost to Silver Lake, 58-53, again rallying to make the game close.

Connolly had 17 points and Ames had 13.

Quincy, North Girls' Track Teams Bow

The Quincy and North Quincy girls' track teams were defeated in Suburban League meets last week, the First Ladies losing to Weymouth North, 57-20, and the Raiderettes bowing to Brockton, 52-25.

Weymouth North was paced by Bodil Wahlstedt, a 16-year-old exchange student from Sweden. Quincy had only two winners, Donna Reardon in the mile and Lois Gugliemil in the 300.

North Quincy's winners were Eileen McKenna in the hurdles and Marilyn McKenzie in the high jump. She also was third in the hurdles.

Betsy Johnson was second in the mile and Joanne Clark was second in the 300. Both turned in their best times.

North is 1-1 and Quincy 0-1. Today (Thursday) North Quincy faces Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Quincy meets Brockton at 10 a.m. at Brookline High, where all league meets are held.

HIGH NOTES — Steve Marinelli, former North Quincy High and Cushing Academy player, is expected to see a lot of action this year for the Elon College basketball team. Steve saw a good deal of service in a 107-71 win over the Scotland International team. The Chiefs hope to improve on last year's 10-14 record when a series of injuries hit the team after compiling a 9-3 mark.

Rebuilding Year For North Wrestlers

North Quincy's wrestling team last year enjoyed an excellent 14-6 record and made a good showing in the state tournament.

Most of that squad graduated, however, and new coach Steve Joyce faces a rebuilding year.

The squad is led by Tri-Captains D Beck (105 pounds), Butch Montoya (134) and Ed Evans (167), all of whom scored well a year ago.

"We have a young squad and we have the disadvantage of having no one in the 107-pound class, thus giving up six points even before we begin a match," Joyce said. "The boys are enthusiastic and I hope we will do reasonably well. We have a tough 16-match schedule with all our home meets at night at the Quincy Army."

juniors Dave Crowley and Kurt Braun and sophomores John Coughlin and John McNamara are in at 147, sophomore John Gorkczyca is the 157-pound hope. Evanston is at 167, senior John McKillop wrestles at 188 and a promising newcomer, junior Pat Ahern is the heavyweight.

The Raiders made a strong showing in their opening match last week before bowing to Marshfield, 39-30. The Montoya brothers, Evanston and McKillop won by pins and Beck won by forfeit.

North dropped a 35-26 decision to Bridgewater-Raynham as Sweet battled to a 4-4 draw. Sonny Montoya won a 7-5 decision, Butch Montoya pinned his opponent, Smith won a 9-4 decision and Evanston won by a pin. Beck again won by forfeit.

The Raiders followed up with their first win, a 41-22 decision over Cohasset. Beck, Smith, Sonny Montoya, Gorkczyca won by pins, Evanston won by a 24-1 decision and Butch Montoya and Coughlin won by forfeit.

Friday, North will wrestle at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:15 in a league meet.

ENC Girls Win 3rd In Row

The Eastern Nazarene College women's basketball team, coached by former ENC and North Quincy High star Don Constantine, is off to a speedy start with a 3-0 record and will resume its schedule Jan. 10, with a 6 p.m. home game against Harvard.

In their opener, the Crusaderettes avenged their only regular season loss of last year, defeating Wheaton College, 67-49. Freshman Kristi Kottis led the scorers with 22 points and sophomore Janet Ranstrom had 12 assists.

The ENC women then topped Brandeis, 61-53, in a game not as close as the score would indicate. Kottis and senior captain Donna Fandel shared scoring honors with 12 points each.

The Crusaderettes made it 3-0 with a 58-49 decision over Barrington, R.I. College as every member of the squad played.

As was the case with the state champion volleyball team, the ENC squad features local talent. Starters are Fandel, Lois Malvesti and Cindy Tozzi, all of Quincy; Kottis of Randolph and Ranstrom of North Weymouth.

A game of good ball movement, led by playmaker Ranstrom, aggressive defense and domination of the boards by Fandel, Malvesti and Kottis, have led to the Crusaderettes' 3-0 record.

Tozzi, Raiders Face Big Challenge

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy track Coach Lou Tozzi faces the biggest challenge of his coaching career as the Raiders start their fourth season in the Suburban League, probably the strongest in Eastern Massachusetts.

Tozzi's teams have an impressive 29-6-2 record in the league and won the last two indoor state meets in their class.

However, most of the top athletes were lost through graduation and Tozzi sees the necessity of some major surprises if his team hopes to win seven meets.

"It is simply impossible to replace quality people like Jerry MacKenzie, Mike Morin, Dick Kennedy, Matty King and the Levenson brothers," Tozzi said. "These people scored an astounding 56 points in the last two state championships."

"However, we do have some quality people back, people we expect to rise to the occasion with what we call North track pride, and keep our winning tradition alive. Overall, we are extremely inexperienced with only six seniors among our top scorers. In fact, this is our most inexperienced squad since my first year here in 1973-74 in the Greater Boston League. We, therefore, don't expect our top performances until the middle of January, when we mature and begin to develop some meet experience."

North, now by far the smallest school in the league, has a number of problems, double sessions, a small turnout (Tozzi has no sophomores coming up from Atlantic Junior High) and being in what is generally rated the strongest league in Eastern Mass. Tozzi sees Brockton, Newton, Weymouth South, Cambridge Rindge-Latin, and Waltham as the toughest teams. North lacks depth in the dash and 300 but has three good athletes, Riss Chisholm and John Pawell, three-year veterans, and junior Tim O'Neill, last winter's leading scorer.

The hurdles are a question mark with junior Dan McIntyre leading the way, backed up by sophomore Bob Biagini, who has great promise, and Bob Ferrara.

North was completely wiped out by graduation in the middle distances, a perennial strong point for the Raiders. The top hopes are Tom Fennessey, a hard working senior, and John McGuigan, a junior newcomer who looks good. Veterans Rich Schaezel, Tom Kane and John O'Hare are other hopefuls.

Mike Gallagher should be one of the best in the state in the shot put. He was fourth in last year's state meet. Senior Mike Larsen, much improved with an excellent attitude, could be a big surprise, and Paul Ahern, Ted Koberski and Pat McKenna are other good prospects.

As usual, the distances will be among North's strongest events with Mike Barrett and John Saville, who could be among the best in the state. Barrett ran a 9:52 two-mile last winter and Saville, a transfer from Quincy, was one of the best around last year.

Junior Paul McCormick, who keeps improving, John Ricciuti, a three-year veteran, veteran Dave Abbott and impressive sophomore Mike Ricciuti round out the distance runners.

O'Neill is the only one certain in the relay, while O'Neill and Ferrara are fine high jumpers. Tozzi expects Ferrara to challenge for the school record.

Rounding out the squad are newcomers Pat Carroll, Tom Pawell, John Casey, Michael Linehan, Jim Alban, John Barrett and Mike Hatfield.

Tozzi's hopes were given a lift last week when the Raiders outclassed Boston English and Hyde Park in a non-league tri-meet at the Commonwealth Armory.

North compiled 67 points to 21 for English and only nine for Hyde Park.

The Raiders won every event except the 300 and relay. Chisholm won the dash, Fennessey the 600, Saville the 1000, Barrett the mile, McCormick the two-mile, McIntyre the hurdles, Ferrara the high jump and Gallagher the shot put.

Friday it appeared Tozzi was too pessimistic when his Raiders easily defeated Waltham, 58-28, in their Suburban League opener.

Gallagher set a school record in winning the shot put with a toss of 52-3/4. O'Neill won the 300, Chisholm the dash, Barrett the 1000, Saville the mile, McIntyre the hurdles, Ferrara the high jump and the relay team of McIntyre, Barrett, McGuigan and O'Neill also won.

A week ago both North and Quincy ran up against Suburban League powers and were handed one-sided defeats.

The Raiders absorbed one of their worst losses in some time, 62-24, at the hands of Brockton. Gallagher broke his own shot put record with a toss of 53-4/4.

Saville and Barrett finished the two mile together with their best time of the season, 9:48.2, and Dan McIntyre led a sweep in the low hurdles with a 6.8 clocking. Brockton won every other event.

Quincy, under new coaches Bill Maver and Joe Goguen, dropped its opener to Weymouth North, 65-21. Kevin Murphy in the dash and Mark Assad in the shot put being the only winners for the Presidents, who lack depth this season.

Friday, North Quincy faces Weymouth North and Quincy takes on Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 10 o'clock at Newton North High.

Cheney A Key In Xaverian's Season

The Xaverian High School basketball team of Westwood appears to have its most talented squad in two years and one of the key players for the Hawks is senior captain John Cheney of Quincy.

Cheney is a 6-3 forward who poses the biggest threat to the opposition. In an opening night 46-40 win over Canton the Quincy star scored 18 points.

His tremendous boxing out ability makes him a terror on both boards and his defensive alertness makes no pass in his area a safe one. He is an outstanding rebounder and looms as the team's top scorer.

Cheney is an excellent all-around athlete and this fall was an all-scholastic end. "John was our most consistent performer," football coach George McCabe said. "He was the premier end in the Catholic Conference."

Cheney had 37 pass receptions for 522 yards, his biggest game coming against Cambridge Rindge and Latin when he caught seven passes and scored a touchdown. Defensively he made 57 tackles and recovered three fumbles.

A member of the National Honor Society for his academic achievements, he is president of the senior class. He plans to attend an Ivy League school and hopes to study medicine.

Elks Present 'Involvement Awards'

"Involvement Awards" were presented to all members of the baseball, hockey and football teams sponsored by the Quincy Lodge of Elks at a Sports Night dinner held at the lodge.

James E. Rendle, director of youth activities for the Quincy Elks, told the 120 players and their parents at the dinner the awards were given in recognition of the interest and involvement the boys showed in developing their athletic skills and team spirit.

Paul J. Mahoney, chairman of the Quincy Youth Committee and president of Survival, Inc., was the guest speaker. He spoke on drugs and their abuse and urged his audience to forego use of narcotics and get to know their own potential and how to work towards achievement.

Edward Cahill and Rendle were masters of ceremonies.

Rendle, Elks committee chairman, Stephen Pecovich, Fred Palmer, William O'Malley, Robert Dubois, Michael Crowley, Paul Schnetzl and Assistant Coach Michael Healy.

Quincy Dominates Track Club Winter Opener

The Quincy Track Club opened its winter season recently with many outstanding performances at Franklin High School.

Quincy dominated the NEAAU-sponsored meet.

In the 13-and-under girls mile, Sheila Barrett won in her best time of 6:02.8. Linda Kennedy and Michelle Millane were second and third to complete the sweep. In the boys' division mile Brian Garrity placed third.

In the 13-and-under girls' 440, Karen Lindenfelzer was second with Barrett third. In boys' action Kevin Wood won with his best time, 62.8.

In the 50-yard dash five Quincy girls reached the finals, with Denise Santo setting a record of 6.3, Penny Sawyer placing second in 6.5.

In the high jump Kevin Wood won at 4-10 while Kara Crehan won in the girls' division.

In the open division, Mary Crehan won the mile in 5:59 and the two-mile in 12:15. Donna Reardon took second in both events.

Linda Morash took second in the 880 and Michelle Millane, although only 13, placed second in the women's shot with a toss of 30.4.

In men's hurdles Jeff Hennessy, Quincy's coach, won with his best time of 6.0.

Any club members interested in attending meets this winter should call Hennessy at 472-5537.

JUNIOR SPORTS SPOTLIGHT

Central Wallops Broad Meadows For 5th Straight

By WALTER MCCARTHY

Mike Casale's Central Junior High varsity basketball team remained undefeated by walloping Broad Meadows, 53-28, at the Broad Meadows gym.

Mark Millane of Central led all scorers with 28 points. Paul Mallory had eight and Kenny Mann five. Dave Grindle was high for BM with 12 points and Ron Drew had 10.

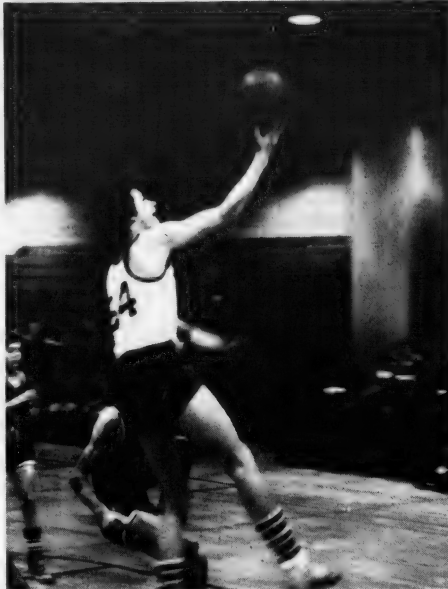

Atlantic-North played its first home game last Thursday and came up with an impressive 40-23 win over Broad Meadows. Victor O'Leary scored 10 points and was outstanding on the boards. Charlie Cahill matched him with 10 and Peter McDonough and Willy Dudley had eight each. John Cascarano and Dave Grindle of Meadows had six points and Eddie Powers five.

In junior varsity action Broad Meadows knocked Central from the unbeaten ranks with a 26-22 win. Jeff Morrison had 16 points, Paul Novin and Steve Spencer four each. For Central, Brian Reale had eight points and Paul Mallory five.

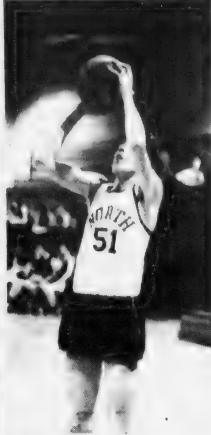

Atlantic traveled to Point and took home a 32-20 win. Paul Murphy scored 11 points, Charlie Bunker had eight and Billy Gray had seven. Dave Donnelly scored eight for Point, Javier Perez had four and Steve Goguen and Keith McNulty three each.

In Atlantic's home opener it appeared as though Broad Meadows was going to run away with the game as it rolled to a 20-8 lead in the third period. At this point Atlantic Coach Bill Willoughby made some key changes and slowly the score began to narrow. Atlantic came on to win 26-24.

Pat King led Atlantic with nine points, Gray had eight, Paul Murphy six and Jim White two. Jeff Morrison was high for Meadows with 15 points, Tommy O'Connor had four and Jim DePietro three.

Defeat Braintree

Quincy Matmen In Lowell Tourney

The Quincy High wrestling team, with two wins and a tie in its first three meets, will compete in a Christmas Tournament at Lowell today (Thursday) and next Wednesday will be at Marshfield for a 6 p.m. meet.

In their latest meet, the Presidents easily defeated Braintree, 43-11.

The Presidents' winners were Martin Doyle, decision, 107 pounds; Steve Notarangelo, superior decision, 114; Dan Madden, decision, 121; Jim Venturilli, pin, 128; Jim Mullarkey, decision, 134; Steve Venturilli, pin, 140; Steve Picot, decision, 169; Len Picot, pin, 187, and Geoff Caflich, pin, heavyweight. Paul Orlando went to a draw in the 100-pound class. In its previous meet, a Suburban League opener, Quincy was the victim of a mild upset as it was held to a 29-29 tie by Weymouth North.

Notarangelo won by decision, Madden by decision, Lou Venturilli by decision, Don Heath by a pin at 157, and Len Picot by pin. Rennie Crowe went to a draw in the 140-pound class.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents had opened the season with a bang as they completely overwhelmed Randolph, 65-0.

John Fitzgerald, Kevin McCarthy, Madden, Lou Venturilli, Steve Venturilli, Crowe, Heath and Steve Picot won by pins, Mullarkey, John Shea and Len Picot by decision and Tony Akoury for forfeit.

Quincy, North Icemen To Clash At Youth Arena

Quincy's hockey team, with prospects of a fine season, opened its season with a 3-2 win over Brookline and were scheduled to play yesterday (Wednesday) at Newton.

Saturday the Presidents will face arch-rival North Quincy in a 3:10 game at the Youth Arena.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team, which had a bye last Saturday, fell behind Brookline, 1-0, late in the first period, but Brian Bertoni tied it early in the second period with Brian Jolley assisting. Mark Giordani put the Presidents ahead with assists for Tom Cahill and Pat Bamberg but Brookline tied it up.

Sophomore Robbie Craig scored the winner early in the third period as Jack Campbell and

Goalies Jim Deitsch and Jim Campbell had 36 saves. Sylvia lauded the defense, especially Gulizia, Jolley, Mike Furey and Bamberg.

Meanwhile, Ron Erikson's North Quincy team, following two non-league wins, dropped both its league starts, 4-2 to Waltham and 3-1 to Brockton. Yesterday the Raiders hosted Weymouth North.

Against Waltham Mike Pitts had two third period goals but they weren't enough. Tom Pistorino, Mike Marrella and Jim Moore assisted.

Pitts had the only goal Saturday against Brockton.

Sports Highlights

SPORTS DEPT. -- Quincy lambasted North Quincy, 34-8, in the annual Thanksgiving Day football game, which marked the farewell appearance of Hank Conroy who was retiring after 14 years as coach of the Presidents.

Both Quincy high schools made the Eastern Mass basketball tournament and both bowed out at the hands of Framingham South, North by a score of 60-52, and Quincy by a 79-59 count.

Quincy's 6-foot-6 center, Jack Uhlar, wound up his career with 1,011 points by collecting 33 against Framingham South.

The Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team won the Zone 6 title for the third year in a row, then beat Taunton for the South Sectional crown but bowed to Pittsfield in the state tournament.

Quincy's first professional basketball team, the Chiefs, were granted a franchise in the Eastern Basketball Association, which also included a team in Anchorage, Alaska.

Raiderettes Inexperienced But Optimistic

Despite a 45-26 loss to rival Quincy in its opener, North Quincy girls' basketball coach Brian Tilley hopes his inexperienced team will improve as the season progresses and has a winning season.

Tilley has only three veterans in his lineup and expects trouble early in the season.

Tilley lost 10 of last year's players by graduation but, despite the Raiderettes' inexperience, he admitted he is looking forward to the season.

"The foundation for this year's team comes from 11 juniors and 12 sophomores," Tilley said. "I am pleased to see so many good young players out for the team. For the first time since I have coached, there will be three sophomores on the varsity squad."

"I know I have a young and mostly inexperienced team, but I am looking forward to the season. As always, the players are among the best students. They are fun to work with and teach. It is hard to predict the league standings because of the high quality of play. Returning state finalist Cambridge and semifinalist Weymouth North will be hard to beat. Weymouth South had an undefeated junior varsity, so we are in one of the strongest leagues again."

Debbie Belanger, Diane Graham and Karen Melanson.

The junior varsity squad includes senior Cheryl Miller, juniors Maureen Santry, Jane McGuigan and Betsy Hackett and sophomores Marianne Boness, Patricia Doherty, Denise Galewski, Karen Lyndon and Maureen Worley, all forwards, and juniors Lisa Venezia and Diane Kiley and sophs Judy Davis and Christine Collins, guards.

In the opener against Quincy Phyllis Germain played a strong game for the Raiderettes and scored 10 points. For Barbara "Master's" Quincy girls Karen Murphy had 17 points and 16 rebounds as the First Ladies dominated the boards. Paula Lynch added 11 and Janice Russo was outstanding at her guard position.

Wednesday the North girls will be at Cambridge at 3:15.

Open House Jan. 2 At YMCA Folmsbee Memorial Wing

The Quincy YMCA will host an Open House in the new Folmsbee Memorial Physical Wing Monday, Jan. 2, from 1 to 4 p.m.

The new facility which includes three four-wall racquetball-handball courts, indoor banked wooden running track, exercise area, and a fully-equipped olympic weightroom is nearing completion and will be available for full use on Tuesday, Jan. 3.

The YMCA will be open Monday, Jan. 2, from 1 to 4 p.m. and there will be demonstrations in racquetball and handball by some of the top players in New England, aerobic dancing, boxing, and wrestling.

Special tours will be available for the entire building including the New Physical facility.

All YMCA members and the general public are invited to attend.

Early Season Milestone

Crusaders Take Breather After 4th Straight Win

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, off to another fast start, finished its pre-holiday schedule with a 4-1 record and now is idle until Jan. 10, when it faces Roger Williams College in Providence.

The next home game is Jan. 13, when it hosts Barrington. Suffolk University, ranked third in Division III, comes to the ENC's LaHue Center on the 14th, followed by seventh-ranked Rhode Island College on Jan. 14. The Crusaders, under second-year coach Ron Bradley, himself a small college All-American at ENC, won four straight after a disappointing loss to UMass-Boston.

In their latest game, the Crusaders topped Barrington, 83-59, at Barrington, R.I. Barrington used a slow-down offense in the first half, keeping within three points of the Crusaders at the half, 33-30.

A combination of defensive adjustment and good execution on offense took ENC to an 18-point lead early in the second half and it costed the rest of the way.

Mike Barefoot, the team's top scorer, again led the way with 20 points, 12 coming in the second half.

In its previous game ENC had taken a 75-70 decision over Western New England College. The Crusaders pulled away to a 38-28 halftime lead and maintained the lead throughout most of the second half, but they had to hold off a late WNE rally.

Five players scored in double figures. Barefoot had 16 points, Jerry Perera had 14 points, 10 rebounds and eight assists, Rick Ward scored 13 and Pete Ribeiro scored 11 and had 12 rebounds.

Earlier the Wollaston team gained one of its big wins, 89-82 over 10th-ranked Curry College of Milton. It was Curry's first loss.

ENC led, 45-36, at the half and in the second half Jim Bryan scored 16 of his team-leading 26 points to push ENC ahead by 20 points.

Following the tough loss to UMass-Boston, the Crusaders had started their four-game win streak with a 73-70 decision over St. Francis of Maine as Ribeiro sparked the attack with 18 points.

Four crusaders are averaging in double figures, Barefoot, 16.2; Perera, 14.4; Ribeiro, 11.4 and Bryan, 10.6. Bryan and Barry Jones, both 6-5, are averaging seven rebounds a game, Perera is averaging 6.2 and Ribeiro six.

Quincy, North Swimmers Bow

Coach Bill Walker has his youngest swimming team at North Quincy which includes 12 ninth graders and three sophomores in addition to five juniors and a good nucleus of 10 seniors.

Despite the young team, Walker was pleased with the Raiders' showing in an opening loss to Brockton's powerhouse and looks forward to a good season.

Walker's seniors are Kevin Greene, Jim Stockless, Charles Williams, Fran McLaughlin, Co-Capt. Ed Boudreau, Thor Hellessted, Phil Golden, Larry Ouellette, Jay Leith and Keith Fontaine.

Sophomore Ed Melanson broke the school records in the 200 individual medley and the 100 butterfly and junior John Conley broke the record in the 50 freestyle.

The 200 medley relay team set a record with Conley, Melanson, Thor Helested and Kevin Greene. Greene won the diving and Helested was second in the 100 breaststroke. The freestyle relay team of Greene, Phil Golden, Jim Stockless and Jim Morris also won.

Judy Appleby's Quincy girls lost to Newton North, 94-55, despite two wins by senior Peter Sullivan, who took the 220 and 300-yard freestyles.

Senior Ed Fenby had a second in the 100 backstroke and a third in the 200 freestyle. George Duplain won the 50 freestyle and Ed Regan placed second. Dave Notarangelo as second in the 200 individual medley and third in the 100 breaststroke.

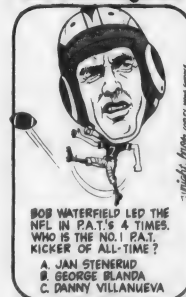

The Quincy and North teams will resume action Tuesday when the Raiders host Newton North at 7 at the Lincoln Hancock School pool and the Presidents go to Waltham for a 3:30 meet.

ANSWER: Blandia led NFL 6 times

Hancock St., Quincy Center, was among those attending the recent sports injury seminar held at Brandeis University under sponsorship of the Massachusetts Chiropractic Society.

The seminar covered proper conditioning of athletes, determination of the seriousness of an injury on the field of play, return of an injured athlete to competition, and effective rehabilitation of the injured athlete.

Many coaches, trainers and physical education teachers from throughout the state attended the gathering which was endorsed by the Council on Sports Injuries of the American Chiropractic Association.

convention of the Mayor, the City Council and the School Committee.

The ceremonies will be called to order at 10 a.m. by City Clerk John M. Gillis, followed by the salute to the flag and the National Anthem, sung by the combined Quincy and North Quincy High School concert choirs under the direction of Maurice Carboneau.

Then the combined choirs, this time directed by Gale M. Harrison, will sing "Oh, What a Beautiful City".

Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue will deliver the invocation, after which Gillis will call the roll of newly elected city councilors.

Tobin will then take the oath of office as Mayor and give his inaugural address, entitled "It Remains - A New Beginning".

The Rev. John D. Banks of Bethany Congregational Church will deliver the prayer followed by reflections from William A. O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society.

Mayor Tobin will swear in the City Council and the School Committee, who will conduct their organizational meetings.

The Broad Meadows Junior High School Choralers, under the direction of Marion V. Clancy, will sing "What's More American?" and the North Quincy High School band, under David Watson, will play "Earle of Oxford's Marche."

The program will conclude with Rev. William J. McCarthy of St. John the Baptist Church giving the benediction and the North Quincy band playing "God Bless America."

Items on the City Council agenda, in addition to election of a president, include election of a clerk of committees, adoption of the rules of the Council, and authorization for printing of the calendar and the rules.

General chairman of the Inaugural Day Committee is Robert Foley with Anne Stanziani in charge of graphic arts and Frank Glynn food coordinator. Shirley Tobin is co-chairman.

Swider Says Quincy, S.S. Must Grow Together

the northern tier of states and the other in the southern tier. The northern governors have different philosophies of life than the southern.

"But the New England Council was the first group ever to bring those six people together and help form the New England Governors Council so the issues are resolvable."

"What I'm most concerned with is a mentality which seems to come out of some of the problems of the early 1970's that New England is a loser. A recent study indicates that New England's basic problem is one of attitude."

"I see the Council as an organization that must start selling the philosophy that New England can solve its problems and that we should be aggressively pursuing the things we do best."

Swider's predecessor with the New England Council, Edward King, is leaving to run for governor of Massachusetts. Swider has no such ambitions.

"Arthur Tobin once told me that I'm probably the only pol on the South Shore who doesn't have to stand for re-election regularly. He's probably right."

"I don't want to be governor, congressman, senator or king."

"My goal has always been very clear. Most people who know me well know that my ambition is to be chief executive officer of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at some point."

And Eric Swider is pointed the right way.

S. Quincy Association Backs Harold On Adams Birthplaces

Members of the South Quincy Civic Association have voted to support City Councillor Paul D. Harold in his efforts to have the National Park Service take over the Adams Birthplaces on Franklin St., South Quincy.

Harold spoke at the Association's monthly meeting on the need to restore the two buildings at an estimated cost of $500,000 for roof, masonry and structural work.

He proposed that the property at 133 and 141 Federal St. be taken over by the Federal government and transferred to the Park Service to insure restoration and maintenance.

Ernest Aristide, president of the Association, said members are urging the people of Quincy and other civic groups to support Harold in his proposal.

The first book of matches was patented in Lima, Pennsylvania in 1892.

State Tax Refunds Await 'Lost' Quincy Residents

Santa Claus may be a bit late but for a number of Quincy residents he's waiting in the wings and the Massachusetts Department of Corporations and Taxation is trying to help him out.

The state has a number of income tax refunds it would like to disburse, but the Post Office has been unable to locate the tax payers at the addresses listed on their returns.

According to State Tax Commissioner Owen L. Clarke there are 5,956 taxpayers who have refunds totaling $387,324.65 due them. They range from a high of $9,039 to a low of four dollars.

More than two score Quincy residents are on the list, according to Clarke, and all they have to do is complete state tax form M-3911 and return it to the Collections Bureau, Room 330, Saltonstall Bldg., 100 Cambridge St., Boston, 02204. Copies of the form may be obtained at the department or at the District Office, 486 Forest Ave., Brockton.

A special telephone listing - 727-4459 - is also available to provide answers to questions taxpayers may have.

YMCA Sets Adults Winter Enrollment Clinics

The Quincy YMCA will hold its winter enrollment clinics for men Saturday, Jan. 7, and for women, Tuesday, Jan. 10, 6 to 9 p.m.

Any adults who wish to enter the fitness program must make an appointment with William Johnson and also obtain a medical clearance form from their physician before they can be tested. The class testing fees $20 for men and $15 for women.

The classes will be held on the new banked wooden indoor tract at the "Y". Primary purpose of the program is to improve the operational efficiency of the heart, circulatory and respiratory systems.

Clinic tests include an electrocardiogram, blood pressure, work capacity, flexibility, strength and body measurement tests. These tests enable professional staff to determine each individual's present level of fitness and to determine what level they should start for safe participation.

The workout schedule is as follows: Men: Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 7 to 7:45 a.m., and Monday and Wednesday 7:15 to 8 p.m. -- On Tuesday and Thursday there will be coed classes held, 7:15 to 8 p.m.

To make an appointment or for further information contact Johnson at the Quincy YMCA at 479-8500.

100TH ANNIVERSARY -- The South Shore Chamber of Commerce recently honored Boston Gear Incom International Inc. on the company's 100th anniversary. Boston Gear President Ian Dodds (left) accepts proclamation from Chamber President Charles Pearce at the firm's open house. The Chamber cited the fact that Boston Gear is the world leader in manufacturing standard stock gears, employing 600 people in this area. The ceremony marked the opening of the firm's new office building in North Quincy. The facility was made possible by the sale of the former headquarters to H. V. Shuster, Inc., and was financed through the Chamber's South Shore Economic Development Corporation.
